"TIMES" IN COMPLETE NEW DRESS

The results of several months of investigation and experimenting, made by The Times in an effort better to serve its readers, appear in The Times this morning in the form of a complete new type dress and new section headings, the latter somewhat simplified and improved, yet retaining the general characteristics of the headings long familiar to Times readers.

The new body type—that used throughout the news columns of this edition and to be used hereafter in all issues of The Times—is that selected by The Times following a nation-wide survey made with the co-operation of the American Optical Company for the single purpose of picking a type suitable for newspaper use, which would combine the qualities of maximum clearness, legibility, freedom from tendency to blur through filling up with ink, and beauty. The type selected and now in use by The Times received 3297 votes out of a total of 3766 cast by the eye specialists consulted.

In varying sizes, the new type is now in use in all parts of The Times with the exception of display advertising, where it is not required. The classified advertising, market tables and the like, where small type is employed, is the same type in reduced size as that of the news columns. The editorial page is set in the same type of a somewhat larger size.

For purposes of comparison, the parallel columns below show (on the left) the type heretofore used in The Times and in most other newspapers and (on the right) the new Ionic type which constitutes the new type dress of The Times. The same words are set in each case.

OLD TYPE

The new Ionic type is an exceptionally readable face. The openness of the rounded letters—the height and width of the lower case—the clear-cut capitals—the size and fullness of the figures—the absence of marked contrast between thick and thin strokes—the well-fitted units—the maximum letter-count—all of these things go to make this new type a most desirable newspaper face.

There are no "pin-holes" or sharp corners to fill up with ink; no fine lines to break down in stereotyping. The even color of the character is particularly adapted to the "roughness" of newspaper stock. The outstanding advantage of the new face is its conservation of vision. The even tone throughout is restful to the eyes without being monotonous. There is enough variation to avoid tiresomeness, yet not enough to be disconcerting. A happy medium has been effected.

MASK DISCARDED BY KLAN

Headquarters Issues Order That All Members Join "Knights of the Great Forest"

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22. (AP)—Official announcement was made tonight that the Ku Klux Klan had discarded the mask as part of its official regalia. In a copyrighted statement issued at the organization's headquarters here it was asserted that "in every Klavern throughout the nation" Klansmen tonight "forswore the mask and made it clear that the order has no political ambitions for itself or for its members." At the same time, the statement said that tonight's action was in preparation for "new and larger activities in our national life."

The statement quoted an edict from H. W. Evans, Imperial Wizard, as follows: "That on and after midnight of February 22, year of our Lord 1928, no mask or visor shall be upon the helmet of the regalia of any Klansman. It shall thereafter be unlawful for any Klansman to wear any mask or visor as part of his regalia and each Klansman who shall be unavoidably absent from the meeting of a Klan to be held through the invisible empire on the twenty-second day of February shall as soon thereafter as possible, attend a regular meeting of a Klan, and there become a member of the Knights of the Great Forest. That on and after the same date all Klansmen are for forbidden to fraternize with or remain in Klannish fidelity to any who shall thereafter wear upon his helmet, a mask or visor."

MINNESOTA NEEDS THAT EXTRA QUILT

Temperatures and Snow Fall and Wind Whistles; Death Toll Taken

ST. PAUL, Feb. 22. (AP)—Temperatures and snow fell together over the Central Northwest today, chased along by a stiff wind that turned the storm into a blizzard in some districts.

North Dakota and Minnesota saw moderate temperatures disappear with the expectation that subzero temperatures in the former State last night would extend to Minnesota tonight.

In Minneapolis ice-coated pavements polished to a slippery finish by a moist snowfall caused two taxicab-trolley collisions today, resulting in four deaths. A third street car plowed into a police automobile and injured three patrolmen.

In Southern Minnesota Albert Lea reported the thickest snowfall of the year, an inch of snow piling up in fifteen minutes.

Northwest Canada, where temperatures down to 20 deg. below zero were reported, sent a cold, brisk wind down into the States, piling drifts on many highways in Western Minnesota.

Hibbing, Minn., reported 2 above, while in that path of the rising wind northwest of here gradually falling temperatures were shown in all reports.

Follies Doomed, Says Ziegfeld

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22. (AP)—Florenz Ziegfeld said tonight that he did not think there would ever be another Follies.

The producer here in connection with the opening of a musical version of "The Three Musketeers," declared that actors' salaries and the cost of production made it virtually impossible to realize a profit on the Follies, and that he intended to devote his efforts to musical plays instead.

Then, too, he contended, he did not wish to be classed "with those responsible for the present-day vulgar revues."

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 22. (AP)—Plans are nearing completion for the lease of the steamships Mexico, Tamaulipas and Coahuila to the Tampico Stevedores Union, a co-operative organization. The organization is a rival of the Regional Confederation of Mexican Workers.

WINDY CITY IN TERROR

Mayor Thompson Fears Bombs

State's Attorney's Home Also Guarded Against New War of Dynamiters

Gambling Syndicate Blamed; Shotgun Squads Alert; Citizens Cower

CHICAGO, Feb. 22. (Exclusive)—The bomb situation in Chicago has become acute, so much so that the city, so far as the homes of the leaders of the Thompson-Crowe political machine are concerned, is tonight an armed camp with 300 policemen guarding against further bombings in the war of reprisals by gambling syndicates given the "run around."

The City Hall took notice following the explosion of bombs at the homes of Charles C. Fitzmorris, city comptroller, and Dr. William H. Reid, one of Mayor Thompson's Republican organizers on the South Side, which took place a month ago. It was frankly frightened when within the last week powerful tubes of dynamite were exploded in the homes of Judge John A. Sbarbaro, chief of the Thompson-Crowe forces in the Forty-second Ward, and Lawrence Cuneo, brother-in-law and secretary to State's Attorney Crowe.

Terror suddenly gripped the homes of the city fathers today when Daniel Seritella, city sealer, and former Judge Bernard Barasa, both Thompson-Crowe men, were anonymously notified that they were on the bombers' list.

CRY FOR PROTECTION

As a result of the latest move in the war, Chief of Police Michael Hughes, a Thompson appointee, was deluged with requests for police protection. The Chief ordered details stationed at the home of State's Attorney Crowe, at Mayor Thompson's Sheridan Road residence, at the home of City Sealer Seritella in Dayton street, at former Judge Barasa's house, and in a score of other places.

In addition to the above-mentioned details, zone squads, their shotguns alert, were roving the streets of the city with orders to keep a lookout for "suspicious-looking" automobiles, and to pick up men with records or reputations as bomb tossers.

A significant move, however, was that State's Attorney Crowe, Chief Hughes, Sheriff Graydon, Deputy Police Commissioner O'Connor and other city officials were reported tonight to have gone into a star-chamber session to map out ways and means to end the virtual reign of terror.

Sheriff Graydon, reached at his home tonight, and asked about this secret session, laughed and said: "Why, I've just got in from Hot Springs. This secret session is all news to me. I don't know a thing about these bombings."

HE PLACES BLAME

After a conference with Chief Hughes, Frank J. Loesch, head of the Chicago Crime Commission, said:

"My inference from the bombings is that the State's Attorney's office and the police ought to know who is responsible. My inference is that it is within the power of the State's Attorney's office and the Chief of Police to find the source of these bombs and run down the conspirators. This must be done. Our people are being terrorized.

"Unless this series of bombings is stopped there is only one thing of which we may be certain—that sooner or later some one will be killed."

Mr. Loesch said, however, that his conference with Chief Hughes threw no light on the "pineapple tossing" which has made it unhealthy to live in the vicinity of a Thompson-Crowe leader. He reconstructed his conversation with Hughes as follows:

"What do these bombs mean?"

"I don't know." Hughes replied.

"Would it not be possible to get a line on the sources of these bombs from the men bombed? Isn't it possible that the rumors are true that

We are not letting 'em all come like they used to: it's restricted immigration now. This State has been trying for seven straight years to get an election held to vote bonds for roads. The election requires half the voters to vote. Well the roads have been so bad they have never been able to get the voters to town. So now they have called an election for the month of May. That gives them an entire month to come on horseback and vote.

ELECTRICAL AUTOMATON VERSATILE

"Mr. Televox" Responds to Whistle Signals With Intricate Performance

NEW YORK, Feb. 22. (AP)—A mechanical man, capable of "hearing" orders transmitted by telephone, tonight climaxed a demonstration of his versatility by unveiling a painting of George Washington.

The mechanical man, introduced to the members of the National Masonic League Level Club as "Mr. Televox," lighted lamps, started vacuum cleaners and performed other mechanical feats under the direction of his inventor, R. J. Wensley of the East Pittsburgh laboratory of the Westinghouse Electric Company.

Like a drill sergeant putting a squad through evolutions, Wensley directed his automaton by notes of a whistle blown in different keys.

Mr. Televox, on the stage, was connected with his master only through the telephone line. Connection was established when Wensley dialed the key number connecting his phone with one over the electrical ear of the mechanical man. Mr. Televox responded with a series of buzzes from the coils and wires that formed his vital organs.

When Wensley failed to give him instructions the mechanical man repeated his answering buzz, then broke the connection. After it had been restored Wensley blew a note on his pitch pipe into the telephone transmitter and Mr. Televox responded obediently.

Wensley explained that the flood lights and vacuum cleaner were used merely in place of machinery too large to assemble on the stage.

Pope Again Slaps at D'Annunzio

ROME, Feb. 22. (AP)—The Pope's disapproval of Gabriel D'Annunzio's works a few days ago is reaffirmed and enlarged on in a leading article in Osservatore Romano, official Vatican organ.

"It is useless," says the paper, "to try to conceal the fact that as socialistic propaganda has ravaged the masses in part, particularly the great centers, so the D'Annunzio mode has sown evil widely among the more cultured classes in high society and notably among studious youths in whose hands his novels—certainly not sought after for esthetic reasons—continue to circulate."

Stork Beating Reaper in Italy

ROME, Feb. 22. (AP)—Italy's population increased 444,000 in 1927 and 409,000 in 1926, says a bulletin of the Central Statistical Institute.

While the number of births decreased in 1927, the death rate also decreased, resulting in a net gain. Births in Italy for 1926 were 1,134,616 and for last year were 1,121,072. The deaths in 1926 totaled 680,074, while in 1927 they were 631,897.

Nearly 500,000 lire has been subscribed to a fund for scientific study of the population problem.

Premier Mussolini has accepted honorary presidency of the committee which will pursue the work.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22. (AP)—A proposal to eliminate forty-two commanders and lieutenant-commanders of the Staff Corps of the Navy was made to Congress today by Secretary Wilbur and a bill embodying the suggestions was introduced by Chairman Butler of the Naval Committee.

The measure would eliminate staff commanders and lieutenant-commanders by providing that if they are passed over by selection boards more than once they shall be ineligible for promotion. Officers of the Staff Corps who have become ineligible for advancement to the rank of commander or captain after twenty-one and twenty-eight years of service, respectively, would be retired under the bill.

Officers of ... Medical Corps and Supply Corps principally would be affected by the change.

Motorist Just Honks His Horn to Give Him Right of Way Under New System

BALTIMORE, Feb. 22. (AP)—A traffic semaphore with "ears" was pronounced a success by Inspector Lurz of the city's traffic police after a test in traffic today.

Installed at the corner of Falls Road and Belvedere avenue, the signal in normal position shows a green light to traffic on Falls Road, a through highway. A motorist wishing to cross the main highway stops at a line in the road ten feet from the intersection and sounds his horn. Microphones tuned to pick up the sound from this spot, reverse the signal for eighteen seconds to allow him to pass.

LINDBERGH IN MYSTERY AIR JAUNT

Hero and Four Friends Fly from St. Louis to Detroit; May Confer With Ford

DETROIT, Feb. 22. (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who left St. Louis in an airplane this morning, accompanied by four friends, for an unannounced destination, landed at Selfridge Field near here at 3:55 p.m. shortly before Maj. Thomas G. Lanphier, commander of the Army First Pursuit Group, arrived from Buffalo.

Col. Lindbergh declined to state the purpose of his visit, merely saying "my visit is a personal one. I want to drop out of public life for a while."

It is unofficially reported that arrangements have been made for a conference with Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor Company, on aviation matters.

DYNAMITING DNET DRAWN

Five Aqueduct Arrests Made

Inyo County Men Accused of Outrages Grilled by District Attorney

Sixth Warrant Still to be Served and Nine Doe Complaints Out

BY CHESTER G. HANSON
"Times" Staff Representative

INDEPENDENCE (Cal.) Feb. 22. (Exclusive)—Inyo county authorities cracked down on the alleged dynamiters of the Los Angeles Aqueduct tonight when five prominent residents of the Owens Valley were arrested and brought to Independence on charges of criminal conspiracy and dynamiting. Besides the five men arrested warrants were issued for ten other persons, nine of them being John Doe warrants.

JESS HESSION

Those arrested are: Maj. C. P. Watson of Big Pine, formerly employed by the government as an explosive expert; F. R. Spaulding, prominent resident of Bishop and secretary of the Owens Valley Protective Association, an organization formed to obtain reparations from the City of Los Angeles; Walter Young, widely known Bishop rancher who was considered right-hand man for the Watterson brothers, now serving sentences in San Quentin for embezzling funds of the Inyo County Bank; Will L. Smith, pool-hall operator and automobile dealer of Bishop, and P. G. Sexton, saw-mill operator of Lone Pine. They were released on their own recognizance after a conference with Dist.-Atty. Hession tonight and allowed to return to their homes. Arraignment is scheduled for tomorrow afternoon.

ARRESTED QUESTIONED

A warrant still waited to be served on Fred Napban, known as "The Turk," a former valley resident and now a stock buyer of Niles, Cal. Six of the remaining warrants were for John Does and three for Jane Roes.

The arrested men were brought into the county seat here by Sheriff Hutchison and his deputies and were taken immediately to the offices of Dist.-Atty. Hession where they were undergoing a thorough grilling at a late hour tonight.

The warrants are based on a complaint issued on orders of Dist.-Atty. Hession and signed by J. N. Pyles, head of the Pyles detectives, who has been conducting a six months' investigation into the dynamitings and other outrages against the city's water system.

Immediately on the issuance of the warrants for arrest by Justice of the Peace Piercy, Sheriff Hutchison and a number of deputies scattered up and down the valley in automobiles to make the arrests.

The complaint carries charges of three separate offenses of criminal conspiracy, felonies and one offense of maliciously using dynamite.

It is charged that the defendants on or about June 5, 1927, entered into a criminal conspiracy to "cut, break and destroy the Aqueduct by placing, igniting and exploding dynamite, nitroglycerin, vigorite, giant powder and other chemicals and explosives" against it.

LONE FLYER REACHES GOAL

Anzac Lindbergh Breaks All Records Between England and Australia in Tiny Plane

[Copyright, 1928, by New York Times.]

LONDON, Feb. 22. (Exclusive)—Five aviation records were broken today by Harold "Burt" Hinkler, Australian flyer, when he landed in his collapsible one-man airplane at Port Darwin, Australia, after fifteen and a half days' flight from Croydon. He had accomplished the longest solo flight ever made; the longest flight in a light plane; the first nonstop flight from London to Rome; the fastest journey from England to India, and had cut twelve days from the previous record of flying from England to Australia.

His feats were hailed here today as worthy to set beside Lindbergh's historic crossing of the Atlantic. British leaders of statecraft as well as aviation are calling it "a landmark in the progress of the empire united," and it is expected the young flyer, nicknamed "the human bird" because of his habit of singing while at the controls, will receive the knighthood which was awarded Cobham, Ross and Keith Smith, and other pioneers of British aviation.

Scarcely had news of Hinkler's exploit reached England when Sir Selton Brancker, air vice-admiral, announced a timetable was being worked out here for regular seventeen-day service of larger passenger mail planes between England and Australia and ten-day regular service between England and Capetown, South Africa.

FEAT HELD UNIQUE

There were numerous striking features of Hinkler's exploit, making it unique in the annals of aviation. In the first place his plane has collapsible wings, capable of being folded back so that the machine can be housed in an average garage. It has a special undercarriage, so Hinkler required no help of mechanics in wheeling it

COOLIDGE JOINS VIRGINIA'S TRIBUTE TO WASHINGTON

Throng at Historic Carlyle House to Shake Executive's Hand; Parade Review Follows

ALEXANDRIA (Va.) Feb. 22. (AP)—In the historic Virginia city where George Washington attended church, President Coolidge participated in a celebration today commemorating the birth of the father of our country.

Surrounded by officials of Virginia's government and many others from Washington, the President stood for more than an hour in historic Carlyle House shaking hands with the throng that packed into Alexandria and then reviewed a long parade of military and patriotic units.

A salute of twenty-one guns greeted Mr. Coolidge when he landed at the naval torpedo station here from the Presidential yacht Mayflower and a considerable crowd waved to him as he proceeded along elm-lined streets where Washington once trod, on his way to Carlyle House. There fully 2000 persons crowded around the entrance to the building and caused a momentary confusion while officials decided who was to get in first to shake the President's hand.

HARSH WORDS PASSED

Some harsh words passed between waiting dignitaries and the official guarding the door and one member of Congress who was barred while a group which called itself Gov. Byrd's aides, passed in, demanded to know "if House members are going to get in or be insulted." A number of Mr. Coolidge's immediate party were caught in the jam, including C. Bascom Slemp, formerly the President's private secretary and himself a Virginian, who was obliged to identify himself before he was admitted.

At the height of confusion, Representative Bloom of New York rushed to the doorway to use his influence in making peace.

Meanwhile, Mr. Coolidge stood with Gov. Byrd of Virginia and Mrs. Byrd in a hall historic for its associations with revolutionary times, welcoming those in the halting line. Ultimately members of the national House of Representatives and the Virginia State Legislature were admitted and were followed by a steady stream of Virginians.

The President was forced to abandon handshaking after 1800 had filed by in order to be at the reviewing stand in time for the parade. There he watched units of the Army and Navy from Washington, marines from Quantico and the State militia march by.

When the parade was nearly over he returned to the Mayflower for the trip back to Washington, less than ten miles up the Potomac.

OFFICIAL ESCORT

Accompanying Mr. Coolidge were Senator Swanson, Representative Moore and former Representative Carlin, all of Virginia, Mr. Slemp and Everett Sanders, the President's secretary. Senator Glass of Virginia was unable to go because of a slight foot infection and Mrs. Coolidge had decided to remain at the White House for fear her cold would be aggravated by the trip. Atty.-Gen. Sargent met the President at Alexandria and returned to Washington with him on the Mayflower.

The celebration today is a forerunner of the gigantic country-wide observance of Washington's 200th birthday anniversary to be conducted in 1932 under government auspices.

A year ago the President opened plans for this celebration with a speech before Congress.

HERRICK SOUNDS NEW NOTE IN WASHINGTON

PARIS, Feb. 22. (AP)—George Washington has been humanized by the new school of historians, Ambassador Herrick tonight told members of the American Club of Paris, assembled to honor the birthday of the first President. The new school of "debunking" historians has performed a real service, said the Ambassador, in "bringing Washington nearer to us."

"Happily, through the so-called 'debunking process,' he asserted, "Washington emerges with a depth of humanism that even our previous extravagant fancies had failed to attribute to him. Under the microscopic gaze of the scientific approach he appears humanized to a degree that arouses anew our admiration, praise and devotion, for he is revealed as possessing the same human failings and as beset by the same temptations as you and I. Instead of this detracting from our veneration of him, he seems brought closer to us."

WASHINGTON MEMORIAL CHURCH GROUND BROKEN

VALLEY FORGE (Pa.) Feb. 22. (AP)—Ground for a $10,000,000 Washington Memorial Church was broken here today on the site of Gen. Washington's historic encampment. The structure, conceived by Dr. W. Herbert Burk, rector of Washington Chapel here, will be erected by popular subscriptions, with contributions invited from every section of the United States.

More than 1500 Boy Scouts assembled for the ceremonies.

Dr. Burk recalled that it was just 150 years ago that Washington spent his forty-sixth birthday anniversary here.

Plans for the memorial church call for a structure 426 feet long and 102 feet wide, with towers reaching 216 feet in the air.

CHICAGO FEARS MORE BOMBINGS

the gambling privileges form the basis for this war of destruction?"

Mr. Loesch's leading question got nowhere.

ALWAYS GAMBLERS

"I didn't know there was any protected gambling," replied Hughes. "Of course, there always will be some gambling in a big city."

"That I'll admit,' said Mr. Loesch, "but I won't admit that we'll always have protected gambling."

Mr. Loesch said he went to Chief Hughes "to get some light on the conditions which are scandalizing Chicago."

"I found," he said, "that the police, according to the Chief, are absolutely up against a stone wall, that they have no idea where these dynamitings are coming from, although the Chief said his men are working day and night in a hunt for a clew."

Mr. Loesch announced he had called a meeting of the Crime Commission for Thursday, March 1, to discuss the bombings.

The situation is without parallel in the history of the city. Old timers, whose memories run back nearly fifty years to the election of Carter H. Harrison, Sr., in 1879, say that in all that time there has been no occasion for police guards around the residences of the Mayor, the Chief of Police, the State's Attorney and other public officials to protect them from bombers or other criminals.

Meanwhile many leaders of the Thompson-Crowe organization, apparently taking no chances, are reported to be so terrorized that they plan to send their families out of the city.

STATUE HEAVES WISTFUL SIGH

No One Places Wreath on Washington's Monument In Trafalgar Square

LONDON, Feb. 22. (AP)—The George Washington statue in Trafalgar Square seemed to droop just a little today as time passed and no one appeared with a birthday remembrance. It was the first time that the large bronze figure failed to have a wreath placed on it on Washington's Birthday since it was erected in 1921 in front of the National Art Gallery. It overlooks the equestrian statue of George II, the Nelson column and statue of the ill-fated Charles I.

The Washington statue was the gift of the Commonwealth of Virginia to Great Britain and Ireland.

spiracy to dynamite and actually dynamiting the Aqueduct and "conspiracy to intimidate and terrify human beings."

Although the complaint does not state what particular dynamiting job or jobs the defendants are charged with, the date in the complaint June 5, 1927, is the date on which the Cottonwood power plant on the Aqueduct about twelve miles below Lone Pine, was dynamited.

The so-called Cottonwood power plant dynamiting occurred at 1:30 a.m. June 5, 1927. A large blast of explosives tore out the side walls of a great open concrete conduit of the Aqueduct about 125 feet from the power plant and only a few yards from a settlement of Aqueduct employees.

The dynamite blast apparently had been placed by experts, but the charges failed to do the damage intended. The charge was placed in a drainage ditch which ran under the main line of the Aqueduct, and it was believed that the perpetrators of the outrage hoped to blow out a huge section of the main line.

REPAIRS MADE

Homes of the power-plant employees were shaken but not damaged and no one was hurt. It was believed that the dynamiters failed to place the charge far enough into the drainage ditch. At any rate, workmen were able to repair the damage done before any great loss of water took place.

At the time of the Cottonwood dynamiting, it was said that city guards had passed the spot where the dynamite was placed a few minutes before the fuse was ignited, but the guard declared later that he had seen no one, nor did any of the power plant employees notice any of the dynamiters. The Cottonwood explosion was the third blast to wreck the Aqueduct since May 27, 1927, and the fifth since the Aqueduct war started.

The issuing of the complaint and the warrants against the accused came at the end of a day that furnished the valley with plenty of excitement and tense feeling. Until the Los Angeles papers arrived here this morning only the investigators were aware that Dist.-Atty. Hession had obtained the confessions of three men implicated in the dynamiting of the Aqueduct and had named others. Throughout the day speculation was abroad as to those named by the men who confessed.

PYLES THREATENED

Something of a sensation developed during the day, when it was learned that Pyles had received a death threat, which read, "If Pyles isn't careful he'll get a dam site worse than he got in Taft."

While working on a criminal investigation in 1922 in the Bakersfield country, Pyles picked up the trail of the "hooded mob" and proceeded to make things uncomfortable for them. One night he was taken out by some of the hooded "order," hung up and unmercifully beaten. He was told if he did not "get out" he would be given something worse. He stayed around long enough to run a bunch of the mob into the penitentiary.

Issuance of the warrants late today followed an all-day conference between Hession, Pyles, J. Clark Sellers, Sheriff Hutchison and his deputies during which a part of the great mass of evidence laid before Hession by Pyles and Sellers was gone into further. Today's warrants are expected to be followed as quickly as possible by warrants for others, said to be implicated in the dynamitings.

What part the women whose arrest is called for played in the conspiracy and dynamiting was not disclosed by the officials.

Goodwin Fight Gets New Help

MONCTON (N. B.) Feb. 22. (AP)—The fight of the Canadian Legion, British Empire Service League, to save Phillip Goodwin, Canadian war veteran and former clergyman from the gallows in California, has received the financial support of the Moncton branch.

Goodwin is facing a second trial at Santa Ana on a charge of killing J. J. Patterson, Los Angeles broker. He once was convicted and sentenced to death, but the defense committee says it has unearthed new evidence throwing an entirely new light on the killing.

More than $5000 has been spent in the veteran's defense by Canadian organizations, but a further $2500 is required.

Christmas Oil Head Sentenced

FORT WORTH (Tex.) Feb. 22. (AP) Burton Christmas, president of the Christmas Oil Corporation, today was sentenced to a year and a day in the Federal prison at Leavenworth and fined $5000 in connection with activities of his company. The defendant pleaded guilty last week.

"The activities of the company are even more fraudulent than the Dr. Cook case," Federal Judge Wilson said in passing sentence.

CHILD IN HOSPITAL BELIEVED POISONED

OAKLAND, Feb. 22. (AP)—Grace Jordan, 11-year-old daughter of Mrs. M. A. Jordan, is ill in a sanatorium today and police are investigating the possibility of her having been poisoned. The girl said that during recess at the Cement school yesterday a stranger gave her some chewing gum. An attempt was made about two months ago to kidnap the girl's brother Robert from the same school.

LEAGUE WOULD GIVE KING AIR

But Phrase Meaning Differs from American Incident of Earlier George

YOUNGSTOWN (O.) Feb. 22. (AP)—The American League for the Enforcement of the Radio Act, which seeks elimination of 350 broadcasting stations, today sent a letter to King George of England expressing sympathy for the British monarch, who recently was quoted in press dispatches as being unable to get Berlin on his Buckingham Palace radio owing to interference of London stations.

The letter informed the King that the league had called a "listeners' strike" because of congestion of the air, and suggested that he and other dissatisfied English listeners might do likewise.

BRITISH FLYER REACHES GOAL

about various landing fields on the journey. It has been much as Lindbergh's one-man performance.

Hinkler used the same plane in various jaunts over Europe, racing it in numerous competitions. It is a standard model Avro Avian, twenty-six-foot wing spread, propelled stock, thirty horsepower Cirrus engine. Its cruising speed is between ninety and 100 miles an hour. The plane costs less than higher-class automobiles — about $3000—and the expense for gasoline, meals and hotel accomodations on the Australian flight are said to have been under $250, or less than it would cost to go to Australia by a first-class boat. The boat trip from London to Freemantle, the nearest Australian port, takes thirty-two days.

NOT TAKEN SERIOUSLY

Hinkler's flight surprised everybody here. When he left Croydon at dawn the 7th inst. to go to Australia few thought he would arrive. He had started once and failed, but after he reached Rome in a nonstop flight, Lloyds, which refused to believe the young man and thought he would not reach his goal, sat up and took notice.

The day before the start Lloyds was willing to grant a policy which would have netted Hinkler $12,000, for a $750 premium. Hinkler let the chance go. He was more interested in accomplishing the stunt of flying to the home of his widowed mother in Bundaburg, Australia, where he is due Friday. He had promised her in 1926 that the first chance he got he would fly to see her.

Dispatches tell of plans for his home town triumphal reception there Friday with bells ringing, bands playing and clear way made through the streets for the flyer to land exactly at Mrs. Hinkler's door.

The distance Hinkler has flown is about 10,000 miles in a straight line, but nearer 12,000 by the "great circle" the airman followed. The last lap was 1000 miles across open sea from Sumbawa, Dutch East Indies. This was the most anxious part of the flight, according to a radio message from Hinkler. The message reads in part:

THE ANXIOUS PART

"Australia at last. I arrived at Port Darwin after five hours flying over the open sea. This was the most anxious part of the trip for I was warned of rainstorms breaking all along the route and at Bima I went over my machine with a flash lamp while rain poured on the ground and lightning lit the nearby jungles.

"But despite occasional storms the engine ran perfectly and never missed a beat despite her thousands of miles. Throughout the crossing I saw no ship. The sea absolutely was deserted. But after five hours I saw the coast of Australia and glided down on the airdrome which was packed with a cheering crowd."

Mrs. Hinkler sat up all last night to get news of her husband's arrival.

"I am the proudest woman in the world," she said today.

Tennessee Gets Jackson's Will

NASHVILLE (Tenn.) Feb. 22. (AP) The last will and testament of President Andrew Jackson, through a County Court decree, has been surrendered to John Trotwood Moore, State supervisor of libraries, history and archives of Tennessee, and Jackson historian, that it may be kept from fire hazard.

A will purporting to be the last will of "Old Hickory" was sold recently through an eastern catalogue auction house for $1500, but it is believed to have been one of two previous wills invalidated by this document, which was dated June 7, 1843, two years before Gen. Jackson's death, and probated during the July, 1845, term of Davidson County Probate Court.

The will was surrendered to the State archivist upon petition of Mr. Moore.

Gems Valued at $40,000 Stolen

NEW YORK, Feb. 22. (AP)—Jewels worth $40,000 were missing today from the Park-avenue home of Jonathan Ulkley, a paper broker. Police are convinced that the theft was an "inside job."

Investigation developed that the jewels disappeared between 3 and 4.30 p.m. yesterday from a second floor wall safe the combination of which was known only to members of the family and one maid, Ida Kaemfer.

Police said Miss Kaemfer is beyond suspicion.

REBELS LOSE IN THREE CLASHES

Four Die, Several Wounded Under Marines' Fire

Scout Plane's Machine Guns Rout One Band

American Patrols Escape Without Casualties

MANAGUA (Nicaragua) Feb. 22. (AP)—United States marines in three encounters with small bands in the Jinotega region within the last twenty-four hours have killed four rebels and wounded several without themselves receiving a scratch.

A scout plane killed two with its machine guns when it observed a small band east of Narajo, southeast of Jinotega. Near the same locality Capt. George T. Hall, whose base is at Estell, signaled to airplanes that he had killed two of a band he encountered while on patrol.

The third encounter occurred six miles from Homomico, between Jinotega and Matagalpa, where a patrol under Lieut. H. A. Shiebler surprised a small party. The rebels opened fire but the marines drove them away, wounding two and recovering some stolen property.

It is believed that all of these small groups of rebels may have been part of the band of seventy-five which recently took possession of the town of Trinidad for one night and plundered some of the stores.

The mariner are becoming more active daily, keeping the small bands on the move. The patrols now are operating day and night over a wide area.

Gen. Augustino Sandino himself was reported to be heading toward the east where it is reported a part of the population is more friendly to him and where there are fewer marines. The Nicaraguan National Guard, which was organised and is partly officered by marines, is to take over the policing of Managua in March. This will release marine forces for other work.

LOCKHART SAFE IN SEA PLUNGE

the short length of time remaining for the trials, which, to receive American Automobile Association sanction, must be made before the present speed carnival ends tomorrow afternoon.

HAD CAR WIDE OPEN

After two trips over the measured mile, up and down the beach, Lockhart was making the first run, northward. He had a start of several miles before entering the official stretch and was believed to have had his racer virtually wide open. Timers clocked him at the moment of the spill at 226 miles per hour.

Just what caused his machine to veer into the ocean was not immediately determined, but it is considered probable that a rough spot in the beach or any slight obstruction such as other drivers had encountered in previous tests was responsible.

To those who witnessed it, Lockhart's escape alive was considered miraculous, because of the double threat of instant death in the crash of the car and drowning. The little car was dented and revealed a definite sag in the middle of the frame, but mechanics' first estimates of damage to it ran from "total wreck" to "Not badly damaged."

Between 5000 and 6000 persons were in the stands when the accident occurred.

Lockhart was the only American left in the running for a chance at the new record of 206.9 miles per hour set here Sunday by Capt. Malcolm Campbell of England. Since neither he nor his machine will be in a condition to race again before the A.A.A.'s time limit expires tomorrow, the new mark will remain for the time, at least in England, where the previous record of 203.7 miles an hour also was held —by Maj. H. O. D. Segrave.

J. M. White, Philadelphia manufacturer, who had entered his thirty-six-cylindered triplex special in the speed event, was barred from competing by the American Automobile Association because an auxiliary reverse gear installed in his machine did not meet the official body's standards. This will not prevent him from making an unofficial run against time, which he has announced he probably will attempt.

INDIANA WILL CONTINUE KLAN FIGHT

INDIANAPOLIS (Ind.) Feb. 22. (AP)—The fight to oust the Ku Klux Klan from Indiana will go on regardless of the reported reorganization and change of name of the secret order, Atty.-Gen. Gilliom said here today. The Attorney-General recently filed suit in a local court seeking to have the Klan charter revoked and the organization placed in receivership.

Gilliom was in conference today with Hugh C. (Pat) Emmons, former Cyclops of the Klan, who in a deposition Monday told a tale of asserted political intrigue involving the Klan and naming the Indiana Anti-Saloon League and Horethief Detective Associations.

HAS MORE INFORMATION

"You haven't heard anything yet," Gilliom declared. "I shall continue to prosecute my case as long as the Klan holds its franchise to do business in Indiana."

Emmons said he had more information to lay before the Attorney-General and might offer a supplementary deposition.

Asked what he would do if the Klan withdrew its certificate of admission to do business in Indiana and if the newly named organization would seek a franchise, Gilliom said that he would depend on the attitude of Frederick E. Schortemeier, Secretary of State. Gov. E. D. Jackson was Secretary of State at the time the Klan was admitted to Indiana and approved the admission.

KLAN LEADER ABSENT

Joseph Huffington, representative of the Imperial Wizard in Indiana, in the absence of the regularly appointed Grand Dragon, was absent from the city today, according to word from his office and could not be reached for confirmation as to whether he had received an official edict reorganizing the order.

Dr. E. S. Shumaker, State superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, in a statement today denied that he or the league had "ever been, directly or indirectly, connected in any way whatever with the Ku Klux Klan."

Emmons in his deposition quoted Dr. Shumaker as saying at a South Bend meeting in 1926 that the Klan, the Horsethief Detective Associations, Indiana Anti-Saloon League and all Protestants must work together. He quoted the league leader as saying that "we should go down the line for Arthur Robinson." (Arthur R. Robinson, Indiana's Junior United State Senator.)

Briton Denies Quota Bars in Actress' Case

LONDON, Feb. 22. (AP)—There is no quota system governing the number of American artists allowed to appear in Great Britain, Sir Arthur Steel-Maitland, Minister of Labor, said today in replying to a question in the House of Commons regarding the case of Miss Alden Gay, American actress, from appearing in a picture. The labor minister stated the reason he was unable to advise Miss Gay be permitted to work was because the producer did not specify him that every effort had been made to obtain the services of a British artist for the part.

Secretary Steel-Maitland added that a number of foreign artists did appear in England and that the question of labor conditions in employment question with the artistic point of view is a complicated one.

TINY HELICOPTER WILL BE TRIED

Nikola Tesla Given Patent on Flying Machine Weighing Only About 500 Pounds

NEW YORK, Feb. 22. (AP)—Patents on a helicopter which would have a wing spread of only eight feet and weigh 500 pounds, have been taken out by Nikola Tesla, his attorneys have announced here.

His plane would take off vertically and then by mechanical means would be turned in the air until the lifting propellor would be at right angles to its climbing position and draw the machine through the air laterally or at any other angle the operator wished. It would be powered by a turbine engine capable of developing tremendous power for short periods.

W. A. Riddell, Canadian representative, expressed the opinion that any increase or elaboration of obligations should await progress in solving the problem of the possible attitude of neutral states not members of the League. Canada favored commissions of conciliation and investigation as distinct from arbitration.

The German delegates put forward these concrete proposals tonight. These are that members of the League, parties to a dispute, shall agree in advance, (1) in case of a dispute to accept provisional recommendations for preventing the extension of such dispute; (2) in case of danger of war, to accept the League Council's recommendations for re-establishment or maintaining the military status quo existing normally in peacetime; (3) in case hostilities have broken out to accept the Council's recommendations for an armistice.

A drafting committee of twelve was appointed.

Gates to Avert Recurrence of Peralta Affair

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 22. (AP)—Latticework gates probably will be placed on the ferryboats Peralta and Yerba Buena to keep passengers forty feet from the bows and thereby prevent recurrence of the Peralta accident, Key Route officials announced today.

John K. Bulger, supervising steamboat inspector, has ordered the Key System Transit Company to discontinue use of the fifty-ton ballast tanks, "because they are not required for safety and have nothing to do with the stability of the ships."

The list of missing from the thirty passengers who were swept overboard last week into the bay remained at five today. A woman's body sighted floating in the bay had not been recovered.

Union Row Leads to Chief's Arrest

WAYCROSS (Ga.) Feb. 22. (AP)—R. E. Edrington, assistant grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, was arrested here today on a charge of violating a temporary court order restraining him from expelling local members of the organization.

The restraining order was issued several weeks ago when Edrington came here from Cleveland in connection with the formation of a "protective committee" by the local, which brought charges against national officers of the brotherhood in a circular letter to members.

CANTON VICTORS DECIMATE REDS

Many Hundred Communists Reported Executed

Lives of 600 Captured Girls Spared, However

Chinese Unionists at Amoy Threaten Boycott

SHANGHAI, Feb. 22. (AP)—Dispatches from Canton say that 1700 asserted Communists have been executed by troops after their capture east of the city on the 20th inst.

Cantonese also captured 600 members of a girls' Communist corps, but these have not been executed. North of Canton 800 Reds were made prisoners and hundreds of rifles captured.

Pang-Pai, widely known Communist organizer in Fukien Province, is stated to have been murdered in his native town by villagers, who photographed his corpse and then cut it into ten pieces for general distributio nand exhibition. His head was sent to Canton with the idea of discouraging Red activities.

The Central Bank in Canton has repudiated all notes issued prior to 1928 and is issuing $1,000,000 Mexican in new notes.

ARMY OF COMMUNISTS BESIEGING KWEILIN

CANTON, Feb. 22. (AP)—Fourteen thousand Communists from the Province of Hunan are reported to have laid siege to Kweilin, the old capital of Kwangsi Province, and the city's capture is believed imminent.

The government of Canton is rushing all available troops toward Kwangsi, denuding Kwantung of troops which have been loyal to the Canton regime. It is feared that this may expose Kwangtung to renewed Red activities.

WU'S SUCCESSOR SEEKS REVISION OF TREATIES

SHANGHAI, Feb. 22. (AP)—Abolition of the present "unequal" treaties with the powers will be the primary function of his labors, Gen. Huang-Fu, new Minister of Foreign Affairs for the Nanking government, stated today on his inauguration.

Huang-Fu, who was acting Minister of Foreign Affairs in the Peking government in 1923, succeeds Dr. C. C. Wu, who is now en route to Europe and the United States as head of a mission which seeks revision of the treaties.

CHINESE UNIONS STIR UP TROUBLE OVER SHOOTING

AMOY (China) Feb. 22. (AP)—The Chinese labor unions, which have threatened a boycott of American goods as a result of an incident growing out of the shooting of a Chinese boatman by an American steamship officer, have refused to accept the compromise on their original demand for a formal apology by the American Consul, punishment of the American and an indemnity.

Harvey Lee Malbourne, American Consul, acting on the instructions of the United States Shipping Board, offered $5000 Mexican for the death of a Chinese boatman who was accidentally struck when the American officer fired at a Chinese asserted to have been stealing flour from the steamship Edmore on the 9th inst. The Chinese refused this offer.

The United States destroyer Buiwer is scheduled to arrive here tonight from Manila in connection with the incident.

SENATORS RAP JUDGE

Federal Jurist in Indiana Criticised Over Injunction in Strike

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22. (AP)—Some temperate but positive criticism of Robert C. Baltzell, Federal judge in Indiana, was voiced today by members of a Senate judiciary subcommittee as they brought to a close an inquiry into the Indianapolis street railway strike injunction case.

Senator Norris of Nebraska, Republican independent, chairman of the committee, declared that on the case as it was made today by W. H. Latta, counsel for the Indianapolis Street Railway Company, he does not believe Judge Baltzell should have issued the injunction restraining two union organizers from advising the street railway employees to strike.

Senator Walsh of Montana, Democrat, contended the Clayton Act had been violated by the judge. Albert Ward, Federal District Attorney for Indiana, called attention that the Circuit Court of Appeal had sustained Judge Baltzell.

QUESTION RAISED OVER COSGRAVE JAUNT BILL

DUBLIN, Feb. 22. (AP)—Sean O'Kelly, Republican member of Dail Eireann, today asked the government whether expenses of President Cosgrave's party on its recent American trip are to be paid from the public funds and if so by what authority. Finance Minister Blythe replied that the charge is on the public funds and that it can be debated at the proper time. Eamonn De Valera, the Irish Republican leader, who himself recently returned from a trip to the United States, was present at today's session.

Suspects Admit Part in Writing of Threat Note

MEMPHIS (Tenn.) Feb. 22. (AP)—Police announced today that A. J. King, 22 years of age, and J. C. Carlyle, 34, have admitted participation in the writing of a threatening note to Clarence Saunders, chain store operator, demanding $5500.

T. A. Bell, 28, also under arrest, is named by King and Carlyle as writer of the letter which was signed "The Three Ghostmen," and threatened "disaster" to Saunders and his family unless money was left under a railroad trestle the night of January 6, last. The men give Memphis addresses.

Soon after receiving the note, police say Saunders was approached by three men who asserted they knew something about the matter and asked to be hired as investigators. Saunders employed them and then had them shadowed.

The three were questioned separately today, not being permitted to talk to one another.

Pastors Fight; One Near Death and Other Held

TEXARKANA (Ark.) Feb. 22.—One preacher is near death while another is being held in jail following a street battle near the church late last night. The fight is believed to have been caused by a factional dispute in the church.

Rev. Thomas Pearson, traveling Pentecostal evangelist, is held under temporary bond of $500, pending outcome of injuries to Rev. C. H. Simms, Pentecostal pastor, at whose church Pearson has been conducting a revival for the last three weeks.

Mr. Simms is suffering from two knife wounds, one extremely dangerous. Mr. Pearson told police that he was attacked by Mr. Simms and four or five other men near the church after services had been concluded. Simms is in too serious condition to make a statement.

BERLIN BOWS TO ROYALTY AGAIN

Pompous Shades Dim Skies as King Visits Germans

Afghanistan Ruler, Decked in Gold and Braid, Feted

Ex-Crown Prince "Horns" in, Driving Red Auto

BERLIN, Feb. 22. (AP)—The people of Berlin had their first experience since the revolution in entertaining real royalty today when Amanullah Khan, King of Afghanistan, exchanged courtesies with President Von Hindenburg. The President towered over the small-statured Afghan ruler when he welcomed him today at the station as the guest of the German Republic.

Eager crowds thronged the route to Prince Albrecht Palace, which had been set aside as temporary residence of the King and his party. There was a noticeably large contingent of mothers who brought children too young to remember the pomp-loving time of the German Emperor—to see what a real king looked like. The colorful gold-braided uniforms of the Afghans drew many exclamations of admiration and the Queen's beauty came in for a good share of popular interest.

While the Queen rested after her journey, Amanullah Khan took tea with President Von Hindenburg at the executive mansion, where tonight a great banquet was held.

Fifteen gorgeous automobiles have been placed at the disposal of the visitors by the government. The former Crown Prince, who had not been officially invited to the festivities, became conspicuous by driving his red car with liveried chauffeur, through the thickest of the crowd around Brandenburg Gate. Cheers for the Afghan king mixed strangely with hurrahs for the former Crown Prince from groups of Royalists and hisses from those who resented his conduct.

There is a program of galla events, visits and receptions for the next three days. There will also be a deer hunt in World Park, next to Potsdam, one of the former Kaiser's favorite haunts, by invitation of the Prussian Premier Herr Braan.

SHARKS CHEATED OF PREY

NEW YORK, Feb. 22. (AP)—The thrilling rescue of a woman who had been swept by a storm into the shark-infested waters off the rock-bound port of Hamilton, Bermuda, was related today on the return of the liner California from a West Indies cruise.

Mrs. L. J. Rosser, wife of an Atlanta (Ga.) judge, was tossed from the deck of a harbor boat while returning to the California after a shore visit Saturday night. A sudden storm swept the water into a swirling fury, and Mrs. Rosser was thrown overboard, carrying with her a small wooden rail gate.

Unable to swim, and in imminent danger of sharks, Mrs. Rosser clung to the gate for half an hour until she was picked up by one of two lifeboats that narrowly missed destruction on rocks during the hunt in the darkness. Mrs. Rosser, suffering from lung hemorrhages induced by submersion, and shock, was taken ashore to a hospital, where her condition was reported as serious.

Four members of the lifeboat crews were injured in the rescue efforts, and clothing was torn from an unidentified young woman as she tried vainly to leap overboard in a rescue attempt.

Mrs. Rosser was lifted from the sea after two men had braved death in an unsuccessful effort to save her.

Raid on Mine Union Nets Six

WILKESBARRE (Pa.) Feb. 22. (AP)—Six men, all declared to have been armed, were arrested today when police invaded a meeting of local Union 1703, United Mine Workers, at Pittston.

The raid was the first step taken by authorities to round up gunmen accused of fomenting a feud in union ranks that has caused the killing of two Pittston miners within the last month.

The men were arrested as they were entering a mass meeting of the local called to consider the quarrel between the two union factions.

SOUTH DAKOTA POLITICS RAGES

Three Parties Name Proposal Men in Conventions

Separate Groups to Indorse Candidates March 6

Smith Backers Certain He Will be Selected

PIERRE (S. D.) Feb. 22. (AP)—South Dakota's political pot came to a full boil today with the compilation of lists of State proposal men chosen by Republicans, Democrats and farmer Laborites in yesterday's county conventions.

Meeting in separate conventions here March 6, these proposal men will indorse Presidential candidates, select State office nominees and formulate a platform.

Most positive of the several statements that were evoked by the action of the county conventions was the assertion by the "Smith-for President" committee that Al Smith is assured the Democratic Presidential indorsement in South Dakota.

Holton Davenport of Sioux Falls, State chairman of the Smith committee, said the New York man will have "at least 50,000 of the 85,000 votes" that will be represented in the State convention.

Principal interest in the State was in the Republican gubernatorial contest in which campaign managers for Charles M. Day, Sioux Falls editor, said he is "well ahead" in available returns. Besides Day, the Republicans in the Governorship race are State Senator Brooke Howell of Aberdeen, Buell F. Jones, State Attorney General, and E. G. Jones, State Auditor.

Only one candidate has announced himself in the Democratic gubernatorial race, James McNamara, State Senator from Beadle county.

DR. BUTLER WARNS PARTY NOT TO BLUNDER

JERSEY CITY, Feb. 22. (AP)—President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University, in an address tonight before the Hudson County Republican Committee, said he does not believe the Democrats unaided can elect the next President, but he warned that "Republican blundering might easily put it within their power to do so."

Asserting that signs indicate that the Democrats will nominate either Gov. Smith of New York or Gov. Ritchie of Maryland, and that "we must not underestimate" their strength, he said the Republicans must name a candidate who can keep New York, New Jersey and Massachusetts in the Republican ranks.

LATEST IN SEA RACE TO BE FIRST

Two Liners in Dash Across Atlantic Carrying Buyers From Paris With Last Whispers From Rue de la Paix for American Women

NEW YORK, Feb. 22. (AP)—Eastern fashions had a race from Paris to New York on the liners Olympic and Paris, both of which arrived today twenty-four hours late on account of rough weather.

Each carried 200 dress designers and buyers from all over the United States who had been attending the spring dress shows of Paris houses.

Both ships left France the 15th inst., the Olympic kept in the lead and reached quarantine first, but the Paris wriggled through quarantine first and docked an hour ahead of the Olympic.

Staterooms on both ships were piled with mysterious boxes containing Paris' most treasured secrets, and men and women designers were busy throughout the voyage designing gowns which will be rushed through workshops and sent by airplane throughout America.

There were fashion shows by day on the decks of both ships, and the dinners and balls revealed the latest ideas from the Rue de la Paix.

Not a knee showed beneath any of the late models displayed, skirts are decidedly longer and the evening gowns have skirts which are several inches longer behind. Black evening gowns in silk, satin, velvet and lace were much in evidence. There were many white evening gowns, and a generous sprinkling of pale greens and dull reds.

All the buyers had crystal jewelry. Necklaces of all sizes, bracelets, brooches and rings of crystal made the ballroom of the Olympic scintillate. The women who had real diamonds were overshadowed by the queens of Sheba in Paris' latest novelty ornaments. There were also ornaments in imitation rubies and emeralds, but the white stones were clearly the most favored.

NEXT PRESIDENT NAMED

Massachusetts Governor Picks Hoover or Smith; Democrats Told It's Al or Ku Klux Klan

BOSTON, Feb. 22. (AP)—The next President of the United States will be Herbert Hoover or Alfred Smith, men of "heroic ambition," Gov. Fuller, Republican, said in a Washington's Birthday address to the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston today.

"The public is better informed and therefore more independent of the old-time processes and influences than ever before," the Governor said. "For the future we must have a government that can be loved, not merely supported. We must have candidates of heroic ambition, devoted to the interests of the struggling millions, men determined to alleviate the misery of our industrial towns and mining districts.

"We must have men who because of their ideals or humble beginnings will be devoted to the interests of the people as opposed to the sinister influences which, operating behind the scenes, have played an altogether too important part in our national government.

"The next President of the United States will be Herbert Hoover or Alfred Smith. These men possess what I call heroic ambition, without which, Disraeli once said, no state is stable; lacking which the political life is a dish without salt, the crown a bauble, the church an administration, the Constitution a dream.

"If the Republicans put over some candidate nominated by the bosses in a back room at 2 o'clock in the morning and the Democrats nominate Al Smith, I believe Smith will be elected President of the United States. On the other hand, if the Democrats do not nominate Al Smith, they had better disband, or else recognize the party as a free-trade council of the Ku Klux Klan, with Tom Heflin as head Kleagle."

REED WITHDRAWS FROM DELEGATE RACE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22. (AP)—Senator Reed of Pennsylvania withdrew today as a candidate to be one of his State's seven delegates-at-large to the Republican National Convention.

Having already announced his candidacy for re-election to the Senate, Mr. Reed said in a formal statement that it "seems wiser not to have my name appear in two places on the same ballot." He urged selection of Secretary of Labor Davis as delegr ·.

WILLIS OPENS FIGHT FOR OHIO DELEGATES

YOUNGSTOWN (O.) Feb. 22. (AP) Declaring flatly against "international mindedness in the shaping of American foreign policy," Senator Willis addressed an audience of fellow-Ohioans tonight for the first time since battle lines were drawn between him and Secretary Hoover for Republican delegates from this State. In his prepared speech he made no direct reference to the Commerce Secretary.

The Ohioan, speaking at an American Legion Washington's Birthday celebration, reviewed his previously announced stand against foreign alliances, against further reduction or cancellation of foreign debts and for law observance.

PROGRESS REPORTED BY LOCAL HOOVER CLUB

The executive committee of the Hoover for President Club of Southern California assembled at luncheon at the Alexandria yesterday and reports of substantial progress were made. C. C. Teague of Santa Paula, president of the club, presided, and M. B. Silberberg, director, received reports from various committee chairmen. The discussion was along the line of getting out a huge complimentary vote for Secretary Hoover in the May Presidential primary, as well as taking a large California booster delegation to the Republican National Convention at Kansas City.

OHIO CHAMBER IN HOT WATER

Boulder Critics Scored Over Fight on River Issue

Director Tells Body It Has No Right to Meddle

Los Angeles Work at Capital Offsets Propaganda

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22. (Exclusive)—The recent action of the Ohio State Chamber of Commerce in broadcasting arguments against the Boulder Dam project has brought down upon officials of the chamber the criticism of many Ohio business men affiliated with the organization, it was learned here today.

Among those who have censured the chamber for intruding in the Boulder Dam situation is George H. Ross of Cleveland, president of the Nickel Plate Railroad and one of the directors of the State chamber. He has written chamber headquarters at Columbus asserting the action of the chamber was unwarranted, was taken without proper authority from its board and gives the appearance of a political move inspired by big corporations opposing Boulder Dam for selfish reasons. Anyway his letter declared the Chamber of Commerce of Ohio is not directly concerned in the far-West project and should not mix into it.

OHIO DIVISION REPORTED

Reports from Ohio indicate the sending out of the chamber's elaborate and expensive propaganda against Boulder Dam has caused a sharp division in the organization with one faction considering a demand that the stand taken against the project be rescinded. However, it is said such a move will not get anywhere if attempted as the business interests which dictated the anti-Boulder Dam resolution are too firmly in the saddle to be displaced.

Here in Washington, too, the Ohio chamber's gratuitous stand against the Colorado River improvement has received a none-too-favorable reaction and several Buckeye members of Congress are said to have written back to their State taking the chamber to task for meddling in the matter.

PROPAGANDA OPPOSED

The chamber's propaganda has been more than offset, it is declared, by proponents of the Boulder dam project, by the effective work of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and business men of Southern California in promptly and completely answering the Ohio arguments. In addition to counteracting the Ohio resolution among members of Congress and government officials the Los Angeles chamber is said to have established contacts with leading Ohio business men and to be working through them in an attempt to nullify the Ohio chamber's influence on the Boulder Dam question in its own State. The potential stake in the contest is the support or nonsupport of the powerful Buckeye delegation in Congress, but persons here in touch with Ohio politics say the State chamber's advice is not highly regarded by Ohio Representatives and will have no effect on their vote if the Boulder dam project comes to the floor of Senate and House this session.

The Senate Irrigation Committee continues executive hearings on the Swing-Johnson bill tomorrow with uncertainty still existing as to whether the committee will report the bill as its author demands without amendment or will override Senator Johnson and report out a compromise measure, or transfer the whole controversy to the floor of the Senate.

Mexico May Oust Prelate

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 22. (AP)—Rumors are current today that Jose Armora, bishop of Tamaulipas, arrested in hiding in Mexico City, will be deported. The absence from the city of Gen. Roberto Cruz, Chief of Police, has delayed decision as to what shall be done with the bishop.

It is understood that the police have discovered evidence implicating the prelate in propaganda against the government.

A DOCTOR'S ADVICE
GO LIGHT ON LAXATIVES!

Everyone needs a laxative AT TIMES. But there's no need for making it a HABIT. If you have the habit, you can be rid of it in thirty days. Or less! And this is how:

The next time you go to take any strong cathartic—don't. Instead, take a little cascara. That's not a vicious drug, but the bark of a tree. The laxative made with cascara couldn't harm a child. It is, in fact, the one cathartic many physicians will approve for children. Gentle as it is, cascarizing is just as thorough in cleansing the colon as the more powerful purges that actually sap a person's strength.

Proof that there's no habit from cascara begins the very day after taking. Instead of being clogged [illegible] the bowels are more inclined to [illegible] THEIR OWN ACCORD. [illegible] have to take cascara [illegible] tablish regularity. Be the [illegible] need this gentle stimulus [illegible] apart. And you NEVER [illegible] increase the amount.

Cascara's ideal form is the [illegible] caret that pleases any palate, [illegible] find them at the first drug [illegible]

He wrote 700 long-hand letters in an effort to get track of the man, and sent out 3800 circulars, giving his prison record, picture and information, to every police chief and institution for criminals in this country. He wore out two automobiles, using one 28,000 miles in trips around the black belt alone.

All this time he never wrote a line. He had police help whenever he needed it. Two officers were detailed by Commissioner of Police Hughes to work with him. He had the police grapevine working in all parts of the country, so that if his man should be picked up on a minor charge he would be notified. He faced what seemed utter defeat time and time again. Every clew failed. He spent more than $5000.

And then, at last, the thing ended. He had his man.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 22. (AP)—Diamond rings and watches valued at between $40,000 and $50,000 were stolen in a robbery of the Ideal Loan and Jewelry Company here today. The robbers trussed up two clerks in a rear room with a window sash cord and carried off three trays of diamond rings.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 22. (AP)—A highbrow was defined as "one whose learning has outstripped his intelligence," by Charles Vincent Massey, Canadian Minister to Washington, in the principal oration at the annual commemoration-day celebration of Johns Hopkins University today.

"Knowledge which can be used is the only knowledge. The university does not want to turn out highbrows," he said.

VOTE IN JAPAN NEAR DEADLOCK

Two Major Parties Claim Victory at Polls

Last Ballot May be Vital to Decide Contest

Government Faction Says it Has Victory

TOKIO, Feb. 23. (Thursday) (AP) The two major political parties of Japan appeared deadlocked as the last scattered returns from Monday's election trickled in today. Home office figures, the only official ones obtainable, claim a Seiyukai or government party victory by three seats, while vernacular press declares it is anybody's race until the last vote has been counted.

With some returns from Kyushu, southernmost of the main islands of Japan, still unreceived, the vernacular papers generally state that the result of the election is so close that either the Seiyukai or the opposition party, the Minseito, might win by one or two seats.

In either case it appeared certain today that the balance of power will rest with the fifteen independents and eight proletarians whose election is shown by the returns. The early lead of the Minseito, which had amounted to nearly a score of seats in the Diet, was wiped out by later returns from the rural districts and the Seiyukai obtained a lead of ten seats. Later returns cut this and left the final result in doubt.

TWO MINERS STILL HUNTED BY RESCUERS

NEW KENSINGTON (Pa.) Feb. 22. (AP)—Rescue workers, protected by individual breathing apparatus, labored throughout today and into the night in the tunnels of the Kinlock mine of the Valley Camp Coal Company, near here, in search of two miners unaccounted for after Monday night's explosion. Seven bodies have been removed and three others located.

SWEET TOOTH'S CAVITY GROWS

Sugar Demand Per Capita Increases Twelvefold Within Century

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22. (AP) Twelve times as much sugar is consumed by the average American of today as was used by his ancestors a century ago.

A survey of the sugar industry recently completed by the United States Beet Sugar Association discloses that the average per capita sugar consumption in 1927 was 107 pounds while in 1828 it amounted to only 8.8 pounds. The association predicts that if the consumption of this commodity should continue to increase at the same rate that by 1935 the average consumption will be 125 pounds per capita.

Twelve Sent to Jail as Result of Dog Racing

DENVER, Feb. 22. (AP)—Two officials and ten employees of the Denver Greyhound Racing Association yesterday were sentenced to serve thirty days in jail and fined $100 each when Judge Johnson in District Court at Golden, found them guilty of operating a place to be used for gambling. The charges against the men were filed last fall when a thirty-day dog-racing meeting was held.

Lucien G. Throckmorton, president of the association, and Richard M. Crane, former president of the Chamber of Commerce, a director, were the only officers named in the complaint. The remainder of the defendants were employees of the association.

Reader Dies Like Book Character

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 22. (AP)—A strange coincidence in connection with the death of C. H. Smith, 54 years of age, general manager of the Westinghouse Union Battery Company, who fell from a third-story window of the Pittsburgh Athletic Club today, came to light during an investigation of the fatality by city detectives.

They found lying on the table in Smith's room a book opened to a page which ended as follows:

"Forty years ago my daughter fell in love and wanted to marry against my will. She tried to escape from a room I'd locked her into and in trying, fell and was killed."

It was the belief that Smith had been reading the book just before he decided to retire early today. The theory that he fell while trying to open a window was advanced by police.

Sam Hill Favors Planting to Link Two Borders

Anyone Will be Allowed to Beautify Strips

NEW YORK, Feb. 22. (AP)—A memorial garden 2100 miles long fringing the Pacific Highway from the Canadian line to the Mexican border is a project sponsored by Sam Hill, president of the Pacific Highway Association, he said today when he returned from Europe.

It will be a memory garden for nations, States and individuals, he said, and anyone who wants to may plant a plot along it, as a tribute to any cause or persons whose memory he desires to perpetuate.

Hill, who was host to Queen Marie of Rumania when she visited this country, went abroad when he heard of the long illness of Loise Fuller, one time noted serpentine dancer, and a friend of Queen Marie. She died before he arrived.

He said he did not go to Rumania to visit Queen Marie as she has been in mourning since the death of King Ferdinand.

THREE MORE BIRDMEN SWALLOWED BY SPACE

OTTAWA, Feb. 22. (AP)—Government officials are of the opinion that three more names have been added to that long list of daring birdmen who have flown off into space, never to be seen again. Though search continues, little hope is felt that Flying Officer Lewis, Flight Sergeant Terry and the native who left the airbase at Port Burwell into the Hudson Straits five days ago still can be alive.

WOMAN IN PERIL BUT DOESN'T KNOW IT AND CAN'T BE FOUND

NEW YORK, Feb. 22. (AP)—Sought by advertisements and stories in the newspapers and an appeal broadcast by radio, Mrs. Margaret Dougherty today still was unaware that her life is in danger.

The woman, a former maid in the home of William A. Donaldson of Douglas Manor, Borough of Queens, was bitten by a white poodle of her employers two weeks ago, but left Donaldson's employ before the dog developed rabies, from which it died.

Mr. Donaldson advertised in the papers and sought the aid of police in finding the woman so that she might be given the Pasteur treatment. Commissioner of Health Harris ordered the appeal broadcast by radio.

NEWS OF SOUTHERN COUNTIES

MANY PLEADING FOR CANCER AID

Flood of Letters Daily for Donor of Fund

Fortune Declared Only to be Used in Research

Albert Fuchs Says Plans to Remain as Announced

SANTA MONICA, Feb. 22.—Besieged by letters and telegrams from all over the country, following his announcement on the 13th inst., that in memory of his dead wife, a cancer victim, he would devote immediatley $250,000 worth of Chicago property in the endowment of a cancer-fighting fund, Albert Fuchs, retired millionaire florist, stated today that his plan was not for contributions to individual cases, but for a comprehensive scheme of research into the disease, with labratory and hospital at Chicago.

"I have received more than 120 telegrams and 3100 letters, 390 coming yesterday," Fuchs stated. "Many of the letters come by registered mail, requiring a great deal of work to handle. Many of them are from cancer sufferers, or the relatives and friends of unfortunate victims, and the majority are so obviously sincere and honest that they waken deep sympathy; but my plan remains as I stated it originally. Only in this way can the fund do the most good for a maximum number of cancer sufferers."

The fine home of the former Chicago wholesale florist, at 130 Adelaide Drive, Santa Monica, overlooking a vast sweep of the coast, was literally overflowing with pleas from organizations, hospitals and individuals for financial assistance.

"I am getting ready to carry out my plan, but it takes a little time," Fuchs declared. "When certain Chicago organizations and men of unquestionable standing, with whom I am communicating, are ready, I am prepared to sign up, with no strings whatsoever on my offer."

SANTA MONICA BANK MANAGER TO LEAVE

SANTA MONICA, Feb. 22.—T. M. Perry, manager of the local branch of the Bank of Italy and president of the Greater Santa Monica Club, resigned both offices yesterday. Because of ill health he plans to leave this week for Rochester, Minn., for consultation at the Mayo Brothers' clinic. He will remain on the bank's advisory board, C. D. Francis becoming manager, according to a report. Perry also resigned as president of the Bay District Clearinghouse Association, but retained his connection with the Citizens' Mortgage Company. He has served in many other prominent capacities here, having been a director of the Community Chest and treasurer of the Bay Cities Music Association. He plans to keep his home in Santa Monica.

MIDWINTER FAIR PROPERTY SOLD TO IMPERIAL COUNTY

EL CENTRO—Property of the Imperial Valley Midwinter Fair Association today passed into the hands of the county Supervisors and if future fairs are held they will be conducted as county expositions.

Negotiations for the sale of the equipment used in the midwinter exhibit held at Brawley annually for the past seven years were completed at a conference between the association directors and the county officials.

Under the terms of the sale the Supervisors agreed to provide funds to cover a deficit of $4092 rebuilding from the exhibition last December. Stormy weather was given by the directors as the reason for their failure to pay expenses at the December show.

The Supervisors have made no definite announcement as to their plan for re-establishing the midwinter event as a county fair, but they are being urged by men prominent in valley affairs to continue the expositions.

The board purchased eighty acres of land adjoining the townsite of Imperial for airport and fair purposes several months ago and it is expected that this location will be used if the board decides to make the midwinter show a county institution.

HORSESHOE HURLERS WINNERS

Riverside City Hall Row Provides More Facilities for Pastime Over Protests of Citizens and Certain Board Members

RIVERSIDE, Feb. 22.—With the park board and the City Council locking horns in a clash from which neither apparently is willing to recede, Riverside devotees of horseshoe flinging are expecting to have ample facilities afforded them for indulging in their favorite pastime.

Until a short time ago the horseshoe hurling grounds were on a tract of vacant land between the Union Pacific and Santa Fe stations. Efforts had previously been made by the playground patrons to have their activities transferred to White Park, a recreation spot in the center of the city.

Opposition of the Council, park board and numerous residents, however, barred them from the park.

With the signing of an agreement between the two railroads and the city, arrangements were made for converting the railway horseshoe grounds into an ornamental park. It became necessary to find a new location for the players. The Council thereupon voted funds to turn city property at Sixth and Mulberry streets into a playground. This decision was made in the face of vehement protests that the location was not sufficiently central to be available to many of the horseshoe artists.

With the incoming of Mayor Dighton several new members were appointed to the park board, among them Judson House, wealthy retired capitalist, and J. H. Siler, both enthusiastic patrons of the horseshoe arena.

The new board this week voted to open White Park to horseshoe playing, and asked the Council for funds to make the desired alterations. The Council, however, today refused to approve this program and voted to continue with its improvement of the Sixth-street location.

After the Council session, leading horseshoe players announced that the White Park locale will be improved at private expense, and that, regardless of the money the city spends at Sixth and Mulberry, the park will be the chosen scene for horseshoe diversions.

Three Brothers, All Colonels, to Meet Again

GLENDALE, Feb. 22. — Three brothers, all of them former colonels in the United States Army, will hold a family reunion and an old-time Spanish "bull's head" breakfast at Riverside Drive and Columbus avenue, Sunday, March 4.

The three brothers, who have not met for forty years, are Col. Charles G. Stivers, M.D., of the staff of the Orthopaedic Hospital, Los Angeles; Col. Edwin B. Stivers, now in the customs service at Hyder, Alaska, and Col. Daniel G. Stivers, now head of the legal department of the Anaconda Mining Company, Butte, Mont.

The call has been sent out to members of the Stivers clan throughout Southern California, and it is anticipated that at least twenty relatives will be on hand for the breakfast, which will be reminiscent of the days when Spain was in the ascendant in California.

The lot on which the gathering will be held has been in the possession of Col. Charles G. Stivers for twenty-five years, and he recalls that it was far out in the country when he bought it.

DR. H. F. BOECKMAN STILL UNCONSCIOUS

PASADENA, Feb. 22.—Dr. H. F. Boeckman of 1690 North El Molino avenue, who was critically injured yesterday in the accident which killed Mr. and Mrs. George W. Patullo, was still unconscious tonight at the Pasadena Hospital and little hope is held for his recovery. Mr. and Mrs. George Mercy, the other two occupants of the car which was struck by a Santa Fe train at El Molino avenue, were reported out of danger today. An inquest will be held tomorrow at 9 a.m. at the Reypolds & Eberle undertaking rooms, where the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Patullo were taken. Funeral arrangements await word from relatives in Evanston, Ill., home of the couple.

Prof. W. B. Olds, head of the music department, says it will bring together some of the finest glee singers in the West and that the contest will probably be a close one.

Jurisdiction in Case Questioned

SAN DIEGO, Feb. 22.—The question of jurisdiction as between the local court and Los Angeles Superior Court came up yesterday in the case of Fred Fales, San Diego youth charged with a statutory offense. Two counts were contained in the original charge against Fales, and it was shown by his attorney, in local criminal court yesterday, that he had pleaded guilty to one of the charges in the Los Angeles court and won probation.

A jury was empanelled by Judge Shelley J. Higgins to try Fales on the more serious charge of the two, when Fales's attorney sought dismissal on grounds that the local court no longer had jurisdiction in the matter. The case was continued to tomorrow for ruling, following citation of authorities.

According to the showing in the local court, Fales had pleaded guilty to a charge of violating the Juvenile Court law, and had applied for and been granted probation. A complaint issued against him here in connection with the same alleged offense caused him to be taken in custody by the local juvenile authorities.

Just Didn't Like Looks of Youth and Biffs Him

VAN NUYS, Feb. 22.—A queer case came up for adjudication in the local court, winding up with William Grant getting a thirty-day jail sentence for disturbing the peace of Earl Henry, Robert Morton organ factory employee. The two were at a lunch counter in a restaurant when Grant suddenly took a wallop at Henry.

"What was the matter with you two fellows?" Judge Decker asked Grant, at the trial of the case.

"Nothing; never saw him before," Grant answered.

"What'd you hit him for, then?"

"Just didn't like his looks, yer honor, and I gave him a punch," Grant replied.

The jail sentence was then passed forth.

SUICIDE PROVEN

BAKERSFIELD, Feb. 22. (AP)—An autopsy conducted over the body of Ralph Parker, Wasco high-school student, Saturday morning by Dr. M. M. Kay of Shafter failed to reveal that the boy had been doped, chloroformed or beaten previous to the hanging. The examination had been ordered by Coroner N. C. Housee to make certain that the suicide verdict was accurate. Dr. Kay said the only marks found on the body were around the neck and where the ropes bound the boy's arms to his sides. Funeral services were conducted yesterday afternoon.

NOW IT'S TO BE DRESS-UP WEEK

Clothiers Plan Drive to Bedizen Mere Man

Men Scored for Ignorance in Matter of Attire

Fresno Meeting Closes With Election of Officers

FRESNO, Feb. 22. (AP)—Clothiers don't have to sell the idea of being properly attired to women, but they do have to with men to get the mere male out of the "one or two-suit class."

That thought was hammered home before the closing session of the Retail Clothiers,' Furnishers' and Hatters' convention here today and as a result there emerged plans for a California dress-up week to be observed from September 10 to 15.

Illustrating his talk with large cartoons, W. H Stansbury of Los Angeles, past president of the association, put man on the griddle of not knowing how to dress and not caring a whole lot.

The man who is attired properly makes a better impression socially and is more successful in his business than the man who buys his clothing without any particular attention to its effect on his personal appearance, Stansbury said.

Michael Grodin of Oakland, was elected president and Oakland was selected as the place of the 1929 convention at the closing session of the ninth annual convention here today.

The election of Grodin and all other nominees was by acclamation, the nominating committee headed by W. H. Stansbury of Los Angeles, presenting but one nominee for each office.

Other officers were elected as follows: First vice-president, Arthur Sweet, Riverside; second vice-president, Carl Steinhart, Stockton; third vice-president, V. C. Mattei, Petaluma; national director, Harry Coffee, Fresno, retiring State president; State directors, Lorne D. Middough, Long Beach; Sol P. Elias, Modesto; Ed Nesle, Glendale; Arthur Ramage, Oakland; John P. Evans, Pomona; A. R. Wallace, Berkeley; Arthur Threlfall, Stockton; Nadeau Bourgeault, San Francisco; W. H. Stansbury, Los Angeles; O. A. Nelson, San Diego, and Fred Elkus, Stockton.

Huntington Park Will Soon Vote on Propositions

HUNTINGTON PARK, Feb 22.—When the city election is held here on April 9, there will be two propositions to be voted on, the City Council having decided to place the proposed planning and zoning for the city, before the voters. There has been considerable agitation as to the proposed plans of the City Planning and Zoning Commission during the past few weeks, and it has been decided to place before the voters the question as to whether they wish the city zoned for certain classes of buildings.

The planning commission has spent about two years in this work and recently completed it, with the aid of Dr. Carl Aronovici, planning expert.

This will make the first proposition to be voted on at the coming city election, the other being a proposition to offer for sale 150 feet frontage on South Pacific Boulevard, on the site of the present City Hall. It is planned to dispose of this amount of frontage, providing the people so express themselves at the city election. If voted on favorably, and the 150 feet sold there will still be about seventy-eight feet frontage remaining, of which sixty-eight feet will be used as a site for a new City Hall and the remaining ten feet to go toward the proposed widening of Irvington avenue.

Fish, Game Life to Be Discussed

BAKERSFIELD, Feb 22.—Members of every Bakersfield civic and service organization interested in the conservation and rehabilitation of Kern county and California fish and game life will be urged to attend a community-wide meeting to be held March 6, next, under the auspices of the Bakersfield Exchange Club, at which time Eugene D. Bennett of San Francisco, executive director of the California Fish and Game Commission, will speak.

Acceptance of an invitation to appear before the Exchange Club was received today by Thomas W. McManus, chairman of the club committee in charge of the meeting March 6. Plans for making California the fish and game paradise of America, in accordance with the program proposed by Gov. C. C. Young, will be outlined here by Director Bennett, who, before accepting appointment to his new position, was assistant United States Attorney in Northern California.

County Physician C. T. Rosson is treating Coen, whose temperature continues high. The slayer is attended by a special nurse. Dr. C. R. H. Kjaerbye, alienist of Fresno, made a second examination of Coen yesterday.

Plan Uniform House Numbers in Bakersfield

BAKERSFIELD, Feb. 22.—A movement to bring out renumbering of scores of Bakersfield residences and business houses and to eliminate duplication of street names here, will be launched Thursday afternoon when a committee representing the Civic Commercial Association will make plans for a systematic survey of the city.

The committee, headed by Mel Hay as chairman, will meet in the offices of the Civic Commercial Association at 3:30 p.m. It is probable that the Council will be asked for an ordinance changing street names and numbers.

The committee, which includes Postmaster Roland Curran, Councilman Elmer Martin, Ed Hougham, Otis Hymer, Fred Fishering and Dr. A. M. Tuttle, was appointed by the Civic Commercial Association following a report by Postmaster Curran, who declared that in several districts of the city, residential numbers are so confused that efficiency in mail delivery is impossible.

MAN FOUND DEAD IN HIGHWAY POISONED

SAN DIEGO, Feb. 22.—Joe B. Garrett, 26 years of age, of San Ysidro, was found dead in a sedan on the highway near Palm City at 1 o'clock this morning, by Roy Hill, Chula Vista night policeman. Death was pronounced by Dr. J. J. Shea, county autopsy surgeon, who conducted post mortem examination, as due to poisoning. The body was found by the policeman when the latter responded to a telephone call from four youths. Homer Holcomb, Elden and Herman Pentzoldt and Joe Hart, who were understood to have been on some kind of "party," with Garrett, according to report, by the Coroner. Schuyler C. Kelly, the Coroner, added, that any inquest by him would depend on the finding of the post mortem. Garrett is survived by his mother and a sister, who arrived in this county recently from Tulsa, Okla. He operated a filling station near the border.

If the bonds carry, it is proposed to purchase eighty acres of land and install hangars, telephone, lights and other facilities for local and cross-country pilots.

HOLIDAY SWELLS CROWD

Attendance at National Orange Show on Kiwanis Day Sets Mark of 25,000; Citrus Institute Today

SAN BERNARDINO, Feb. 22.—Another great day of attendance at the Eighteenth National Orange Show was recorded today when a holiday crowd of 25,000 visited the exposition.

It was Kiwanian day at the show and 300 Kiwanians of Southern California clubs were guests at a banquet. Gov. W. O. Harris of the Nevada-California district clubs was the speaker, talking on constructive citizenship. The Kiwanians were guests of the orange show executives at the exposition during the afternoon, when a special program was arranged in their honor.

The San Bernardino High School glee club shared the day's concert program with the Long Beach Municipal Band.

The California Citrus Institute, held annually in conjunction with the orange show, will open at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow. On the program are the State's foremost citrus experts, including Clifford Dodds of Santa Paula, who will speak on control of the citrus aphis.

High Students Urged to Take Scholarships

VAN NUYS, Feb. 22.—Nearly 100 college and university scholarships to which San Fernando Valley high school students are eligible are included in a list that has been compiled and sent to Van Nuys, North Hollywood, and Owensmouth High Schools by the new San Fernando Valley University Club. This is the club's first step toward encouraging pupils to prepart for work in the more advanced institutions.

Miss Helen Davis, chairman of the scholarship committee has been collecting data about the scholarship funds available and has received information from a dozen or more Pacific Coast seats of learning relative to these opportunities. George Baird and Miss Olive Chadeayne are assisting in the work. Most of the scholarships included in the list are awarded on a basis of merit competition, though other methods of distribution are included in the awards of virtually all colleges as far north as Washington.

The next meeting of the university club will be conducted in the Porter Hotel on March 14, next, with Adolph E. Nordvold of Van Nuys as chairman of program, assisted by Miss Dorothy Reel and Kingsley Chadeayne. Later meetings will be conducted in various valley towns as all sections are represented in the large membership of the club.

Thinks Gophers Have Music Ear

VAN NUYS, Feb. 22.—Pete Chambers, foreman for the Pacific Electhis in this division, says gophers are lovers of music and that he has proved it by many observations.

"The moment a rail line goes into a new country," Chambers says, "gophers swarm to the right of way. Even after long experience I was puzzled over the fact. Later I found out that gophers live near an electric line either because they are attracted by the humming of the wheels over the track or by the singing of wires overhead."

Chambers also said that regularly gangs go along his line poisoning the rodents which soon come back in new droves in proportion to the amount of traffic passing over the rails.

Fresno to Probe Death Caused by Police Auto

FRESNO, Feb. 22.—Mayor Sunderland and Chief of Police Walker today opened an investigation of the fatal injury of Joseph Pedro, 38 years of age, a barber and bridegroom of a month, who was run down by a police car last night in which Dennis A. Lang and Joseph Smith, patrolmen, said they were chasing a reckless driver.

The accident occurred a few yards past the point where the police car passed a street car, and despite his efforts to swing the motor car to one side to avoid hitting Pedro, the victim walked directly into the side of the motor car, according to Lang's report.

The officers reported they were traveling about twenty-five miles an hour, their automobile having gained but little speed after having passed the street car. Chief Walker said his investigation revealed that Pedro did not see the police car and did not hear it because the warning siren was not being sounded.

Tulare County Will Regulate Aerial Traffic

VISALIA, Feb. 22.—Believed to be the first county ordinance in the State to regulate operation of aircraft within the county boundaries, Tulare county Supervisors in regular session approved such a proposed ruling. In addition to embracing air traffic rules of the United States Department of Commerce, the ordinance contains several other provisions of more or less local nature. It was given a vote of 3 to 2.

The new ordinance will become effective throughout the county in thirty days. A move to make the ordinance effective at once was blocked when it was found impossible to get a unanimous vote on the ordinance, which is required in order to alter the usual effective date period of thirty days. Supervisors Hausch of Visalia District, Larue of Dinuba District and Hastings of Terra Bella District voted for the ordinance.

WOMAN IN RACE

MONROVIA, Feb. 22.—Officially announcing her candidacy for City Treasurer, Mrs. Ines B. Smith, of 228 West Olive avenue, filed her nomination blank yesterday afternoon with City Clerk Lewis P. Black. CASE UNDER ADVISEMENT

Hearing of Manufacturing Company Against City for Alleged Unpaid Bill Completed

ONTARIO, Feb. 22.—Superior Judge Frank Leonard today took under advisement the case of the Pomona Manufacturing Company vs. the City of Ontario, in which the manufacturing firm seeks to collect slightly over $1000, alleged unpaid by the city on a lot of material purchased for the city by F. E. Alford, while he was city manager several years ago.

City Clerk D. B. Wynne produced three different contracts with the Pomona company, all of which had been properly cared for financially, it was said.

The manufacturing firm contended there are bills aggregating something over $1000 that the city hasn't paid.

Ontarians who testified in the case were former City Service Manager Otto S. Roen, City Clerk Wynne,

FORESTERS ASK FEDERAL FUNDS

Tacoma Conference Suggests $1,875,000 Appropriation

Coast Fire-Control Program Urged on Congress

Conservation Plans Adopted Cover All Points

TACOMA (Wash.) Feb. 22. (AP)—Expenditure by the Federal government of $1,875,000 to complete a Pacific Coast fire-control program which was described as "absolutely necessary" and to which "we, ourselves, are contributing in far greater proportion," was urged today in a resolution adopted by the Western Forestry and Conservation Association, which closed its annual conference here. All phases of a forestry program were covered in other resolutions adopted by the association.

The proposal for a fire-control program suggested expenditures as follows: $1,500,000 for the promised Federal co-operation with States under the Clarke-McNary law; $250,000 increase over present National Forest appropriations to give fire-preventive facilities approaching those given by local agencies to surrounding forest lands; $75,000 for protection of forested public domain, now left in part to the care of non-Federal agencies; $50,000 to enable the Weather Bureau to give the information necessary for effective and economical fire control.

Regarding distribution of the allotment of funds under the Clarke-McNary Act, the conference urged that State estimates be based upon the cost of a definite contemplated protection organization.

50-50 IDEA INDORSED

Support was given the proposal of the United States Forest Service to put all States on a fifty-fifty reimbursement basis, effective for the fiscal year of 1929. This would match State expenditures with Federal money.

Other resolutions urged:

(1.) Adequate funds from Congress to permit the Bureau of Entomology to conduct studies of insect problems in western forests and to provide for control measures on the public lands with a continuation of the study of tree diseases and provision for their control.

(2.) Continuation of research and agitation in the western States looking to the enactment of equitable laws governing the taxation of reforesting lands.

ENFORCE PENALTIES

(3.) Development by each State of an efficient personnel to deal with law enforcement as a means of reaching the careless and criminally negligent persons responsible for the increasing number of man-caused fires.

(4.) Insurance of reforesting lands, declaring it as logical as any other property insurance and asserting that it lags mainly because of lack of interest and co-operation among insurance companies and forest owners.

(5.) All forest agencies and the press to broadcast exact conditions concerning forest fires with systemized efforts toward this end.

(6.) Research and experiment to provide localized methods applicable to western conditions, rather than blanket rules governing the entire country.

(7.) continued educational work by all fire-protection agencies for an extended public campaign to keep before the people the need of forest protection and perpetuation.

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED

All officers of the association were re-elected at the concluding session of the conference.

A. W. Laird of Potlatch, Idaho, retains the presidency of the organization and five vice-presidents were re-elected as follows:

Washington, E. G. Ames; Montana, W. C. Lubrecht; Oregon, George B. McLeod; Idaho, C. A. Barton; California, C. R. Johnson.

Trustees who retain office are: Washington, George S. Long; Montana, Walter Nells; Idaho, Huntington Taylor; Oregon, George L. McPherson; California, W. M. Wheeler.

C. S. Chapman of Tacoma was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Hart, Clothier, Dies in Chicago

CHICAGO, Feb. 22. (AP) — Max Hart, a prominent clothing merchant and one of the founders of Hart, Schaffner & Marx Company, died at his home today. He was 75 years of age.

Mr. Hart contracted a severe cold ten days ago which developed into pneumonia.

Hart rose from a penniless immigrant boy to founder and vice-president of the Hart, Schaffner & Marx Company, one of the world's largest wholesale clothing firms.

Accompanied by his parents, Hart came to America from Germany when 5 years of age. After a brief education he obtained work as an errand boy in one of Chicago's leading department stores. When 19, he and his brother, Harry, with whom he has been associated in business, since, started a small retail clothing store. Out of this grew the Hart, Schaffner & Marx Company, which was organized in 1879.

Ships Speed in Rum Race

VANCOUVER (B. C.) Feb. 22 (AP) With a prize of $2,500,000 at stake, two liners are dashing for the port of Vancouver at full speed. The Furness motorship Pacific Reliance and the steamship Moerdyk of the joint Holland-America-Royal Mail Steam Packet line are competing against the time limit, the 29th inst., set by the Canadian government for importations of liquor to private bond in British Columbia.

The Pacific Reliance has 24,000 cases of whisky, and the Moerdyk 16,000 cases of champagne and 10,000 cases of whisky. Unless this liquor is unloaded and warehoused here one week from today the consignees will face a problem in disposing of it.

The Pacific Reliance is from England and the Moerdyk from Holland.

Reward Spurs Oahu Man Hunt

HONOLULU, Feb. 22. (AP)—With a large reward offered for the capture of the men who swindled Thomas Needham, an English visitor here, out of $140,000, detectives continued to search vessels and points on Oahu Island with apparent futility.

Needham lost his money through a fake race-horse betting scheme.

STIMSON AIDE ARRIVES

MANILA, Feb. 22. (AP)—Maj. A. Parker Hitchens arrived here today from Port Said as the first of Gov.-Gen. Stimson's advisers to reach the Philippines. Maj. Hitchens, who was medical adviser to the late Gov.-Gen. Wood, will hold the same position on Stimson's staff.

DRYS PLAN TO ENLARGE ZONE

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 22. (AP)—A dry Canada and a dry Mexico next in order to protect prohibition in the United States is the goal envisaged by Ernest H. Cherrington, general secretary of the World League Against Alcoholism, in addressing the Methodist Home Missions Council today.

"Either we must attempt the use of the enforcement more along the American side of the international boundary lines," said Mr. Cherrington, "or we must attempt to co-operate with moral welfare forces in other countries."

Prof. A. Z. Mann of Evanston, Ill., said that conditions seemed to warrant the slogan, "Fewer and Better Churches."

Lack of Water Facing Healer

EL PASO (Tex.) Feb. 22. (AP)—The Spanish language newspaper El Continental says Mexico City dispatches report that the owner of the ranch at Espinazo to which great numbers of persons have flocked recently for treatment by the asserted healer, Nino Fidencio (Fidencio Constantino,) has ordered the water supply cut off.

This is said to be the only supply in the district for the 10,000 followers who have sought Fidencio. Before he made the place his headquarters it was a village of only a few hundred inhabitants. The dispatches say that President Calles has been asked to intervene to prevent distress.

INDIA TO ASSIST BRITISH ENVOYS

NEW DELHI (India) Feb. 22. (AP) The Council of State of the Indian Legislature today adopted by thirty-four votes to thirteen, a motion by Sir Maneckji Dadabhoy, to appoint a committee to work in conjunction with the British statutory commission for Indian reforms, headed by Sir John Simon.

Sir Maneckji urged that Indians should not throw away their golden opportunity of accelerating progress and reforms by sulking like school boys. Pundit Desikachara recommended that since it is not practical politics to achieve a freedom by revolution, Indians should by intelligent co-operation, obtain absolute control of the government with Parliament's help.

Lower priced transportation can now be Straight 8 transportation

WHEN you get right down to cases and figure out just how much you have to spend for an automobile, it is indeed a refreshing thing to know that your money—even though it be of a modest amount—can now buy an automobile that is really distinctive in appearance and spectacular in performance (with eight cylinders rather than six).

The "68" is a 72-horsepower straight-eight —built by Marmon, with Marmon precision and care in every detail—capable of 65 to 70 miles per hour, and the most wonderful pace-changing flexibility you have ever known.

In appearance the "68" lends a new meaning to the word distinction. Every line is a long, flowing line. The line of the top, passing through a smart cadet-visor, flows into that of the long, high hood and is further enhanced by the long roll of the wide and graceful front fenders. A broad, flat radiator cap, so in the mode, finishes off the tall, deep radiator.

As to seating capacity, it's built on a wheelbase of 114 inches, with the mobility and easy handling that goes with it, but with luxurious lounging room; leg room and head room for five passengers and room to spare for the luggage.

We extend a hearty invitation to see it and try it for yourself—around the block or around the state, as you see fit.

Motors with bearings that won't throw oil

MOST motor "burnouts" are caused by oil-soaked windings—which, in turn, are caused by leaky bearings.

Westinghouse motors, having Sealed-Sleeve Bearings, avoid the highest items of maintenance cost—bearings worn by the entrance of dirt and grit, and windings shorted by leaking oil.

In addition, Sealed-Sleeve Bearings retain all the advantages of the familiar sleeve type bearing—simple construction; ease of replacement; ability to withstand shocks and vibration.

Buy only motors equipped with Sealed-Sleeve Bearings and you buy longer life with lower maintenance cost.

Put one responsibility back of the entire motor application by using Westinghouse control apparatus, along with Westinghouse motors.

ONLY HALF of a WILL was LEFT

A RECENTLY probated Will had been carefully drawn by a responsible attorney for a successful business man. Many years had elapsed after the making of the Will before it was probated.

In the meantime, the Community Property law had been amended and changed the status of one of the beneficiaries. One of the men named as Executors had died. The other was unwilling to serve. Children had been born who should have been named in the Will, but were not; other beneficiaries under the Will had died.

In the judgment of attorneys familiar with the general intentions of the decedent, about half the property went as he would have wished, and the other half was diverted, because his Will was "stale."

A wise precaution is to discuss your Will from time to time with a Security Trust officer to make sure whether or not a lawyer should revise it for you.

LONDON MARKET IN FRENZY

Huge Bonus on Silk Stock Brings Milling Mob to Exchange and Values Leap by Millions

LONDON, Feb. 22. (AP)—The old lady of Threadneedle street, as the Bank of England is called, had a front row seat today at the most spectacular trading performance in artificial silk shares on the stock exchange which the commercial world has ever experienced. The fun began almost before the old lady had properly finished her breakfast, wiped her spectacles and opened her place of business.

The overnight announcement of a $60,000,000 bonus for shareholders of Courtauld, Ltd., artificial silk makers, was the cause of the excitement. The stock exchange is just across the street from the Bank of England. The wedge-shaped quarter acre space in front of the Exchange Building was thronged with brokers, clerks and assistants long before 9 o'clock, which is the official opening hour.

CROWD HALTS WORKERS

There were so many excited men yelling and calling, wigwagging with hands and arms, making faces and undergoing other contortions that stenographers, telephone girls, typists and the thousands of other young women employed at the financial district had fairly to fight their way through the crowds to their offices.

Dealing in Courtauld's stock actually started half an hour before the exchange opened. As time passed the crowd was increased by interested persons who came from all directions, and the babble of conversation, shouts and yells became more intense.

The crowd swarmed like bees around new honey. Virtually every broker of the financial district had clients interested in Courtauld and as soon as these clients had read the news in the morning papers they hurried to the city to consult their brokers and participate in the excitement.

MAKES MILLIONS

The shares which closed yesterday at slightly above £7 rose today to £9 and five shillings. They afterwards fell back slightly, but climbed again while the brokers scrambled, dodged and wriggled through and around the seething mass endeavoring to reach a nearer position.

In a few moments after the exchange opened the shares had shot up to £9—in other words, the total market value of the ordinary shares had risen more than $65,000,000 in about ten minutes. The excitement spread like wildfire and affected all other sections of the artificial silk market.

Los Buques de Roosevelt en una "Guerra de Arpillera"

NUEVA YORK, Febrero 22.—Los buques de carga de la Compañía de Vapores de Roosevelt, cuyo presidente es Kermit Roosevelt, están empeñados con los barcos británicos en una "guerra de arpillera", según ha revelado hoy Basil Harris, vicepresidente de la citada compañía.

Los norteamericanos llevan varios meses de trabajar por conseguir una parte del comercio de arpillera, que asciende a $120,000,000 y que antes de la guerra tenía acaparado Alemania; pero que desde entonces ha estado en gran parte en manos de compañías británicas. La compañía de Roosevelt, que explota diez navíos del Negociado de Navegación, obtuvo parte de ese comercio rebajando las tarifas de flete hasta Brooklyn; pero dice el señor Harris que las líneas británicas respondieron con igual rebaja. Caso que los Estados Unidos ganaran en esta competencia, los dueños de la mercancía saldrían ahorrando $20,000 en cada cargamento.

Mujer que no Sabe que se Halla en Inminente Peligro de Muerte

NUEVA YORK, Febrero 22.—La señora Margaret Dougherty, todavía hoy no sabía que su vida está en grave peligro, y que éste puede ser evitado. Y eso a pesar de que ha querido llevarse la cosa a su conocimiento por medio de anuncios y sueltos de periódico, y mediante mensajes radiofónicos.

Esta mujer, que estuvo de doncella en casa de William A. Donaldson, de Douglas Manor, Demarcación de Queens, fue mordida hace dos semanas por un perro de lanas de sus patrones, y se marchó de la casa de éstos antes de que se le declarara la rabia al animal. Este murió de tán terrible mal.

El señor Donaldson puso anuncios en los periódicos y buscó la ayuda de la policía para ver de dar con su antigua criada, y advertirla de que debía ponerse inmediatamente las inyecciones antirrábicas. El señor Harris, comisario de sanidad, ha ordenado que se perifone la noticia desde las radios.

Quizá un Sindicato Tome en Arrendamiento unos Barcos de Cabotaje

CIUDAD DE MEJICO, Febrero 22.—Están ultimándose los planes para el arrendamiento de los vapores Méjico, Tamaulipas y Coahuila, al Sindicato de Estibadores de Tampico, sociedad cooperativa. Esta sociedad es rival de la Confederación Regional de Obreros Mejicanos.

Los arreglos para el arrendamiento penden del resultado de un viaje de ensayo, de Veracruz a Progreso, del vapor Méjico. En esta travesía quedará demostrado si los estibadores son o no capaces de manejar el tráfico de cabotaje en el golfo de Méjico.

Los barcos pertenecieron en otro tiempo a la Línea Mejicana de Puertos Libres, fundada por el general Obregón.

No Puede Prescindir del Comercio Ilegítimo de Licores

Para Tom Patterson, ciudadano de 61 años de edad, es imposible dejar el comercio clandestino de licores. La cosa está por encima de sus fuerzas, según informan las autoridades federales, y de allí que se encuentre ahora en la cárcel del condado esperando ser trasladado a Seattle (Washington), donde se le juzgará por habérsele hallado en posesión de ocho pintas de lumbre líquida.

Generalmente el cargo de posesión de licor se tramita por medio de una consignación de la autoridad competente; pero en el caso de Patterson, ha sido este reo inculpado en Seattle por el gran jurado federal. Dicen las autoridades federales que ya ha sido arrestado otras cuatro veces en el Estado de Washington por cargos análagos.

Hoy Será Juzgada una Muchacha por Conato de Asesinato

La señoria Rudell Heath, de 19 años de edad, será llevada hoy a jurado para responder de la acusación de haber atacado a Fred Bonahan, que fue su novio, con una arma mortífera.

Dice la fiscalía que la señorita Heath entró el día 2 de Enero último en una droguería sita en el bulevar de Hollywood, 6066, y disparó cinco tiros sobre Bonahan, para obligarlo por el terror a reanudar relaciones con ella.

En la audiencia preliminar declaró la señorita Heath que sólo había hecho fuego para asustar a Bonahan; pero que, habiendo después pensado bien la cosa, se había convencido de que no vale la pena darle un balazo a un ex-novio.

MR. O'ROURKE RUNS FOR SIX JOBS

Chicago Coal Dealer's Name to Clutter Up Whole Ballot, and It's Possible He Can Fill Four of Places Sought; Wanted Seventh Office But Time Ran Short

CHICAGO, Feb. 22. (AP)—William O'Rourke, a coal dealer, stood forth today as the champion candidate for office.

In the Democratic column on the April primary ballot his name will stare the voters in the eye from six positions.

He got the thousands of names on his petitions by personal effort and intended to slate himself for a seventh place but did not have the time.

Strangely, O'Rourke could hold four of the six places if selected for them.

He could take his pick of State Representative, State Auditor or Congressman-at-Large and in addition be:

Democratic Senatorial Committeeman, State Committeeman and ward committeeman.

Every petition, except the one for ward committeeman, required hundreds of names. Those for State Auditor and Congressman-at-Large required at least 2000 signatures each.

"It was no child's play getting all those people to sign," explained O'Rourke today. "I got them all myself. I took no chances of anybody claiming the signatures were a lot of phonies.

"During the blizzard last week, I got up early enough to be at the car barns in my ward at 4 a.m., and be able to talk to the street car men.

"I intended to get up another petition for delegate to the Democratic National Convention at Houston but I got to work on it too late."

event the case finally will go to the United States Supreme Court for adjudication.

END AFTER SESSION

Since ninety days is allowed for perfecting appeals to the District of Columbia Court of Appeals the case is not likely to be finally decided until after the end of this session of Congress, expected late in May or early in June.

In reopening the Continental inquiry tomorrow after a recess of nearly a week, the Teapot Dome committee will seek to establish particularly how much of the $3,080,000 in Continental bonds reached the Republican National Committee to help wipe out the deficit after the Harding campaign in 1920.

Investigators for the Senate have found that banks in New York, Chicago and Boston made loans to the national committee and officials of these institutions have been summoned here to tell how the loans were negotiated and how they finally were liquidated.

BANKERS CALLED

The officials summoned are William H. Gilkes of the Continental National Bank and Trust Company, Chicago; John Prentice of Chase National Bank, New York; N. C. Lenfestey of National City Bank, New York, and D. B. Blaisdell of First National Bank of Boston.

In addition, Graham Youngs, treasurer of Blair & Co., New York, and Harold W. Kenwell, assistant treasurer of Hyva Corporation, Sinclair's personal company, have been summoned for tomorrow. They, too, will be questioned about any Continental Liberty bonds their concerns may have dealt in between 1921 and 1925.

SINCLAIR STILL THINKS SHADOWING RIGHT THING

NEW YORK, Feb. 22. (AP)—Harry F. Sinclair, oil magnate, and his codefendants, W. Sherman Burns and H. Mason Day, convicted of contempt of court in connection with the Teapot Dome oil scandal, today issued statements defending their right to shadow jurymen.

They based their right on the assertion that "it had long been the practice of the government to shadow juries."

COUNSEL FOR ROOSEVELT DIES

DETROIT, Feb. 22. (AP)—James H. Pound, 75 years of age, attorney, who appeared as counsel for Theodore Roosevelt in the former President's libel suit against George H. Newett, Ishpeming (Mich.) publisher, in 1913, is dead here.

BYRD TO START SEPTEMBER 10

Plans Completed for Flight Over South Pole

BOSTON, Feb. 22. (AP)—Commander Richard E. Byrd has completed virtually all of his plans for his attempt to fly over the South Pole, he announced at his home here today. He expects his party will leave New York on September 10 and that they will not return for at least eight months and, possibly a year and a half.

The party will consist of fifty-five men, Commander Byrd said, and among these will be twelve scientific specialists, who will be assigned to collecting data. Three Eskimos also will be taken along. The ship will carry three airplanes.

"We expect to start the 24,000-mile trip on the wooden ice ship Samson, which now is en route to this country from Norway," Commander Byrd said. "It is in command of Isak Isakson, a Norwegian."

Elopers Thought Bay City Bound

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 22. (Exclusive)—At the request of Los Angeles authorities police tonight were searching for Robert Aikus, 19 years of age, and Durlene Braham, 16, both of Los Angeles, in the belief that they will make their next attempt to soften the hard heart of a marriage clerk in this city. Both are described as runaways.

According to information here they have tried to marry in Los Angeles, Santa Barbara, Ventura and Palo Alto but the three-day law has prevented. They made their latest attempt at Palo Auto this afternoon.

Vertical lacquered radiator shutters—a beauty and utility feature.

The New Essex Super-Six is a delight to the eye—in lines, in fine exterior appointment and in careful finish that invites and repays the closest examination.

Within, this satisfaction to eye and sense is apparent in every detail. The quality of the high-backed, form-fitting seats—richly upholstered—impresses you immediately. At the slender, graceful wheel, you look out over the shining beauty of cowl, hood, saddle-type lamps, heavy, arching fenders, to the winged radiator figure that expresses the spirit and fleetness under your hand.

You have before you the handsome grouping of dials and meters upon the beautiful ebony instrument board. Starter and electro-lock are there to your hand, too.

Bendix four-wheel brakes give smooth positive stopping action and an added sense of greater security. All doors are weather-stripped. The body is of silenced construction, adding to the notably quiet operation of Essex.

LOS ANGELES HARBOR

SUPPLY OF FISH IN LENTEN DROP

Usual Shortage Reported on Harbor Markets

Daily Local Receipts Placed at About Normal

Imports from Other Ports to Make Up Deficit

Lenten season dawned yesterday as usual with a shortage of fresh fish, just when the demand for the finnied delectables is greatest. Approximately 60,000 to 70,000 pounds of the table varieties are coming in to Los Angeles Harbor daily, ordinarily sufficient for Los Angeles' immediate needs, but never enough during Lent.

Bolstering up the local supply, however, the wholesalers are shipping in larger consignments from afar. Soles are daily arrivals from San Francisco, crabs from Oregon, salmon from Washington, shrimp from Texas, frogs from Louisiana and halibut from British Columbia. Catfish also are brought down from the Sacramento River, and oysters and scollops are brought from New York.

The local fleet's offerings of a score of varieties from near-by and Mexican waters also are augmented by the delectable Mexican sea bass, which is relayed in iced trucks a distance of 400 miles from San Felipe on the Gulf of California.

So great a part of the supply now comes from the Gulf of California that W. Clifford Smith of the State Fish Exchange has asked Mexico to delay closing the season for a month, beyond March 1. Francisco Navarro Pregoso, head of Mexican fisheries on this coast, received the request while here yesterday, and forwarded it at once to Mexico City with recommendations that it be granted.

LINER FINLAND DUE ON FAREWELL VOYAGE

The Panama Pacific liner Finland, due Saturday from New York with several hundred passengers and freight, is on her last round voyage. She has been sold and on her return to New York will be taken to Blyth, Eng., and junked. She brought $125,000. The Finland, Kroonland and Manchuria reopened the intercoastal run four years ago, the Kroonland being junked a year ago and replaced by the Mongolia. The Finland's place is taken by the new electric liner California, which sailed east on her first round-trip a week ago. The Finland was built in 1902 at Cramps yards at Philadelphia, and is a vessel of 7052 tons net.

Five rescued members of the tanker Chuky, which sank with fifteen of her crew last week, were to leave Japan for California on the Dollar liner President Pierce yesterday, according to advices received by W. H. Wickersham, local agent. They are J. B. Sheehan, F. H. Buckley, C. C. Herbert, E. F. Ritchley and E. Springer, chief engineer, first, second, third engineer and pumpman, respectively. The other sixteen survivors will return on a later ship.

It isn't often anyone is important enough to justify delaying a ship's departure, but the British Admiralty tanker Oleander is standing by four days for F. C. Pavitt, chief engineer. Pavitt will arrive Saturday from Japan, where he was left for an operation for appendicitis on a previous trip. The delay costs around $1000 a day, but Capt. W. Frost says Pavitt is worth it. The tanker will sail on Pavitt's arrival for Chile with fuel oil, under charter to the Chile Steamship Company.

The motorship Seekonk arrived from Hamburg yesterday on her last trip for the Hamburg American Line. She has been bought by the Williams Line from a subsidiary of Cramp's shipyards, and will be delivered on this coast. She will increase the Williams fleet to eleven intercoastal ships, but the schedules will remain unchanged for the present.

The steamer Cubore, which made one inaugural trip intercoastal for the Calmar Steamship Corporation, when the latter was started by Bethlehem Steel Company last fall, is to return to the run as a regular unit of the Calmar fleet, according to Hugh P. Pitzpatrick, local manager for Swayne & Hoyt, coast agents for the Calmar Line. She is due from the East April 1. This increases the fleet to seven ships, the Commercial Traveler, a chartered vessel, line turned back to Moore & McCormick.

Their namesake notwithstanding, two ships named for Washington, were unable to reach Los Angeles Harbor yesterday to participate in the patriot's birthday celebration. They will be in today. One is the American steamship Washington from San Francisco, the other, the Norwegian motorship George Washington from Scandinavia, both carry passengers and freight.

Adolph Ochs in Address to Breakfast Group Says He'll Take Idea Home

New York has many great things to be proud of, but it has nothing to compare with the Breakfast Club, Adolph Ochs, veteran publisher of the New York Times, told 400 members of the club yesterday morning. Mr. Ochs was one of the speakers on the Washington's Birthday program. "I feel like the proverbial rooster that discovered the ostrich egg and showed it to his hens as an inspiration," said Mr. Ochs. "I intend to tell New York about the Breakfast Club and to say: 'See what Los Angeles can do!'"

Dr. Stewart P. MacLennan, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Hollywood, gave the principal address, speaking of George Washington.

"Rupert Hughes has done us a great service in recovering for us from the pages of history George Washington, the real man," said Dr. MacLennan. "He had

MAJESTIC LEASE IS EXTENDED

Lillian Albertson Takes Playhouse for Two Years; Will Live There

Lillian Albertson announced last night that she has renewed her lease on the Majestic Theater from M. A. Hamburger, owner, for an additional period of two years from May 1.

Following the New York style of having bungalows on top of the skyscrapers and theater buildings, Hamburger announces that he will erect an elaborate apartment on the roof of the Majestic for Miss Albertson and her husband, Louis O. Macloon. This fad was set recently in Gotham when an unspecified number of theatrical producers and financiers found such arrangements very convenient to their businesses.

According to announcements, the work on the erection of the proposed apartment of four rooms, will begin within the next week, as stipulated in the new lease.

Miss Albertson was very pleased last night in securing the Majestic for another two years. She is currently presenting there "Hit the Deck," which is now entering its seventh week.

NIGHT-LIFE DRAMA TO BE OFFERED

"Speakeasy" Announced to Follow Tropic Play Into Orange Grove

Having completed negotiations for the purchase of "Speakeasy," drama of today, K. M. Scoville, producer, announces that this play of New York night life will be his next offering in Los Angeles.

"An all-star cast," which Producer Scoville hopes to head with the name of an American actor of some repute, will present "Speakeasy" at the Orange Grove soon.

The deal was closed with the author, Edward Niblock, through his western representative, Harry Clay Blaney. Casting and rehearsals will begin immediately, although no opening date has been fixed. "Kongo" is still popular and box-office indications are that it will stay in Los Angeles at least three weeks longer, it is prophesied.

INTEREST AROUSED IN SOUTH-SEA PICTURE

Gloria Swanson's "Saddie Thompson" has already set a record at the United Artists Theater, Broadway at Ninth, even though it has not yet opened. The record is in advance interest and is calculated by the number of telephone and personal queries as to the opening date and other items, it is stated.

The picture, which will open Wednesday, was adapted from "Miss Thompson," W. Somerset Maugham's now famous story of a social outcast and a reformer whose paths cross in the South Seas. "Sadie Thompson" is Gloria's second independent United Artists picture. It was directed by Raoul Walsh.

TRIO ENGAGED

Sol Cohen's Musicians Will Play at Hollywood Play House

Music lovers of Los Angeles may welcome the announcement of the engagement of Sol Cohen as director of music at the Hollywood Play House. The popular Sol Cohen Trio will make its initial appearance at the theater at the opening of "Interference" Monday night.

The trio, comprising Cohen at the violin and directing; Robert Alder at the 'cello, and Heinrich Tandler at the piano, is well known in Los Angeles for its chamber concerts. Under present arrangements, the trio will be featured with selected programs at each performance.

"Undertow," current will close Sunday night.

BALIEFF'S HUMOR IS INSTANCED IN EAST

When Balieff brought his Chauve-Souris to New York last time, after having played a record-breaking engagement there, he offered an example of his Russian humor.

The parade of the wooden soldiers began, and mirth reigned when the audience discovered that Balieff had equipped each of the men with a long white beard reaching to his waist.

Balieff's wooden soldiers, like his Chauve-Souris, are twenty years old. They will execute their maneuvers for the last time in Los Angeles March 3, at the Belasco.

HERSHOLT WITH GRIFFITH

D. W. Griffith, through arrangements with Universal, has secured the services of Jean Hersholt for "The Battle of the Sexes," his next production for United Artists. The garnering of this choice plum by Hersholt has been announced by the director. This puts to rest any chances of Hersholt taking a vacation coincident with the rumored cessation of activities on the Universal lot for the next two months.

INDEFATIGABLE TITLER

Herman J. Mankiewicz will write the titles for Adolphe Menjou's newest Paramount vehicle, "The Code of Honor," according to announcements made today at the studios in Hollywood. Mankiewicz, former New York dramatic editor, is responsible for the titling of more than thirty other Paramount productions. "The Code of Honor" is an adaptation of Sardou's play, "Captain Farreol."

An Extra Rises From the Ranks

Margaret Mann

Whose years of playing in inconspicuous roles were rewarded when at ... was selected to portray the mother of "Four Sons," in the Fox film of that name. The production is holding sway at the Carthay Circle.

WRITERS' CLUB ACT TOURS

The Writers' Club playlet, "The Little General," will have its first public showing as the headline attraction at the Orpheum Sunday, with Mrs. Wallace Reid and Hal Crane in the role of Josephine and Napoleon, respectively, and Maurice Murphy as Eugene. With the grandeur of Napoleon's reign as a background, this offering is called extraordinarily colorful.

Two other interesting offerings billed are Deno and Rochelle, the young dancers who, reportedly, created "a sensation" in "Le Maire's Affairs," in the East last season; and Charles Irwin, Broadway's popular comedian, as master of ceremonies and general funster.

David Hartford and Frances Nordstrum in "His Day out;" Lew Herne, with Ethel Gray, Reed and Duthers, the Six Gallenos and Raffin's Monkeys, complete the new bill.

Jazz-Mad Wife Vividly Etched

A bill embodying sensationalism, music and beauty starts at the Metropolitan Theater today. On the screen the offering is "Chicago," adapted from the stage play of the same name, with Phyllis Haver and Victor Varconi in the leading roles. This is a Pathe-De Mille production, directed by Frank Urson. In the cast are such players as Robert Edeson, May Robson, Julia Faye, Virginia Bradford and T. Roy Barnes.

"Chicago" is hailed as the "most sensational picture production of the season." It deals with Roxie Hart, a jazz-crazed young wife, and those whom she drags down.

At the Million Dollar, the picturization of the Anita Loos best seller, "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," will have its premiere today. The Paramount version has in its cast Ruth Taylor, Alice White, Ford Sterling, Chester Conklin, Trixie Friganza and many others.

A Forbstein musical program will enhance the screening.

Tent Notables Are Rounded Up

The film capital today boasts more personalities of "the big tops" than any other city in the country, owing to the presentation of Sid Grauman's prologue, "Ballyhoo," introducing Charlie Chaplin's "The Circus," in Grauman's Chinese Theater, a check-up just completed, reveals.

In addition to such performers as Poodles Hanneford, the Rooneys, the Freehands and many other stars of the big tents with individual presentations, the lesser lights of the prologue are all drafted from circuses scattered in winter quarters over the country.

Last Operetta is "Firefly"

Al Malaikah Temple officials will close the ten weeks' season of light opera at the Shrine Civic Auditorium next week in what is called a burst of glory with the presentation of "Firefly," one of the most popular of olden-time operettas. It will open the final week Monday evening.

"Firefly" is from the pen of Rudolf Friml, well-known composer, who has written some of music history's foremost musical productions. Otto Harbach wrote the book.

"Firefly" has an interesting plot with comedy lines and situations throughout the entire production. "Gianina Mia," a song hit that is sung all over the world, is one of the popular musical successes in "Firefly." Other hits, including "Love is Like a Butterfly," "Sympathy," "Beautiful Ships from Toyland," "The Sapphire Seas," "Something," "A Woman's Smile," "An American Beauty Rose," "Mia Cara," and "Dance of the Rose," will be heard in "Firefly."

"SEVENTH HEAVEN" IS SCREENED AGAIN

"Seventh Heaven," which has been acclaimed by critics as one of the finest screen dramas filmed during the past five years, returned to town at the Tower Theater yesterday in conjunction with a Fox Movietone program.

The film features Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell.

NEW FOLLIES BILL

"Frivolities of 1928," playing at the Follies this week, has plenty of good comedy, musical numbers, speed and spirit, it is averred. Charles Fritcher and Henry Sherr's fast-delivered "wit" find an opening in the hearts of the audience. Fritcher is called a natural comic who understands the value of proper comedy technique. Dorothy Walton, Cecil Manners and Vivien May present specialties. There is dancing by thirty girls, bearing the stamp of Grover Frankie's staging; also twenty colored entertainers.

Rupert Hughes to Act as Host

Rupert Hughes, American author, will officiate as master of ceremonies at the premiere of "The Patent Leather Kid" to be held at the Criterion Theater Wednesday evening.

Information to this effect was vouchsafed by the management yesterday. Richard Barthelmess, star of the First National picture, will be introduced from the Criterion stage by Chairman Hughes, reported making his first personal appearance in Los Angeles.

Others announced to be present are Molly O'Day, who plays the leading feminine role; Arthur Stone, whose performance in "The Patent Leather Kid" is reputed to be the finest of his screen career; Lucien Prival, Hank Mann, Lawford Davidson, Mathew Bentz, Raymond Turner and Nigel de Brulier, members of the cast, Alfred Santell, director, and Richard Rowland, First National chief.

Kathryn Meisle to Sing Friday

Kathryn Meisle, leading contralto of the Chicago Civic Opera Association, is on the Pacific Coast during February filling concert engagements and will be heard in concert in Glendale at the high school auditorium, Friday evening, under the auspices of the Glendale Music Association.

Miss Meisle, who has been the leading contralto with the Los Angeles Grand Opera Association for the past three seasons, has a host of friends and admirers, who welcome the opportunity of hearing her in concert.

Following her concert tour of the Pacific Coast, Miss Meisle will sail for Europe, where she is to appear in Germany in opera.

Politics Dead Issue to Him

Frank Sheridan, the Broadway character actor who claims to have impersonated the governors of every State in the Union, has abandoned his "political career" before the footlights and has gone in for "big business."

In "Two Girls Wanted," the Henry Duffy production of the John Golden hit which is now in its fourth week at El Capitan Theater, Sheridan plays a hard-headed business man—with a soft heart hidden under his brusque manner. The soft heart, however, remains consistently under cover until the final act of the comedy.

Sheridan's appearance in "Two Girls Wanted" marks his first return to a Los Angeles stage since he was here with Lillian Russell in "Wildfire."

MARY PICKFORD FILM HELD ANOTHER WEEK

Mary Pickford in "My Best Girl," showing for the first time downtown popularly at the Broadway Palace Theater, will be held for a second week. So great has the demand been for admission from the theater-going public to see "Our Mary," the management decided to continue the program, it is said.

Charles Rogers heads the cast in support of Miss Pickford. Hobart Bosworth also has a prominent part.

Sam Taylor directed for United Artists.

BESIDES FEATURE DRAMA

In addition to "Scarlet Youth," sex drama now showing for men only at Tally's, the program includes a special three-reel picture. This was especially prepared by S. S. Millard, producer of "Scarlet Youth," by an unnamed Eastern medical school, and in it much has been revealed that has heretofore been accessible to members of the medical profession only, it is declared.

NEW CAST ASSEMBLED FOR PLAY

McGowan Drama to Have Premiere Night After End of Davis Run

Definite word as to the closing of "The Triumphant Bachelor," Owen Davis's comedy now playing at the Figueroa Playhouse, was made last evening by Manager Arthur F. Smith, who states that March 3 will see the final curtain rung down on the present offering.

Following it the next night, March 4, Los Angeles will see its premiere of John McGowan's "Excess Baggage," with an entire new cast, with the one exception of Mabel Forrest.

Heading the feminine list will be Ursa Manning (previously identified as Marvel Quivey,) while opposite her will be William Haney. The comedy role of the vaudeville player will be essayed by Robert Woolsey, who recently finished in Ziegfeld's "Rio Rita."

Claude Stevens will be the juvenile heavy. Others are La Vita Miller, Herbert Evans, Cecil Bruner and Albert Hubbard.

John McGowan, the author, is personally co-operating with Director Ralph Bell and is said to be very enthusiastic over such early indications of a western success for his brain-child.

Ned Wayburn Revue Brings Promenaders

The first bill at the Hillstreet of the new spring season will be one filled with familiar names. Among the most prominent of these is Ned Wayburn's Promenaders, a gay revue of song, comedy and dance.

Con Colleano, the daring Spaniard of the circus who thrills with his feats on the slack wire, will offer his own idea of a "bullfight" with the assistance of the beauteous Zenita.

Art Henry and Company will be seen in a comedy skit, "A Rehearsal," which is a satire on the trials of a new team of vaudevillians.

Harrison and Dakin have "An Operetta For Two," in which they poke good-natured fun at many institutions.

Mary Coward and Larry Braddam will offer "Just A Crooning Tune," a musical act in which Miss Coward succeeds despite her affliction of blindness since childhood. Miss Coward was graduated with flying colors from college, and a conservatory of music. She is said to be delightful on the stage.

Peggy MacKechnie, is billed as a mental marvel.

Pathe-De Mille will present as the screen feature, "On To Reno," starring Marie Prevost. This is a breezy comedy of matrimonial strife directed by James Cruze from the original by Joseph Jackson. Miss Prevost is supported by Cullen Landis, Ethel Wales, Ned Sparks and Jane Keckley.

Aerial Combats Deemed Exact

That the flying sequences in the Paramount picture, "Wings," now in the sixth week of its run here at the Biltmore Theater, are entirely accurate, is the opinion of various local flyers. Men who pilot planes out here on various routes, those of the air-mail service and the heads of the different airports adjacent to this city, have seen it, some as many as four times.

These men declare that "Wings" will prove a powerful help to the cause of commercial aviation progress, while army men say it will result in arousing public interest in aerial defense to such an extent that Congress will in time appropriate funds sufficient for the building and maintenance of an army of fighting planes.

The story of "Wings" was written by John Monk Saunders, who was an aviator and an instructor in aviation during the World War; the picture was directed by William Wellman, who was a daring flyer in the Lafayette Escadrille of the French Foreign Legion before we entered the war. Wellman was shot down and wounded twice. The men who take part in the daring flights of the picture were World War flyers and the United States Army helped make the picture. Small wonder the picture is correct in detail.

SCHUMANN-HEINK TO SING HERE SATURDAY

By popular request Ernestine Schumann-Heink, the beloved diva, will appear once more in a final recital at the Philharmonic Auditorium, Saturday evening.

A typically Schumann-Heink program will feature this farewell concert. Old favorite songs and arias will compose the memorable program with which the contralto will bid this city adieu. In each city where she has sung during the farewell tour, there have been scores of requests for songs by which her listeners wish to remember her. All such requests are given to Mme. Schumann-Heink and she usually sings as an encore the one which the largest number of persons have requested.

According to L. E. Behymer, the songs which have been requested most to date are "Ich Liebe Dich," "Trees" and "Taps."

Florence Hardemann, violinist, will appear with her and Katherine Hoffman, pianist, will be the accompanist.

POPULARITY UNDECREASED

It is the opinion of many of the thousands who have attended the Mission Play now and annually since its inception seventeen years ago, that California's pageant-drama is better this year than ever before. This is a natural consequence, of course, of these long years of intensive training, but it may also be accounted for from the fact that many new artists of exceptional ability have been added to the cast.

"See the pretty snow," said the uncle who loved children.

"Pretty, my foot," cried little Horace. "Now I'll tell one. We're goin' to enter the ice races and we don't want snow."

"He's the berries," snapped little Helen. "How can I see Becky drive up in his chariot when that old stuff spoils the view?"

Uncle pulled out a cigar and bit into it viciously.

"See if you can laugh that off," said the fat man's wife, wiring a button on to his vest.

She Couldn't Miss It

"And when you get to New York I want you to be sure to see that movie I was telling you about," said Mrs. Amzi Billings of Broken Bow, who had just returned with her husband from a buying trip. "It's on Broadway, right near the refreshment stand."

FORECAST ON CITRUS CROP ROSY

Drop in Florida Output Expected to Aid Demand for California Fruit

California citrus growers are headed for a very successful year due to the falling off of the Florida crop, according to a report to be published in the March number of the Sunkist Courier, official organ of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange.

The estimated movement of both oranges and grapefruit from Florida in February is about half the actual shipments during the same period in any of the past three years, due to recent cold spells. Latest information from Florida, according to the report, indicates 5000 to 6000 cars of oranges remaining at the end of January. At least 4000 cars were estimated to be valencias, with the balance midseason fruit and June bloom.

Dana King, sales manager for the exchange, recommends to shippers a program of orderly distribution. The exchange is confident that a normal demand and a stable market will be well sustained by the wide distribution of the season's output.

California lemons are still going forward as fast as the fruit becomes suitable for shipment. Although the supply has been light during the past few months, there is a good crop of lemons on the trees ready for harvest in the late spring and summer months, which will assure a normal supply of fruit for the summer market.

American Trade With Philippines Shows Increase

Imports of American merchandise in the Philippines amounted to $69,520,000 in 1927, against $68,648,000 for 1926. Slight losses occurred in imports of flour and rubber products, but increased imports of other staples accounted for the gain of $872,000, states the division of regional information of the Department of Commerce.

Exports of the Philippines to the United States were also active, advancing from the 1926 total of $103,797,000 to $115,984,000 for 1927, a gain of 11.8 per cent. The value of American purchases of sugar increased 60 per cent and cocoanut products 7 per cent, but hemp, the third important product of the Philippines declined 28 per cent.

During 1927, the Philippines purchased more than 87,000,000 yards of American cloth, $6,000,000 worth of refined mineral oils, and $4,000,000 each of automotive products and flour. The islands also spent $3,000,000 for our rubber products and practically the same amount for canned milk, besides $1,000,000 for cigarettes.

In return, the United States purchased more than 1,000,000,000 pounds of sugar, 293,000,000 pounds of cocoanut oil, 34,000,000 of prepared cocoanut, 341,000,000 pounds of copra and 50 tons of Manila hemp.

Industry Gain Indicated by Power Output

NEW YORK, Feb. 22. (Exclusive) That the business and industrial optimism which obtains in practically every section of the country is based upon a solid foundation is borne out by data upon general industrial production for January as indicated by the consumption of electrical energy. Reports of energy consumption in January made to Electrical World by some 3000 large manufacturing companies reveal that the rate of industrial production in the first month of the year was close to 9 per cent greater than that witnessed in December, 1927, and 7.4 per cent above January of last year.

The rate of increase over the preceding month was about the same as in 1927, but materially higher than in 1923, 1924 and 1925. American industry as a whole enters 1928 on a slightly higher plane of activity than at the opening of 1927. The gain reflects greater activity in the metal industries group, automobiles, leather and its products, rubber and its products, chemicals and allied products and food and kindred products.

Market Slower for Fat Cattle

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 22.—There has been a slight slowing up in the marketing of all kinds of beef cattle during the past week with packers talking lower prices. Prices f.o.b. country have, however, remained steady with good steers bringing $11-$11.50 f.o.b. country points and cows, $8 to $8.25, according to Western Cattle Marketing Association Good fat heifers are scarce and milk veal is also in good demand.

Northern California winter cattle have practically all been marketed and heavy runs from this section are over. Coast and valley areas continue to supply some cattle. Range conditions in Eastern Nevada are below average for this time of year and heavy snowfalls are needed to avert a short grazing season next summer.

FINANCE IDEA WINS PLACE

Los Angeles Company, in 1927 Statement, Shows Growth in Demand for Installment Financing

BY EARLE E. CROWE

Winning by the efficiently managed finance companies of a recognized position among the indispensable credit institutions is fittingly illustrated by the annual statement of the Pacific Finance Company, operating in the Pacific Coast States. This Los Angeles company transacted more than $56,000,000 of business in 1927 and earned a larger profit than in the previous year. Such a performance indicates an ample supply of high-grade paper and the enforcement of rigid standards of financing.

While national figures, so this report states, recorded an increase in the repossession of motor cars, the Pacific Finance Company was able to reduce, in both number and dollars, its losses from repossessions and credit delinquency. Motor-car financing was increased 5 per cent, while the total volume of automobile sales in the company's territory declined about 20 per cent.

USEFULNESS SHOWN

"Throughout the country finance companies of a similar character are demonstrating their usefulness in the extension of credit service. Finance companies in the United States during 1926, according to the National Credit Office, transacted an aggregate volume of business of $3,322,234,000, which was probably materially increased last year. The volume is steadily increasing, as more and more business enterprises find that more goods can be sold on the right kind of credit terms with the assistance of the finance companies.

In reporting its 1927 operations, the Commercial Investment Trust Corporation describes the evolution of the finance business in the last few years to the point where products of every description are financed. They range from vacuum cleaners selling around $50 to complete hotel or apartment-house equipment running into many thousands of dollars. That motor-car financing still forms the bulk of financing is demonstrated by the report of this company showing automobile paper amounting to 71 per cent of total paper.

To illustrate the types of commodities now financed by the finance companies, the Commercial Investment Trust Corporation lists the following:

PRODUCTS LISTED

Adding machines, automotive equipment, barber supplies, cleaners, dairy machines, electric motors, furniture, hotel equipment, incubators, kitchen equipment, lunch wagons, agricultural and household machinery, battery charging, bottling, gas and machine carbon, canning, contractors, ice, ironing, laundry, oil and gasoline, pattern machine, pressing, printing, steel punching, textile, welding, woodworking, musical instruments, office equipment, optical equipment, organs, physicians' equipment, pianos, portable houses, pumps, radio receivers, refrigerators, ships, scows, tugs, store fixtures, stoves, ranges, ovens, furnaces, time clocks, vacuum cleaners and washing machines.

Raphael Weill Reports Income Sets High Mark

Raphael Weill & Co., Inc., yesterday reported the most profitable year in its history with a net income after all charges and taxes of $20,000 more than in 1926, which amounts to about $13.40 per share on 39,077 shares outstanding against $12.40 on the same number of shares the previous year.

The regular annual dividend of $6 per share was declared, payable the 24th inst., to stockholders of record January 31, last. At the annual meeting of stockholders to be held March 6, a proposed change of capitalization will be considered. Stockholders have previously been asked to dseignate their preference for exchanging their present stock for 8 per cent preferred or common in the new Nevada company. Present capitalization is $5,000,000 with $4,000,000 outstanding. The new company proposes to exchange share for share for those desiring new 8 per cent cumulative preferred, callable at 110 after the tenth year.

HAY MARKETS QUIET

Mild Pacific Coast Weather Held Curtailing Demand

Hay markets were quiet during the week ending the 18th inst., according to the weekly hay market review of the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Light receipts and country loadings were the principal strengthening factors in the face of the dull inquiry. Mild weather in most of the central section, together with better moisture conditions improved the outlook for early pasturage.

Alfalfa prices held steady to slightly higher. There was an active shipping inquiry for top grade leafy types while green hay for milling also was in active demand. Light offerings of top grades at Kansas City caused prices to advance $2 over quotations for the previous week. Omaha reported a good shipping demand for dairy alfalfa from Iowa, Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin but the bulk of offerings at this point were of the lower grades which were meeting slow sale. Minneapolis buyers were taking small lots of top grade alfalfa but most arrivals at this market were No. 2 and sample grades which were draggy. Demand for good alfalfa at Denver was strong and prices tended upward. Better moisture conditions in this area have improved the outlook for the next crop. Pacific Coast markets reported demand very light with mild weather and prospects of good early pastures restricting inquiry.

The Bolsa Chica Petroleum Company is prepairing to resume operations in its wildcat well in the Kettleman Hills field, offsetting the Burbank lease of the General Petroleum Corporation, according to field reports. The Bolsa Chica has had the well standing idle for several months pending developments in the General Petroleum's test well only a few hundred feet distant, but the Burbank well has been in "status quo" and apparently will remain so for an indefinite period.

The Bolsa Chica well is presumed to be located higher on the structure than the General Petroleum test, and it is understood that cores indicate the Bolsa Chica well to have been getting its formations considerably shallower than the General Petroleum's Burbank. The latter well has been pumping ten or fifteen barrels of oil, and about an equal amount of water since last summer. The Bolsa Chica believes it can make a profitable producer out of its well from the same zone, and is preparing for a new test.

It is understood that the Bolsa Chica will plug its well to about 2000 feet, where its best showings were found. This is about 900 feet shallower than the depth from which the Burbank is producing. The Bolsa Chica had several promising showings at between 2500 and 3000 feet, but these were not given a thorough test.

The crew of the Bolsa Chica well at present is perforating the casing at about 2000 feet, and it probably will be several weeks before it is possible to get a definite line on what it may be expected to do.

May Make New Test

It is reported unofficially that the General Petroleum Corporation may drill a new well on its Burbank lease in the Kettleman Hills field, instead of attempting to go any further with its present well.

The Burbank No. 1 well originally was intended as a deep test of the Kettleman Hills field, but when it stopped to test its 3000-foot zone, mechanical difficulties developed which made it unlikely that it could be deepened successfully. The requirements of the lease, and the geological survey demand a test to at least 5500 feet, and it is understood that this work will be started by the General Petroleum Corporation in the near future.

Near Completion

The Union Oil Company expects to have its Long Beach Community No. 13 on production in the deep zone at Signal Hill some time next week. The well is down 6300 feet, with the last casing set at about 5600 feet. It is coring ahead in oil sand, it is reported, and probably will stop for a production test in the next day or two.

O'Dea Well Reaming

The Barnsdall Oil Company has succeeded in extracting the fish which held up progress in its O'Dea No. 9 for several weeks, and is now reaming the hole to continue drilling, according to official reports. Bottom of the well is now at 5850 feet, with six-inch casing set at about 5800 feet. When the well stopped drilling it was in a streaky formation of shale and sand, but is said to have passed through some good oil sand higher up in the hole, just below the shoe of the six-inch casing.

Starts Three Wells

The Graham-Loftus Oil Company, which brought in one of the first and one of the best wells in the deep zone at Signal Hill, is starting three new wells for the deep sand on its Acme lease, according to official reports. The new wells are Acme No. 1, No. 2, and No. 3.

To Deepen Hartman No. 3

The Bolsa Chica Oil Company is preparing to drill its Hartman No. 3 well in the Ventura-avenue field to 7000 or 7100 feet, according to officials of the company. This well is the most westerly producer in the Ventura-avenue field, and has been on production for more than a year. When it was first brought in, drilling was stopped at 6573 feet, the present bottom, but developments in neighboring wells indicate that better production is possible at greater depths.

An instance is the Shell Company's latest completion in that part of the field which went to 7180 feet, and came in at 2400 barrels per day.

Start Orcutt Well

The Union Oil Company is starting a new well near Lompoc in the Orcutt district, according to reports from that field. The new well is on the Purissima lease in one of the oldest producing districts in the State of California. It is the first drilling project the Union Oil Company has undertaken in the Orcutt fields in more than a year, it is said.

Plan Imperial Test

Business men of Imperial Valley are reported to be organizing the Imperial Valley Petroleum Corporation for the purpose of drilling a new test well in search of petroleum in the valley. W. F. Beal is president of the group.

Valley investors pooled their interests several years ago and had a wildcat well drilled northwest of Brawley, and it was asserted at that time that traces of oil were found, but no oil sand was discovered.

TEXAS FINANCE LEADER UNIQUE

Pioneer Banker of Fort Worth Exception to Rule

K. M. Van Zandt Still Active at 91 Years of Age

Useless Confederate Money Capital for Start

(What is success? How do you win it? What do you do with it? There follows one of a series of interviews with eminently successful men, discussing the subject.)

BY JOHN F. SINCLAIR

[Copyright, 1928, in all countries by North American Newspaper Alliance.]

We usually think of a banker as one who takes life easy after he is 60 years of age. There are exceptions, but they are few.

K. M. Van Zandt of the Fort Worth National Bank, Fort Worth, Tex., is one of those exceptions. He still is active president of the bank. As chairman of the discount committee, he passes every note of $1,000,000 or more accepted by the bank, which has $40,000,000 in assets.

And Mr. Van Zandt, going strong, looking well and showing no signs of a let-up, is 91. One of his seventeen children is R. L. Van Zandt, for five years governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas, Tex.

K. M. Van Zandt's father was minister of the Republic of Texas to the United States in 1845, when the treaty of annexation was signed. The pleturesque Sam Houston was then president of the Republic of Texas.

Surely Emerson was right when he observed that "all history resolves itself very easily into the biography of a few stout and earnest persons."

HIS START IN LIFE

When K. M. Van Zandt came back from the Civil War after four years in the Confederate army, he met the task of making a living for his wife and four children. He returned to Fort Worth in August, 1865, and all his worldly goods consisted of Confederate money, then worthless. The South was disorganized and discouraged. Business was at a standstill.

"Fort Worth was a town of 200 or 300 persons," Mr. Van Zandt said. "There were more houses than people, for war had wrought terrible destruction. The only business left in this city-to-be was a shoemaker's shop and a blacksmith shop.

"When I had left for the war my county of Harrison was the wealthiest in Texas. Of course, much of the wealth consisted of slaves. In 1860 we had a county population of 1373 men. Of that number 1360 went to fight in the Confederate army."

Just then a lawyer interrupted to ask Mr. Van Zandt if he knew whether a man who had died the preceding day had ever drawn a will. "Yes, the gentleman had a will, for I was a witness to it," said this keen-minded banker. "It was drawn about thirty-five years ago, I reckon. I think you'll find it in his papers in his safety deposit box."

No detail seems to have escaped his notice.

The story is told that after his son had retired as governor of the Federal Reserve Bank he visited his father's home. The first morning the father aroused his distinguished, but very sleepy, son at 7 o'clock. "Bob," the elder Van Zandt inquired, "do you want to sleep all morning? It's 7 o'clock now and we'll have breakfast shortly. I must be at the discount committee meeting at the bank at 8 o'clock. Besides, lazy people never succeed in life."

In my talk with Mr. Van Zandt the question of health came up.

"I keep mine by observing certain rules and having something to do," he said. "Why, the other day I read that Baron Kihachiro, Japan's richest man, keeps himself fit by climbing mountains. And he is older than I am. Then look at Chauncey Depew. He was Secretary of State for New York when Abraham Lincoln was President. He is years older than I am.

"Or take Dr. W. W. Folwell, first president of the University of Minnesota, busy every day writing a four-volume history of his State. I understand he has completed three, and that after he finishes the last he expects to write a real book on economics. He is 95 years of age. And I am just a small city banker, years behind him in age."

This unusual man has had almost undisturbed health all his life.

HEALTH RULES HE FOLLOWS

"For myself," he explained, "I think the rules for a long life were well stated by the late Judge Gary. Here is a set of them.:

(1.) Exercise in the open air, but do it moderately.
(2.) Breathe deeply of pure air as much as possible.
(3.) Leave alcoholic stimulants alone; take tea and coffee if you like them.
(4.) Drink pure water.
(5.) Eat little meat. Eat red meat but once a week.
(6.) Eat little starch, fat or sweets, but plenty of green vegetables, whole wheat bread, fresh fruit and drink milk, if it agrees with you.
(7.) Follow regular habits.
(8.) Get plenty of sleep.
(9.) Work hard mentally and physically, but not too long.
(10.) Lead a good, clean life.
(11.) Keep an even temper and avoid excitement.
(12.) Never get angry or indulge in controversy.

"My rules for success are short and simple," Mr. Van Zandt went on. "They can all be stated in one sentence. I believe any young person just starting out who follows the simple precepts in the sentence which I am going to give will go a long way toward being successful. I give it to you for what it is worth. It is this—have some definite object to live for, work to that end and never lose interest in human affairs."

A half-dozen customers of this largest bank in a city of 200,000 persons were waiting patiently to see the president on matters of importance to them. And the president, smiling and courteous, was ready.

STEAMSHIPS PEAK USERS OF FUEL OIL

Consumption Particularly Large on Pacific Coast Due to Coal Shortage

Steamships, including tankers, used more oil than the railroads in 1926, amounting to 78,932,016 barrels, or 23.2 per cent of all the fuel oil consumed in the United States, according to the current issue of the American Trust Review of the Pacific. This consumption is particularly large on the Pacific Coast in coastal, intercoastal, and trans-Pacific trade because of the scarcity of coal in the Pacific States.

Use of oil as ship fuel is further shown in the 1927 edition of Lloyd's Register of Shipping, which reports that 31 per cent of the steam-driven vessels, taken on a tonnage basis, used oil as fuel, of which 76 per cent were under the registry of the United States and Great Britain. There are about 300 bunkering stations in the world to supply fuel oil for ships.

The remaining 54.9 per cent of the fuel oil consumed in the United States in 1926, was divided among a number of industries. The oil companies used 48,845,896 barrels, or 14.4 per cent, ranking next to the railroads and steamships as consumers. Next, were the gas and electric-power plants, which used 33,022,941 barrels, or 9.7 per cent, another 5 per cent was used for domestic and commercial heating.

In California, because of local conditions, the proportionate demand for fuel oil differs from the rest of the United States, according to the American Trust Review. Railroads and steamships used 63.6 per cent of the State's consumption because of the shortage of coal.

ITALY'S CIRCULATION OF PAPER MONEY CUT

ROME, Feb. 22. (AP)—Italy's paper circulation was reduced by 92,000,080 lire (about $5,520,000) during January. The treasury on January 31 showed a surplus of 70,000,000 lire (about $4,020,000.)

UNEMPLOYMENT CAUSES TRACED

Increase Held Due Partly to Factory Curtailment

Drop in Other Industry Lines Increases Surplus

Hoover Investigation Report May Shed New Light

[Copyright, 1928, New York Evening Post, Inc.]

BY PAUL WILLARD GARRETT

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—Without waiting for Secretary Hoover's findings on employment expected from inquiry launched in New York yesterday through the Bureau of Economic Research, statisticians in Wall street incline to view that the difficulties revolve about the rise and fall in factory production.

The trend downward in employment is not a recent development, but everybody assumes so for the reason that until recently declines in factory employment were offset elsewhere in industry. If we may judge the general state of factory employment by the Bureau of Labor Statistics Index, the trend has been persistently downward for two years and irregularly downward for four and one-half years.

WORKERS SUPPLANTED

A new age in machine production has revolutionized industry until one man now can produce more than one man could ten years ago. Factories have been able for several years to turn out more goods than formerly but, simultaneously with gains in production they have been able to cut down the number of workers through improvements in mechanical processes.

This reduction in factory employment that extends back to the beginning of 1926, or for that matter, to the middle of 1923, largely reflects underlying changes in the character of production and not a long downswing in the prosperity curve. So long as the general level of industrial activity held up, these reductions in factory employment were absorbed by the building industry, not to mention others. It was the late 1927 drop in indus-

IRON INDUSTRY KEEPS UP GAIN

Second Quarter Orders for Pig Features

Light Steel, Notably Sheets, More Active

Heavy Finished Products on New Price Basis

CLEVELAND, Feb. 23. (Exclusive) Iron Trade Review this week says:

Second quarter coverage is lifting pig iron from the obscurity forced upon it in recent weeks by the brisk market in steel. At Chicago and Cleveland, especially, has interest in future iron needs broadened, while in the East considerable business hinges upon a steadier price situation. Quiet negotiations have placed upon producers' books a heavier tonnage than open inquiry would indicate.

Light steel products, especially sheets, have imbibed the moderately upward trend which has described demand for heavy finished steel recently and some makers have accumulated modest backlogs. Heavy shipments are going directly into consumption. Steel Corporation subsidiaries continue to operate at about 90 per cent, with the entire industry approximating the 85 per cent rate of a year ago. The price situation in steel continues strong. On opening the books the 22nd inst. for second quarter, the leading producer of bars, plates and shapes advanced to 1.90 cents, Pittsburgh, and 2 cents Chicago. This is the third upward revision in heavy finished steel since mid-November, and if maintained will put second-quarter shipments $2 per ton above first-quarter contracts. Independent producers are expected to follow. New prices on sheets remain to be tested, but extensions to present low-price contracts are being limited. Mahoning Valley markets of terne plate have advanced $4 to $6 per ton. Strip and small rivets are higher at Chicago.

Among producers of steel generally there is growing confidence in the first half-year. Fears that the exceptional improvement since late December has been based too largely upon automotive requirements, have been dissipated, as February, this far appears to have topped January bookings and output slightly and automotive business is a smaller percentage of the total than in January. The rising tendency in prices also is indicative and invoices in the next quarter are expected to reflect more of the advances imposed in the past sixty days. On account of the political situation the industry is not now looking beyond the first half.

More than 150,000 tons of pig iron for second quarter has been booked in the Chicago-Milwaukee district. Last week's sales of 53,000 tons at Cleveland doubled the preceding week's business. At Buffalo nearly 60,000 tons have been sold this month, for shipment the remainder of the half with considerable inquiry from New England not yet satisfied. Small users have run sales at St. Louis up to 12,000 tons.

Pending establishment of some recent advances the Iron Trade Review composite of fourteen leading iron and steel products is unchanged this week at $35.61.

Report of Investment Trust Gives Insight Into Profits in Junior Securities

BY WILLIAM RUSSELL WHITE

[Copyright, 1928, by New York Evening Post, Inc.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Probably the most interesting page in the comprehensive annual report submitted today by the Investment Managers' Company to holders of investment trust fund A certificates is that listing the investments.

Few investment trusts of the management type publish a list of their holdings. Edgar Lawrence Smith, president of the Investment Managers' Company, carries out the policy of publicity to the fullest degree by enumerating the number of shares of common stock held in each of the twenty-nine companies, together with the cost price and the market value as of December 31, 1927.

Other information about the trust is presented in the same complete detail. Earnings are analyzed and compared on a share basis, while the balance sheet reveals all essential information for the certificate holder.

The list of securities owned shows 81,214 shares, valued on December 31 at $8,105,842.75, divided among twenty-nine companies. The cost of the stocks was $7,937,951.42, recealing an appreciation of $767,891.33.

In the list are seven railroad stocks —Atchison, Atlantic Coast Line, Baltimore and Ohio, Chesapeake and Ohio, Norfolk and Western, Southern Railway and Union Pacific. All but Atlantic Coast Line and Baltimore and Ohio show a profit.

Four light, heat and power companies are included—Brooklyn Edison, Columbia Gas, Consolidatel Gas and Detroit Edison. Only Columbia Gas was slightly lower December 31 than the price paid.

Of the three food stocks—California Packing, Fleischmann and National Dairy Products—the last named showed a small loss.

Profits were shown on motor, rail equipment and tobacco stocks—Chrysler, Packard, American Brake Shoe, Westinghouse Air Brake, American Tobacco and General Cigar.

Among the other stocks held, two mining and seven miscellaneous, losses are shown only in two—National Lead and Otis Elevator. The others are: American Smelting, American Can, B. F. Goodrich, International Business Machines, International Harvester, S. S. Kresge and Union Carbide and Carbon.

The largest Individual Investments are in Westinghouse Air Brake, 6600 shares, valued at $397,750, and Packard Motor Car, 5900 shares, valued at $365,800.

The statement revealed income of the fund last year was $1,478,139, of which $764,938 was distributed to certificate holders. The rate of total income was 12.76 per cent on the average face value of certificates outstanding, compared with 9.78 per cent in 1926, and 9.65 per cent in 1925.

Trade Failures in 1927 Placed at Half Billion

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 22. (AP)—Commercial failures in 1927 caused a loss of more than $500,000,000 in the United States, directors of the National Association of Credit Men were informed here today by E. Paul Phillips, director of the adjustment bureau department of the association.

The board adopted a resolution urging business men to take action to minimize these losses, characterizing the situation as "serious," and as needing "careful consideration of business executives."

"In addition," the resolution set forth, "the distressed merchandise thrown on the market in competition with merchandise handled through normal channels, had a demoralizing effect on business conditions and the resultant damage has been incalculable."

Keen competition, which drove many concerns into bankruptcy and brought about numerous consolidations, was the outstanding factor in last year's business life, according to Stephen I. Miller of New York, executive manager of the association.

HOYLE TO MANAGE SECURITY BRANCH

Herbert H. Smock, vice-president and cashier of the Security Trust and Savings Bank yesterday announced the appointment of Ralph L. Hoyle as manager of the new Security branch which is to open at Twelfth and Maple on March 1. Mr. Hoyle has been with the Security for the past ten years. For three years he has been manager of the escrow department at the Equitable branch. He joined the staff of this branch as clearings clerk in 1918 and then held positions as bookkeeper, savings teller, commercial teller and note teller.

SALES MANAGER NAMED

C. V. Harrington, formerly branch manager at Seattle and in charge of sales in the Northwest for the Schumacher Wall Board Corporation, has been selected as sales director for the newly organized Schumacher Securities Company and the Schumacher Home Builders, Inc., according to an announcement yesterday by Joseph E. Schumacher, president of both concerns. Mr. Harrington was also in charge of the wall-board company at San Francisco for a number of years and is well known in Pacific Coast building circles.

Foreign Grain Market Prices Gain Sharply

CHICAGO, Feb. 22. (Exclusive) While all American grain markets were closed on account of Washington's Birthday, there were sharp advances in prices in foreign markets. Wheat in Liverpool closed than due, and corn there 3-4@7-8d. higher, coming better than due, and corn there was 1-4d higher. Buenos Aires wheat was 1 1-4@58c higher at midday, and corn 1 1-4@1-2 cents higher.

The Winnipeg wheat market showed considerable strength and closed with net gains of 7-8@1-8 cents and a good overnight export business was reported out of that market, although quantities were not given. Oats closed unchanged to 3-8 cent higher with rye up 1-4@5-8 cents.

Receipts of wheat at Winnipeg aggregated 723 cars against 797 cars last year, and of oats were eighty-four cars against eighty-one last year. Deliveries of wheat at interior points in the prairie provinces on Tuesday, aggregated 723,000 bushels against 482,000 bushels in 1927.

Traders construed the action of foreign markets as favorable for a higher level of prices here tomorrow with bulls looking for May corn to sell over $1 per bushel. Weather conditions over the West were generally unfavorable for the movement of corn and further complaints of freezing and thawing damage to winter wheat was received from the Central West. Liverpool cables said Japan was buying wheat in Australia.

Silk Dividend Starts Flurry

LONDON, Feb. 22. (AP)—The stock exchange had one of its periodical surprises when the Courtauld Silk Company announced overnight a dividend of 17½ per cent, making 25 per cent for the year and a bonus of 100 per cent.

Dealings took place as soon as the market opened and the shares jumped to £9 from a previous £7 3-4 and then fluctuated wildly between £8 and £9. This followed heavy dealings in the street overnight when the news became known after the exchange was officially closed.

The dividend and bonus distribution equals £12,600,000 on ordinary shares and today's rise caused an appreciation to a similar amount in the market valuation of the shares.

trial activity that produced the recent strain.

Demands for workers elsewhere were enough to offset the normal displacement in industry but not enough to offset losses created by a normal displacement in industry plus the late 1927 sharp contraction in industrial activity.

Unfortunately, the government has never undertaken to compile anything like representative figures on employment, but as nearly as can be reckoned, over 1,000,000 workers have been displaced from their customary employment in the last four and one-half years. Doubtless, a part of the employment slack will be taken up in the next two months by fresh demands of the season and by the promotion of government work, but it will probably take a revival in industry to set things entirely right again.

Coupon bonds in denominations of $1,000 and $500, registerable as to principal only. Principal and semi-annual interest (March 1 and September 1) payable at The Cleveland Trust Company, Cleveland, Ohio, Trustee, or at The National City Bank of New York, New York City. Interest payable without deduction for any Federal Income Tax up to 2%. The Company will refund upon proper application, any Pennsylvania Personal Property Tax not in excess of 4 mills. Redeemable at the option of the Company in whole or in part by lot on any interest paying date on thirty days' notice at 102½ and interest during the first 5 years, at 101½ and interest during the second 5 years and at 101 and interest thereafter prior to maturity.

These bonds will be unconditionally guaranteed as to principal, interest and Sinking Fund by The Firestone Tire & Rubber Company of Ohio.

THE COMPANY

Firestone Cotton Mills is a corporation organized under the laws of Massachusetts in 1924 and its entire capital stock is owned by The Firestone Tire & Rubber Company of Akron, Ohio. This Company purchased the Sanford Spinning Mills at Fall River, Massachusetts, and has been manufacturing and selling to The Firestone Tire & Rubber Company a portion of its tire fabric requirements. These mills have not been adequate and the Company has recently acquired a practically new cotton mill property at New Bedford, Massachusetts.

SECURITY

These bonds, when issued, will be secured by a closed first mortgage on all of the Company's real estate and manufacturing plants in Fall River and New Bedford and in addition to this security, the principal, interest and sinking fund of these bonds will be unconditionally guaranteed by The Firestone Tire & Rubber Company of Akron, Ohio.

THE GUARANTOR COMPANY

As to the financial responsibility of the guarantor, its annual statement of October 31, 1927, shows approximately $80,000,000 net assets after allowing for bonds of subsidiary companies previously guaranteed. Its sales for 1927 fiscal year were $127,696,000 and its profits thereon $13,780,000.

On sales as summarized below, the net income (after Federal Taxes) of The Firestone Tire & Rubber Company of Ohio and its subsidiary companies in the United States, as certified by Ernst & Ernst, Public Accountants, has been as follows:

	Sales	Net Income
Year ended October 31, 1922	$ 64,500,000	$ 7,240,000
Year ended October 31, 1923	77,500,000	8,164,000
Year ended October 31, 1924	85,610,000	7,116,000
Year ended October 31, 1925	125,598,000	12,880,000
Year ended October 31, 1926	144,397,000	7,422,000*
Year ended October 31, 1927	127,696,000	13,780,000

*From which a reserve for contingencies of $1,300,000 was provided and $500,000 additional was provided, making total reserve of $2,000,000 which is now intact.

Average annual net earnings of The Firestone Tire & Rubber Company, as shown above, were $9,128,000 or over 7½ times the combined annual interest requirements of these bonds and of other bonds guaranteed by the Company.

The total market value of the issued and outstanding Preferred and Common Stocks of the Company is over $90,000,000.

SINKING FUND

The mortgage securing this issue will provide for a Sinking Fund which commences to operate on March 1, 1931, estimated to be sufficient to retire 35 per cent of the bonds within ten years and over 80 per cent of this issue before maturity.

MANAGEMENT

The general operation of Firestone Cotton Mills is in the hands of men of broad textile manufacturing experience and its management will be supervised by the officers and directors of The Firestone Tire & Rubber Company of Akron, Ohio.

We offer these bonds when, as and if issued and accepted by us and subject to the approval of counsel, Messrs. Andrews & Belden, of Cleveland, for the Bankers, and Messrs. Borden, Kenyon & Hawes, Fall River, Mass., and Bernard M. Robinson, Esq., of Akron, for the Company. Delivery is expected to be made on or about March 15, 1928, in the form of Interim Receipts of the Trustee.

Price: 97 and accrued interest to yield about 5.25%.

POLICE FIRE SIX SHOTS TO HALT FLEEING MAN

Charged with violation of Sec. 288, Penal Code, corrupting the morals of a minor, a man giving his name as Jack de Nyce and his address as the Monterey Hotel, was apprehended yesterday in Hollywood after a chase and the firing of six shots by police. Officers of the Hollywood division were sent to the home of Mrs. W. Guenther, 1340 North Mariposa avenue, after she and Mrs. F. W. Rollins, a neighbor, had telephoned that a man was going from house to house in their block begging for money and annoying children. When Sergt. Royce and Officers Towne and Shields reached the scene the man fled toward the hills, but stopped when they sent the bullets in his direction.

JUVENILE CRIME WAR ON

Secret Drive to Halt Cabin Burglaries Results in Arrests of Numerous Youths

A secret campaign to reduce juvenile crime in Los Angeles county has been under way for the last sixty days, resulting in many arrests and the placing of numerous juveniles under strict probation regulations, it was revealed by Undersheriff Biscailuz yesterday.

The campaign was started with the assignment of Deputy Sheriffs Jones and Higgins, to a roaming patrol to guard mountain cabins in Los Angeles county against week-end party burglars.

As a result numerous questionable parties in mountain cabins have been interrupted and many arrests made. The prisoners in almost every instance, according to the officers, have been high-school youths who invaded some uninhabited cabin to hold a Saturday-night celebration.

SIX BOYS ARRESTED

Two youths arrested for this offense are Russell Parry, 18 years of age, 658 San Juan avenue, Venice, and Richard Woolfolk, 18, 51 Navy street, Venice. They were charged with trespassing in a cabin in Las Flores Canyon. Both were given suspended sentences of thirty days and placed under probation.

Four other youths were placed devise to prevent any increase."

BOARD ASKS MORE POWER

Corporation Commissioner Urges Authority for His Office to Prosecute Offenders

Recommendations that the Corporate Securities Act be amended to give the Corporation Department power to make its own legal rulings and prosecute its own cases were made yesterday by Commissioner Friedlander in a letter to Attorney James S. Bennett, chairman of the State Bar Association committee on the Corporate Securities Act.

The other members of the committee are Louis W. Myers, former chief justice of the State Supreme Court; Max C. Sloss, former associate justice of the same court; H. L. Carnahan, former Corporation Commissioner and now one of the receivers for the Julian Petroleum Corporation; and Mark H. Slosson, former chief deputy Corporation Commissioner. They will receive the Corporation Commissioner's letter in time to make a report before the meeting of the next Legislature, and if the Bar Association approves of his proposal it will be submitted to the lawmakers.

The letter states that if the blue sky law is amended it will result in greater practical efficiency and expediency in handling cases. No fault is found with the present handling of prosecutions or legal rulings but the proposed change is merely the more practical means of disposing of cases because it would minimize delays.

Inclosing his letter, the commissioner makes reference to the Julian Petroleum case now on trial and states:

"I am convinced that the deplorable fiasco which at present is occupying the attention of our courts would never have occurred if the responsibility for seeing that it could not occur had rested in one place."

The proposed changes would not mean large additional expense or increased personnel, according to the letter.

TAX ANGLES CHECKED IN JULIAN CASE

Government Takes Notes at Trial on Income of Company's Officers

An investigation into the income of the officers of the Julian Petroleum Corporation, who now are defendants in the case being tried before Superior Judge Doran, is being made by the government, it was learned yesterday.

Two agents for the Department of Justice have been working "under cover" in the trial since it started two months ago, making an exhaustive investigation into the transcript of the testimony to determine whether any of the ten defendants have violated provisions of the income tax code.

One of these agents has been in constant attendance at the trial, taking notes of testimony concerning the amounts of stock issued and the moneys asserted received from it. The other, apparently a supervisor, has attended irregularly.

Cross-examination of E. L. Wright, former stock transfer clerk in the Julian offices prior to the stock's collapse a year ago, will be resumed when court reconvenes this morning. Wright has been subjected to a severe cross-examination by S. C. Lewis, former president of the Julian company, but his story of asserted irregularities in the Julian company's records so far has been unshaken.

Miss Heath is accused of walking into a drug store at 6066 Hollywood Boulevard, January 2, last, and firing five shots at Bonahan in an effort to "frighten him back to her."

At her preliminary hearing Miss Heath declared she fired only to frighten Bonahan but said that on second thought she does not believe he is worth shooting.

SERVER OF PROCESSES FACES JAIL

Joseph Landeen Appears Today on Charge of Having Failed to Deliver Them

Facing a probable jail sentence, Joseph Landeen, court process server, is scheduled to appear today before Municipal Judge Crandall in Small Claims Court on contempt proceedings growing out of his asserted failure to serve summonses turned over to him.

Judicial investigation into Landeen's system of serving the summonses was instigated several weeks ago by Judge Crandall after a number of litigants had appeared in his court and complained they were not served with the subpoenas, although the defendant swore he cited them.

Since personal service of summonses is required by law, Judge Crandall recently called Landeen before him, explaining that two persons informed him they found the court citations under their doors when they returned home.

Another complainant said the summons was left with the clerk of her apartment who was instructed to give it to her.

EX-DEPUTY SHERIFF SENT TO ROAD CAMP

Questions and Answers on Bank of Italy
Bancitaly Corporation
STOCK

Question: Which is the better buy for quick, lasting profits?

Answer: Bank of Italy is controlled by Bancitaly Corporation. The more money Bank of Italy makes, the more Bancitaly Corporation makes plus.

1. Bancitaly Corporation does business in California.
2. Throughout America.
3. An international business.
4. Bancitaly Corporation is a Holding Company—an Investment Trust, controlling huge blocks of stock in many Banks and other institutions beside controlling Bank of Italy.

As a speculation, we believe Bancitaly Corporation offers by far the greater profit possibilities. Present admitted negotiations for a large Eastern bank merger, if completed, should cause a sensational market movement in Bancitaly Corporation shares.

Bank of Italy shareholders, if they have not yet purchased stock in Bancitaly Corporation, should give instant heed to this possibility.

This office will arrange for you to split your stock holdings and own Bancitaly Corporation by disposing of a part of your Bank of Italy stock if a further cash investment is not convenient.

We have just prepared a new up-to-the-minute letter on both these stocks. Call or write for your free copy today.

Leeds Makes Fast Trip to Greet Wife

NEW YORK, Feb. 22. (AP)—The seven-league boots of modern transportation enabled William B. Leeds to meet his wife, former Princess Xenia, at quarantine today although he was in San Francisco the day before yesterday.

The trip was made by chartering a plane to Chicago, transferring to a fast train there and chartering a tug at the Battery.

Because her husband took her aboard the tug, Mrs. Leeds was spared questioning by reporters about the reputed Grand Duchess Anastasia who recently arrived from Germany and who is said to be recognized as the daughter of the late Czar by the former princess.

Mrs. Leeds was returning from Bermuda on the liner Oahala.

RADIO PERMITS TO BE EXTENDED

Fate of Commission in Grave Doubt

Concert and Dance Orchestra at KHJ Studio

Auto Show Special Broadcast Tomorrow

BY DR. RALPH L. POWER

The various projected radio-station changes as of March 1 will probably be held in abeyance until March 31. Because confirmation of Commissioners Caldwell, Pickard and Lafount has not been made, the radio group will not make any more changes, other than those of a temporary nature, until their status is clearly defined.

All licenses which were to expire January 31 were automatically renewed a month and on March 1 scores of changes were scheduled. It seems now as though a further extension will be announced in a day or so, giving extension until March 31.

However, unless the House of Representatives adopts the bill recently passed by the Senate and extending the commission's official life another year, the commission would hardly make any drastic changes for their activities would revert to the Department of Commerce on March 15.

KHJ's 7-o'clock hour tonight, in the Don Lee studio, will bring a snappy hour of popular dance tunes played by the Gondoliers Orchestra, with Ivan Edwards, favorite radio tenor, interspersing the instrumental groups with popular song hits.

Then Robert Wildhack's cartoonist hour will be the 8 p.m. broadcast with another mysterious program of novelty features ranging from word pictures and song parodies to ensemble selections and addresses.

The Caledonians' Concert Orchestra will take a bow before the microphone at 9 o'clock with featured orchestrations assisted by Norma Novello, soprano, who returns to the KHJ studio after an absence of several weeks.

Closing its broadcast of the night, KHJ will have an hour entertainment by Ray Canfield and his singing steel ensemble from 10 to 11 o'clock.

Commencing tomorrow night the Don Lee studio will have a special program between the 7 and 8 p.m. hour for six nights, excluding Sunday. The broadcast will call attention particularly to the Los Angeles Auto Show.

KRLO GETS NEW ASSIGNMENT

BEVERLY HILLS, Feb. 22.—Freeman Lang, owner of KRLO, announced today that the Federal Radio Commission has given him permission to move his set to the Ernest J. Krause Building here and to share time with KFSG on the 253-meter band. This is the frequency now used by KPLA, Los Angeles. If this is correct it undoubtedly means that both KPLA and KFSG will have a change in wave lengths effective March 1.

"FLIVVER'S" PILOT RIDES ON HIGHWAY

Brooks, Forced Down in Florida, Starts for Goal Via Motor Car

TITUSVILLE (Fla.) Feb. 22. (AP) Convinced that he has demonstrated the practicability of "flivver" airplanes, Harry Brooks, who was forced down here last night after traveling more than 900 miles from Detroit, left late today by automobile for Miami, his intended goal in the flight.

Brooks came to earth because of a leaking petcock in his gasoline line after maintaining an average speed of seventy-eight miles an hour and consuming forty-two gallons of fuel. He estimated that between eight and ten gallons, more than enough to have taken him the remaining 200 miles to Miami, leaked out.

Alighting on a sandy beach twelve miles from here, the plane's propeller was cracked, but the machine otherwise was undamaged, and its condition, Brooks said, confirms his belief in its airworthiness for the long flight. He expects to return here Friday, bringing a new propeller blade, and resume the journey to Miami.

From there he plans to go to Fort Myers, where Henry Ford is spending a vacation, and report to the automobile manufacturer personally the technical results of the flight.

Australian Wife of Indian Ruler Sues for Money

LONDON, Feb. 22. (AP)—A Bombay dispatch to the Daily Mail today discloses a sequel to a match such as that contemplated by Tukoji Rao, former Maharajah of Indore, and Miss Nancy Ann Miller of Seattle, Wash.

Sita Devi, wife of the Maharajah of Tikari, is suing him before the High Court of Patna for the payment of an annuity. Sita Devi was Miss Elsie Caroline Thompson, an Australian actress. She was converted to Hinduism and married the Maharajah in 1909. The Maharajah in 1913 deeded her an annuity of £225 ($1125) monthly but later stopped payment of it.

The Maharajah admits executing the deed but pleads that according to Hindu law the plaintiff could not become a Hindu and consequently no lawful marriage was possible.

ENGAGED TO WED RELATIVE OF KING

Miss Josephine Fish

ANGELENO AND COUNT BETROTHED

Miss Josephine Fish Will be Linked to Royalty of Italy by Marriage

The engagement of Miss Josephine Fish, daughter of Mrs. Charles King Corsant, 1725 Camino Palmero, to Count Anthony de Bosdari of London and Paris, was announced yesterday. The marriage is to take place soon but where and when were not announced. The two, accompanied, by Dr. and Mrs. King Corsant, will leave for Chicago Sunday, but, with the exception of the Count, will return here in a couple of weeks.

COUNT ANTHONY de BOSDARI

Count Bosdari arrived Sunday by airplane from Chicago to visit the Corsants. He is head of Brunswick Company interests in England and France and met Miss Fish in London about five years ago. He is second cousin of the King of Italy and nephew of Count Cando de Bosdari, who until recently was Italian Ambassador to Germany.

The Corsants came here last November after three years abroad. Their home formerly was in Chicago. Mrs. Corsant is a descendant of the founder of the Brunswick interests. She formerly was Mrs. Joseph Fish of Chicago. Miss Fish has been in school in Switzerland for the last three years.

Chamber Plans to Add to List of Conventions

"Proposing to bring a larger number of conventions to Los Angeles, the convention bureau of the Chamber of Commerce decided at a meeting Tuesday to double its annual appropriation by spending $100.000 for that purpose this year," said Harry Fryman yesterday.

Mr. Fryman is chairman of the hotel men's committee of the bureau.

"Understand, we haven't that amount of money now but we propose to get it and hope to make Los Angeles the greatest convention city in the West," he said.

FILM DIRECTORS ELECT

Newly elected officers of the Motion-Picture Directors Association, announced yesterday, are Henry Otto, director James Horne, assistant; Fred Neumeyer, technician; Frank Cooley, treasurer, and Francis Powers, secretary. The trustees include Reginald Barker, William Beaudine, J. Reeves Eason, Phillip Rosen, Roy Clements, George Irving and Norval MacGregor.

CITY IN TRIBUTE TO WASHINGTON

Many Programs Conducted by Patriotic Groups

Japanese Section Gay With American Flags

Children at Playgrounds Give Series of Playlets

Washington's Birthday was observed by Los Angeles in various ways yesterday but, aside from the few exceptions, there was a noticeable absence of decorations in the business district in direct contrast with the display of American flags in the heart of Little Nippon. In the Japanese district between Los Angeles and San Pedro streets, there was an American flag displayed every fifty feet or so.

Many offices and the banks were closed. Schools, clubs and patriotic organizations had programs. The radio stations all included some patriotic numbers on their programs.

MONTANANS PICNIC

Outdoor programs were many yesterday and a typically Los Angeles day was offered for their presentation. The largest of these was at Echo Playground, where a colonial program, including drama, special music and a dance, was held.

Approximately 10,000 persons attended the Montana State Society's picnic at Sycamore Grove. Registers representing forty-two countries were attached to the large sycamore trees, giving old friends a chance to renew acquaintances.

Yesterday's reunion was the thirty-seventh annual gathering of the society in Los Angeles. Among those present was John H. Dawes, secretary and treasurer of the organization, who attended the first meeting of the society.

EVENTS TO CONTINUE

The outdoor programs will continue for several days and will consist of drama... productions for playground groups. Boy Scouts held most of their celebrations last night.

Tonight at Slauson Playground, "Two Washington Episodes," arranged by the division of drama and pageantry of the Los Angeles Playground and Recreation Department, will be presented. Another affair for this evening is the Washington Birthday ball at Verdugo Playground.

Tomorrow's dramatic events include "Heroines of the Revolution" and "Sweethearts of the Songs," at Queen Anne Playground; the "Birthday Ball" at Sawtelle Playground, and "Eagle's Feather" at Pecan Playground.

BIRTHDAY BALL

On Saturday the "Birthday Ball" will be held at Yosemite Playground and the "The Sleepy Cupid" presented at Venice Playground.

Among the ceremonies held yesterday were the annual banquet of the Chamber of Commerce at the Ambassador; erection of a memorial shaft in honor of the Jayhawker party which came from Galesburg, Ill., to California in 1850, by descendants of the party's members; laying of the corner-stone of the new branch City Hall at San Pedro; a Bazaar of All Nations held by the Los Angeles section of the National Council of Jewish Women; a banquet of the veterans of the First Division, California sector, at Patriotic Hall; crowning of Alice C. Lansing, official Miss Los Angeles of 1928, together with her court of honor, at a formal ball at the Biltmore, and a Washington's Birthday celebration at Veterans' Hall under auspices of former residents of Tennessee and Kentucky.

WARSHIPS THRONG OPEN TO LARGE CROWD

The 196th anniversary of the birth of George Washington, who said as First President "to be prepared for war is one of the most effectual means of preserving peace," yesterday found the battle fleet at Los Angeles Harbor, at its highest efficiency for battle in America's history.

All ships of the fleet were in full dress during the day and all were thrown open to visitors. All courses, however, led to the giant aircraft carrier Saratoga, new $45,000,000 flagship of the Navy's new air fleet to be based at San Pedro, 5000 persons visiting her.

Liberty was granted to two-thirds

CITY STREET WORK RUNS TO MILLIONS

February Improvements, Now $3,210,000, Expected to Set New Mark

Public improvements costing $3,210,000 have been accepted by City Engineer Shaw and Chief Public Works Inspector Rook, who estimate that the total for the month will be approximately $4,000,000. This will be one of the largest single month's records for the completion of public improvements in the city's history.

The largest job so far completed and accepted this month is the Sawtelle storm drain system which cost $593,506. The contractors were H. M. Baruch Corporation and P. E. Cooney. The next largest jobs are the paving of streets in the Montana and Bundy Drive improvement district, which cost $473,068 and the Verdugo Road and Glassell avenue storm drain system, which cost $541,234 and was built by Thomas Kelly and Sons.

Ochs Will Give Public Address Tomorrow Night

ADOLPH OCHS

Adolph Ochs, editor of the New York Times, will give an address tomorrow evening at Temple B'nai B'rith, Ninth and Hope streets, the only public speech he will make in Los Angeles.

Louis Lipsky, president of the Zionist Organization of America, will be the speaker at the Temple at 10:30 a.m. Saturday. Subjects relating to the welfare of the Jewish people of the world will be discussed.

Dr. Edgar F. Magnin, rabbi of Temple B'nai B'rith announced yesterday that excavation work has been started on the new $1,000,000 synagogue being built by the temple congregation at Wilshire and Hobart boulevards. The temple will be finished in a year and the entire property will be worth about $1,500,000.

"Song of Flame" May Be Brought to Los Angeles

"The Song of the Flame," a spectacular opera that met with success in New York, Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia, may be brought to Los Angeles for a run beginning late next month, Matt Grau announced yesterday. Grau is the man who promoted the series of light operas now running at the Shrine Auditorium. He is negotiating with the New York interests controlling the opera, which has just closed a run there. Two hundred and fifty persons are in the cast.

"The Song of the Flame" is by Oscar Hammerstein II and Otto Harback, who, incidentally, is here visiting at this time. The two are authors of "The Desert Song," "Vagabond King," "Rose Marie" and other works.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE HOLDS ANNUAL BANQUET

Business Tinkers Scored by Head of National Manufacturers in Principal Address

A bugle corps played "To the Colors," an American flag broke waving into the spotlight, and as 1000 members toasted the President of the United States the annual banquet of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce opened formally at the Ambassador last night.

John H. Edgerton, president of the National Association of Manufacturers and one of the nation's foremost business men and captains of industry, was the principal speaker of the evening. Others on the program were D. F. McGarry, retiring president of the Chamber of Commerce; George L. Eastman, the new president; Capt. John D. Fredericks, master of ceremonies, and Arthur Brisbane, newspaper editor and writer.

Rear-Admiral De Steiguer, commanding the Pacific Fleet, and Adolph Ochs, editor and publisher of the New York Times, were introduced by Capt. Fredericks.

EDGERTON'S TALK

In speaking of the growth of the community, Mr. Edgerton warned that no capital or citizens from other places should be invited or welcomed which will not be constructive to the community. Constructive capital, he said, must be shown the advantages of any region if that region expects to attract it. Such capital does not wait upon eloquent resolutions, he remarked.

Branding it as another sinister situation at Washington, Edgerton spoke of consideration of Shipstead bill now before the Senate, saying:

"Throughout our national history there have been intermittent and persistent attacks upon our judiciary system, the palladium of our American liberties. Never has that opposition to the restraint of law upon human selfishness and the instincts of crime manifested itself in a bolder, more vicious way than through the present effort to emasculate the injunctive remedy. The so-called Shipstead bill in the Senate and its companion proposal by Mr. La Guardia in the House, which were introduced at the instigation of the American Federation of Labor, are now being debated.

CALLED REVOLUTIONARY

"The substance of these measures is to so amend the present law with reference to injunctions that hereafter nothing shall be considered as property except that which is tangible and transferable.

"Could anything be more revolutionary unless it be firing upon the national flag?

"This monstrous measure would

SEASON OF LENT OPENS IN CHURCHES

Special Services Will Be Conducted by Catholics and Episcopalians

Commemorating Ash Wednesday and ushering in the Lenten season which closes April 3, special services were conducted yesterday afternoon and evening at all Catholic churches and missions of Los Angeles and at many Episcopal churches.

During Lent all Catholic churches will conduct services at 7:30 p.m. every day and services of interest will be conducted at St. Vibiana's Cathedral every day at noon and in the evenings.

At St. Paul's Cathedral (Episcopal) services will be conducted every day at noon, excepting Saturdays, beginning today. At St. John's Episcopal Church Lent will be observed with services every Wednesday evening, every Thursday at 7 a.m. and 10 a.m. and every Friday at 4 p.m.

Lutheran churches of Los Angeles are arranging for a series of Lenten services to be conducted daily at Trinity Auditorium and at which noted ministers of that denomination will give addresses. The meetings will start March 6 and continue until April 6 and the principal speaker will be Dr. William Dallman, president of the English District of the Lutheran Church at Milwaukee.

Council to See Site at Van Nuys for New Airport

The City Council, accompanied by Efficiency Director Knox and probably Mayor Cryer, today will inspect the Van Nuys airport site, one of the fields under consideration for a municipal airport, and the proposed terminus of a recreational air line into the Owens Valley, suggested by W. P. Whitsett, member of the Board of Water and Power Commissioners.

Commissioner Whitsett has donated a forty-acre field on the Owens Valley route.

Establishment of other landing fields at Palmdale, Lancaster, Mojave, Lone Pine, Independence, Big Pine and Bishop is proposed by Commissioner Whitsett, who also will accompany the Councilmen.

These proposed fields are on the air route of the Roosevelt-Midland trail, an air lane covered under a bill introduced in Congress by Representative Crail of Los Angeles.

KEMPLEY'S CONVICTION REVERSED

Appeal Court Rules That Indictment of San Diego Prosecutor Was Faulty

The Second District Court of Appeals sitting in Los Angeles yesterday reversed the convictions of Chester Kempley, former District Attorney of San Diego county, and his former chief deputy, C. Guy Selleck, on charges of soliciting and accepting a bribe.

The court, in reversing the convictions, held that the indictment of the two men was irregularly voted and not returned according to law. The indictment was voted by the county grand jury, over which a special attorney-general was appointed to preside.

It was stated in the opinion that the defendants offered to prove in trial court that members of the grand jury had attempted to work up the case against them by interviewing prospective witnesses, but that the trial judge refused them permission to present such proof.

The two defendants also offered to prove, the opinion stated, that a witness brought from San Quentin penitentiary to testify against them had been promised certain leniency for testimony.

Kempley and Selleck were accused of having accepted a bribe of $40,000 in connection with their handling of a murder trial.

Zionist Leader Arrives Today

Louis Lipsky, president of the Zionist Organization of America, is scheduled to arrive in Los Angeles at 9:10 a.m. today on the Santa Fe for a six or seven days' visit here. This is his first visit to the Coast, and he will be the guest of Jews of Los Angeles at various functions during his stay.

LOUIS LIPSKY.

Mayor Cryer will receive him at the City Hall at 11:30 a.m., after which he will return to the Biltmore, where he is to make his headquarters. Mr. Lipsky is the American member of the World Zionist Executive, and in his official capacity represents the Jews of America before the League of Nations in connection with the rebuilding of Palestine and re-establishment of that country as a national Jewish homeland.

EXPERT LAUDS ART EXHIBIT

Los Angeles Museum's Chinese Collection Held Among Finest in Existence

Here for the purpose of making a survey of the Munthe collection of Chinese art, now on exhibit at the Los Angeles Museum, Dr. Berthold Laufer, internationally noted orientalist and anthropologist of the Field Museum at Chicago, yesterday was unstinting in his praise, both for the collection and for Southern California.

Concerning his opinion of the Munthe collection, which was brought here by the Board of Supervisors, Dr. Laufer was outspoken in declaring it to be one of the finest Chinese art collections in existence. He said it is his advice that it be made a permanent possession of the museum.

LAST CHANCE OFFERED

"It is no exaggeration," he said, "to say that this may be the last and only chance to obtain from China a collection of such magnitude and character and that it will be impossible to duplicate it, either in quantity or quality. It would take the most skilled expert ten to fifteen years of work in China to bring a similar collection together and even then the result would be dubious."

He predicted that should the collection be permanently housed here students from Europe and all parts of the world would make pilgrimages to Los Angeles for the sole purpose of admiring it and studying it.

KNOWS HIS CHINA

A large portion of Dr. Laufer's time has been devoted to the study of China and the Chinese. His personal history is replete with many honorary degrees and scholastic achievements.

Dr. Laufer, who is accompanied by his wife, is on his first visit to Southern California. He declared that for the first time he has found all the conditions which in combinations represent to him an ideal site for a home.

Last night he was one of the honor guests at the annual banquet of the Chamber of Commerce at the Ambassador. He and Mrs. Laufer will depart for Chicago this morning.

NEW TYPE FOR WANT ADS, TOO

Times want ads go forth this morning attired like other parts of the paper in a bright new "Ionic" type dress. Eye specialists to the number of 3297 have pronounced it the most readable, clearest, and best all-around newspaper type ever devised.

No feature of The Times more intimately belongs to its readers than the want ads. These little announcements come daily from the pens of thousands of Times readers, other thousands of readers consult them, and both readers and advertisers look upon them as "their" part of the newspaper.

Times readers accordingly will take a personal interest in turning to the want ad pages in today's issue.

Y.M.C.A. IN JUNIOR CLASSIC

Olympic Entry Includes More Than 4500 Boys in Metropolitan District Alone

The Y.M.C.A., through its various Christian citizenship program groups, yesterday entered the Junior Olympic Games with a membership of between 4500 and 5000 boys of eligible age in the metropolitan district alone. These boys, who as members of the Friendly Indians, Pioneers and Comrades, represent more than a hundred churches, and who include also the junior Hi-Ys and Y.M.C.A. building members, will compete under the leadership of Homer A. Gould, director of boy's work in the downtown branch, and Harold A. Wagner.

In addition to this gigantic entry from the metropolitan district, the Y.M.C.A. physical directors and boys' work leaders of Southern California are urged to participate in the games through a bulletin issued from the office of Harry O. Hill of the State Association of Young Men's Christian Associations of California. Quite a number of these out-of-town organizations already have entered in their own district competitions.

SEVENTEEN DISTRICTS

The metropolitan area of Los Angeles will be divided into seventeen districts. The six downtown districts will be directed by Homer Gould, W. A. Reynolds, Lesleigh Davis, E. J. Peery, Harold Dibb and Herbert Seltzer. Five Hollywood and San Fernando Valley districts will be under the leadership of Louis Mellette, Merle Waterman, Paul Delp, Knowles Howe and C. V. Root. Gale Needham and Charles Alford will lead two San Pedro districts, Randolph Mueller and James W. Bain will lead two Hollenbeck Heights districts, and Jefferson Brown and Harold Wilson the two Twenty-eighth-street districts.

Among other plans for making the participation of these boys a success is one providing for special coaching of the contestants by older boys of the same organizations, among whom are some of the most

The Lancer

THE result of the naval court-martial shows that nature made a better job of inventing submarines than Simon Lake.

The whale is, to all intents and purposes, a submarine. The first thing he does on coming to the surface is to give warning of his presence. He blows.

Until the Navy adopts some such system to give warning to sea traffic, there will always be accidents like the one which destroyed the S-4.

RAMONA

A new motion-picture version of "Ramona" is awaited as eagerly as though Mrs. Helen Hunt Jackson's novel were a best seller, just off the press. It is one of the few books written in America which is to live forever.

Most of the novels of early-day California are pretty awful. The young lady authors who have written most of them have made up their minds that California of that day was "romantic," and that they must catch this glow.

NOT ALL ROMANCE

Whereas, of course, life in those days was no more romantic than now. The good padres of mission days didn't spend their time walking in moonlit gardens. They divided their time between routine religious duties and the tough job of trying to keep the Indians at work raising corn, mixing adobe bricks and making tiles.

The lovely senoritas were not unreal angels of song, who lived in lace shawls and existed on a diet of guitar music. They probably had corns and halitosis, and quarreled with their dressmakers—just as all young ladies from the cave days down to the Ziegfeld Follies.

GOSH!

Mr. Rasmus Thekelsen Gottlieb, the actor, shows good judgment in asking the court to change his name to plain Karl Dane. His birth name probably reaches back to a distinguished ancestry; but it sounds like a man having difficulty with his false teeth.

BUNK

The plea of the Soviet Reds for complete disarmament is plain bunk. They show the same sweet spirit of self-sacrifice as when a girl who has just bobbed her hair gives away her out-of-style Spanish back-combs.

The Reds are willing to give up a navy because they no longer have any use for one. If the Reds could put Europe in a position where, in the event of war, every nation would have to scramble together an amateur army, she would be in the strongest position of any of them.

CANNIBALS

Some more bunk is contained in the wild alarm dispatches about cannibals in Dutch New Guinea.

Cannibals do not eat each other as a system of saving butcher bills. Eating human flesh has always been a ceremony—partly religious; partly patriotic. Among primitive people there usually isn't much difference.

The Havana conference shows that Woodrow Wilson might have left Europe facing a sound, safe future, had he been willing to allow men like Charles Evans Hughes to participate in the peace negotiations at Versailles.

HICKMAN-HUNT TRIAL RESUMES

Officer on Stand Again Today in Toms-Killing Case

"Not Guilty" Phase of Fight Nears Completion

Child Slayer Adopts Faith of Catholic Church

Speedy completion of the "not guilty" phase of the joint-trial of William Edward Hickman, condemned killer of a 12-year-old schoolgirl, and Welby Hunt, his 17-year-old pal in banditry, is anticipated when the hearing is resumed at 10 a.m. today in the court of Judge Craig. They are charged with the slaying of C. J. Toms.

When the hearing recessed over the holiday Patrolman Oliver was on the stand, and today he will continue his testimony as an eye-witness of the revolver battle Christmas Eve, 1926, in which Toms, Rose Hill druggist, was killed. The police officer will testify, according to Dep. Dist.-Attys. Thoms and Costello, that young Hunt fired the shot which caused the death of the druggist.

Following the testimony of the police officer, Chief County Jailer Dewar and Undersheriff Biscailuz will be placed in the witness chair and they will tell the court and jury of the circumstances surrounding the confessions of Hickman and Hunt, which relate in detail the attempted robbery and slaying of the druggist. The confessions of the bandit pair then will be read to the jury, according to the plans of the prosecuting attorneys.

CHAIN WILL BE FORMED

The reading of the confessions into the record will form the complete chain of evidence, the State's attorneys say, which will prove to the jury that Hickman and Hunt are guilty of the slaying of the druggist, and should suffer the penalty for their crime.

After the introduction of the word story of the accused bandit pair, Attorney Gilmer, attorney for Hunt, will call George L. Hunt, father of the pal of Hickman to the stand. He will tell of the early life of the youth, and will give a short resume of the life of his son before he met Hickman. Following the father of the accused youth, will come Mrs. A. R. Driskell, step-grandmother of the lad, who will tell the jury that young Hunt has been a model youth since his separation from Hickman, and that he gave the police information which led to the identification of Hickman as the abductor and slayer of little Marion Parker. After this family testimony, three or four character witnesses, who have become acquainted with Hunt during his residence in Los Angeles, will take the stand and tell the jury of his behavior and general attitude.

HICKMAN'S INSANITY PLEA

This will conclude the defense testimony to the first phase of the hearing, according to defense attorneys, and it is expected that these witnesses will furnish their testimony before Friday adjournment. Jerome Walsh, chief defense counsel for Hickman, has said that he expects to offer no defense testimony to the charge that Hickman was a member of the bandit pair who attempted the robbery and committed the murder.

With this phase decided by the jury, the court then will take up the "not guilty by reason of insanity" plea of Hickman, and the hearing of the evidence on this portion of the trial will consume several days, according to the plans of the prosecution and defense. As soon as the jury returns a verdict in the present case, young Hunt will be returned to his cell, and Hickman will hear expert testimony covering his sanity.

HICKMAN BECOMES CATHOLIC

William Thomas Hickman of El Paso, Tex., father of the child-slayer, who is under sentence to die on the gallows April 27, arrived here yesterday, and in company with the mother of the mutilator and the brother, Alfred, visited Hickman in the County Jail. The father, mother and brother, will take the witness stand during the final phase of the trial and testify to family history in an effort to prove the son mentally incompetent.

The child-mutilator, according to his guards and jailers, adopted the Roman Catholic faith yesterday afternoon, and was baptized in this belief. He will go to his death, following his baptism, as a member of the Catholic church, the rites being administered by Father Brady at a conference yesterday.

The father of young Hickman was a visitor to the County Jail over the holiday, and spent several minutes with his son.

CITRUS MEN GET STATE INSURANCE

Exchange Announces New Blanket Policy to Cover Operations in Orchards

A blanket compensation insurance policy for the protection of individual citrus growers under the new Workmen's Compensation Insurance and Safety Act was announced yesterday by the California Fruit Growers' Exchange, effective March 1, next. This new blanket coverage was arranged by the Exchange with the State Compensation Insurance Fund.

"Growers have expressed keen interest in the service," declared B. B. Gregory, assistant secretary of the exchange, in announcing the innovation, "which not only gives adequate coverage under the new law but allows appreciable savings. Those who have taken out individual insurance and whose policies expire during 1928 are privileged to come under the blanket arrangement at the expiration of their present policies by filing applications for the fractional period ending March 1, 1929, after which they will be included automatically at each renewal period. The new service is beneficial to every grower who is eligible to join, which means all exchange members."

MEAN SLAP DELIVERED BY LETTER

"Insignificant Protoplasm" Charge Ruffles Calm of Usually Placid Official

F. D. Sweger director of the Bureau of sanitation of the city health department, was annoyed yesterday to such an extent that his characteristic calm was greatly ruffled, a heretofore unheard-of thing.

The general cause of the annoyance was a pile of correspondence containing certain needless questions. The specific irritant was an assertion in one of the letters that he is an insignificant protoplasm, because he refused to abate a nuisance in county territory.

The climax came when Morris Siegel, chief supervisor of the sanitation bureau, smiled at his superior.

"Do not laugh," said Sweger. "This is serious. A woman has said that I am insignificant protoplasm. You tell her I am not. Will you, Morris?"

Siegel replied that he would "And Morris, after you finish that you might as well answer these other letters." Sweger added. "This one is from a woman who wants a clergyman sent out to get the truth about some annoying chickens.

"Here is one from a man who wants to know if he must install a sink, drain and special water meter for his horse.

"Another woman asks if she must have a permit to water the roses on her fence, and the last letter is from a woman who complains about her neighbor's dog, but does not want the neighbor to know who made the complaint. The neighbor is revengeful, disagreeable, rude and insolent like the writer's first husband, according to the letter.

"And, good-by, Morris, I am sorry that you cannot play golf, as we planned."

Sweger's calm was restored and he left smiling.

AUTO KILLS PEDESTRIAN, DRIVER HELD

Asserted Hit-Run Motorist Captured After Fatality, Faces Murder Charge

While Lloyd Youmans, 48 years of age, and his wife, of 365 South Rugby street, Huntington Park, were crossing Wilshire Boulevard at Manhattan Place late last night, a roadster automobile traveling at a high rate of speed, careened toward them on the wrong side of the road. Mrs. Youmans ran in one direction. Youmans ran in the other. The speeding car struck Youmans squarely. When his body was picked up fifty feet away, he was dead.

The roadster thrown into a side-skid by the impact, slid thirty feet down the center of the boulevard, straightened, and continued on its way, according to police reports. A passing car, the driver unknown, took after the roadster, overtook it and crowded it into the curb.

Police officers running to the scene took Charles E. Lloyd from the seat. He gave his address as 648 Venice Boulevard and said he is a broker. At the Georgia-street Police Station, where he was taken by Detective Captain Stole, he was booked on a charge of second-degree murder. Dr. Savieren of the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital, after an examination, said Lloyd was drunk.

B. B. BROOKS OF WYOMING FOR HOOVER

Former Governor and His Wife Visit Los Angeles as Their "Other Home"

Ex-Gov. B. B. Brooks of Wyoming, accompanied by his wife, who for many years has been national committeewoman from that State, is stopping at the Biltmore. Their home is in Casper.

"We look upon Los Angeles just as our week-end resort and next to Wyoming we love California better than any place in the world," he said yesterday. "While I have given up smoking and politics for keeps, I do feel that as a nation we are running rampant on Federal control. There is too much bureaucracy in Washington.

"I am satisfied that Wyoming will send its Republican delegation solid for Hoover and I want to see him win. Trend of population and national developments in industry and agriculture justify the stand for a western man in the Presidential chair next term."

Gov. Brooks is interested in oil both in California and Wyoming and is a banker. He has interests in the wool output of his State where he has been a resident for forty years.

Sewer Blast Causes Scare

Hollywood had an earthquake scare last night when five covers over manholes were blown off by an explosion of sewer gas. The explosion centered at Whitley Terrace and Iris Circle and brought many residents into the streets.

The fire and police departments were called. The only damage was the wrecking of four lamp posts.

If a factory should remain intact in its physical condition, of how much value would it be to the owner if he were not permitted to use it? Our patents, copyrights and contracts are not physical property, tangible and transferable, yet they are among the most valuable of all property."

The speaker previously had scored a condition asserted to be existent in Congress in which he stated it "concerned itself with relatively unimportant things rather than concentrating its powers and energies upon the great questions of vital moment to the nation's on-going."

McGARRY RECOUNTS HISTORY

Retiring President D. F. McGarry in his valedictory stressed the accomplishments of the past in Los Angeles and particularly of the Chamber of Commerce. He told of the development of California, from the days of the Digger Indian, through the days of the kindly padres, the romantic days of the caballeros, the heroic days of the Forty-Niners' and the days of San Francisco's zenith. He described the rise of Los Angeles in the heart of the "cow counties" and the forming of the Chamber of Commerce in the dark days of 1888.

He asserted that prospects for the coming year are bright; that $15,000,000 have been added to the city's pay rolls in the past two years and that the harbor trade has increased to $900,000,000, five and a half times its total six years ago. He asked for support of the parks and playground projects and lauded his successor, after expressing appreciation of the support he himself received during his tenure of office. He then handed his gavel over to the new President George L. Eastman.

POINTS TO PROBLEMS

Eastman stated that the first problem and most important now facing Los Angeles and Southern California is consideration of the events in Owens Valley as well as the basic problem of a water supply for Los Angeles.

In speaking of the growth of population in Southern California the new president stressed the fact that such new population must have a means of livelihood and that this must be provided by noncompetitive industries brought to this region, and by development of markets.

Westward lies the logical and greatest field for development of commerce here, he said, with South America as a similar field for expansion. Friendly and square-dealing relations with the peoples comprising the new markets to be developed must be established by concerns here. South America is already sentimentally attached to Los Angeles, he pointed out, but the fact that we have here a background of Spanish influence from the earliest days, that we have the largest Spanish-speaking population of any city in the world, and that we are enabled, by these conditions better to understand and appreciate the spirit of the Latin-American nations.

He spoke of his recent visit to Washington in relation to the water-supply problem here, saying that Washington seems to think that the big issue involved is hydroelectric power. He was compelled to convince them, he added, that the real issue is that of adequate supply of domestic water for Los Angeles and Southern California. He also impressed California's legislators in Congress with the fact that any attempt to insist upon minor details in the water project that might hamper this important matter would be frowned upon by the voters of Southern California.

OTHER SPEAKERS

He expressed appreciation of the work of the Junior Chamber of Commerce in development of the sport and recreational program now being carried out, and closed his talk with a reminder that the Chamber of Commerce is an instrument at hand with which to accomplish Southern California's ideals.

Arthur Brisbane spoke concerning the advertising value of the press to Los Angeles.

Those at the speakers' table were: James A. Anderson, John E. Beman, A. Schleicher, Col. Pease, Horace Mill, C. C. Hine, Dr. James A. Blaisdell, Frank Brooks, William Simpson, Councilman Bonelli, John Burke, Father Sullivan, William Lacy, Dr. Rufus V. Von KleinSmid, E. M. Boddy, Theodore F. Merseilles, Arthur S. Bent, Dr. Berthold Lauefer, Supervisor McClellan, John E. Coffin, J. A. H. Kerr, D. W. Pontius, Commander Waddell, John Burton, Dr. E. C. Moore, Harold Janss, Mayor Cryer, John Austin, Adolph Ochs, D. F. McGarry, John D. Fredericks, George L. Eastman, Arthur Brisbane, Admiral De Steiguer, Shannon Crandall, Lieut.-Gov. Pitts, Dr. Stewart P. MacLennan, E. A. Dickson, Dr. Robert A. Millikan, Harcourt Hervey, Ludwig Schiff, Dr. Frank Barham, R. R. Holloway and Durward Howes.

Park Promoter Biltmore Guest

Dr. Nathan W. Green, a trustee of the American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society of New York, founded by the late Andrew H. Green, is a guest at the Biltmore. Dr. Green is a surgeon of St. Luke's Hospital, New York, with which he has been connected since 1911.

"My avocation is public parks and I hope to see America carry on in all park development as the finest heritage of this nation," he said yesterday.

WANTED: BRIDAL PAIR

Dance Hall Owner Hunts Couple for Leap Year Wedding

Is there a couple in Los Angeles contemplating matrimony who would like the prospect of celebrating their wedding once every four years? Such is sought by Fred H. Solomon as principals in a leap-year public wedding the night of the 29th inst., in his Grand-avenue ballroom.

All that is required to be eligible is that the bride-to-be follow the ancient and honorable leap-year custom of proposing and leading the man of her choice to the altar.

ARTIST'S KIN WINNER OF PRIZE

Student Has Best Trade Week Poster

Miss Ethel Sjostrom and Prize Poster

ONE of the happiest men in California yesterday was A. J. Perry, New England artist now living in California, when informed that his grand-daughter, Miss Ethel Sjostrom, 2657 South Harvard street, was awarded first prize in the Foreign Trade Week poster contest.

Perry, whose brush has placed him in the front rank of American landscape artists, is well into his 70's, but he still derives much pleasure from painting and is at his easel almost daily.

His pride in his grand-daughter's achievement is all the greater when he considers that she competed with nearly 100 other artists, many of whom are professionals and not a few of them specialists in the art of poster designing. She is a pupil of the Frank Wiggins Trade School and took up art seriously only last September.

Miss Sjostrom is extremely modest about her artistic endeavors. She confessed that her ambition is to become a commercial artist.

Forty of the posters submitted in the contest are on display at the Barker Brothers auditorium and they have attracted much attention within the last few days. Second prize was awarded to Ray Connors, a professional of Manual Arts High School, and third went to James Patrick, a student at Hollywood High School. Honorable mention was accorded to a number of other contestants.

WHISKERS FACE ECLIPSING

Commission Sees No Art in Mayors' Mustaches, and Council May Fix Their Fate This Week

Members of the Art Commission may shudder at the municipal collection of sixteen paintings of mayors of Los Angeles which has been the city's official tribute to art, but it is safe to say that any move to have the pictures relegated to the deepest cellar of the new City Hall will be opposed by old-time Los Angeles barbers and by retired manufacturers of mustache cups.

A mere photograph never could show the glory of former Mayor Snyder's pink whiskers nor the golden sheen of former Mayor Beaudry's sideburns.

Then, too, the paintings show the neat trim, of interest to barbers of the old days, who took pride in their art, of the goatee of former Mayor Spence, who, in the painting, wears chin adornment that may be compared only to that still worn today by J. Wiseman McDonald as a defiance to modern, beardless youths. Former Mayor Workman is shown with his brown whiskers, former Mayors Nichols, Bryson, Hazard and Rowan with their mustaches, while the painting of former Mayor Rader reveals a thirty-third-degree mustache, almost the father of all mustaches, with its curling ends and luxuriant growth.

SNYDER'S PAINTING UNIQUE

And it would be a shame, say the old-timers, to bury the painting of former Mayor Snyder, showing the carefully coiffured whiskers, which gave him the name of "Pinky" Snyder.

The art collection, too, shows the changes in style of male adornment and beautification, for as the art lover visiting the City Hall to gaze enraptured on the paintings starts with the first one, that of Stephen C. Foster (also wearing whiskers) and comes on down the row, the mustaches and whiskers grow smaller, until they disappear in the paintings of former Mayors McAleer and Harper, to be revived for the moment by former Mayor Alexander, and then to disappear again in the paintings of former Mayors Rose and Sebastian.

SNYDER NOW BEARDLESS

Mayor Cryer is a member of the mustacheless age, and former Mayor Snyder, who lives at the Biltmore and mingles with flaming youth, shaved his pink whiskers off ages ago. So the art collection has historical value, even though the art commissioners have asked the City Council to buy a set of colorless photographs of all mayors.

The City Council may take action this week on the Art Commission's request for funds to purchase the photographs, and unless old-timers interfere, the present beardless Council is expected to take no interest in preserving and prominently displaying the art collection of sixteen paintings in the new City Hall.

Los Angeles has had thirty-one different men as mayors, beginning with A. P. Hodges, who was Mayor in 1850.

STARS STIFLE SOLAR LIFE

Only Mars Habitable So Far as Astronomers Can See Now, Declares Dr. Russell

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Feb. 22.—Mars is the only celestial body within the present scope of astronomical observation in which life as we know it has a chance to exist, in the opinion of Dr. Henry Norris Russell, astronomer of Princeton University, who now is in Pasadena conducting research work at the Mt. Wilson Observatory.

There is every possibility, however, that there are planets in other solar systems, so far removed from the earth that present telescopes do not reveal them, which may harbor life, Dr. Russell says.

All but about 1000 of the billions of bodies which astronomers have observed throughout space are stars, Dr. Russell pointed out, and stars are so hot that no life could exist within 2,000,000 miles of them. Of the planets and asteroids which remain, the latter are too small to retain atmosphere and consequently could not support life.

That leaves planets, and on only three of these, Mars, Mercury and Venus, are the conditions even remotely comparable to those on earth. On the others, extremely intense heat or cold or absence of atmosphere would prohibit life. On one side of Mercury the temperature is continuously hot enough to melt lead, while on its other side, no heat at all falls. Venus has a greater range of heat and cold than the earth, but life might exist there, if oxygen existed.

Mars's greatest heat exceeds that of the earth's tropics, and every night the temperature drops below freezing. Air, water and land are present, but desert conditions prevail. Vegetation and polar caps, presumably of snow or ice, have been observed on Mars, but there has been no positive evidence discovered of animal life.

Felony Charge Pushed Against Film Director

Amil Kruschke, also known as William Nigh, motion-picture director, has been summoned to appear before Superior Judge Hardy today for arraignment on charges of assault with intent to commit murder arising out of an asserted attack on Edward Usher, Jr., over the affections of Jean Jarvis, film actress.

Prosecution of Kruschke became the center of a controversy when it was learned that he had appeared in the court of Justice of the Peace Wilson at El Monte the 10th inst., and pleaded guilty to simple assault, for which he was fined $100.

Usher took steps to force prosecution on the felony charge and Dep. Dist.-Atty. Mackay announced that Kruschke would be so prosecuted despite the El Monte incident.

Burt Trowbridge, Kruschke's chauffeur, is a codefendant on the same charges.

The two men are accused of attacking Usher as he left a friend's home with Miss Jarvis in Beverly Glen last November.

SACK MURDER SURPRISE DUE

Defense Announces Plans for Final Move Today

Man With Stronger Motives for Slaying to be Named

Witnesses Ready to Recite Story of Conflicts

Defense in the case of Dr. Charles McMillan, on trial for the murder of Mrs. Amelia Appleby, will attempt to put witnesses on the stand today in an effort to prove that another man had stronger motives for the murder of Mrs. Appleby than any of those attributed by the prosecution to Dr. McMillan.

This was learned late yesterday as Defense Attorneys Jerry Giesler, W. T. Helms and Jerome Mayo prepared to finish their battle to save the doctor from conviction.

"We have witnesses who can prove that another man had a powerful motive that might have induced him to commit murder," said Attorney Giesler. "We know that the struggle between him and Mrs. Appleby resulted in physical altercations and death threats and that the police, in at least one instance, were called in to quiet one of their conflicts."

OBJECTIONS EXPECTED

The chief defense attorney admitted that it is very probable that the prosecution will raise strenuous objections to the testimony proposed by the defense on the ground that Dr. McMillan, and not the man to be named today, is on trial.

"We believe, however, that the court wishes all of the facts and circumstances surrounding the case brought to light," said the defense counsel, "and our evidence certainly is pertinent. The case against Dr. McMillan is purely circumstantial and we believe that a case just as strong could be built up against the man we will name."

In the event that Superior Judge Edmonds, before whom the accused physician is on trial, rules that the defense testimony is inadmissible, Attorney Giesler indicated that the defense probably can conclude its case today. In that event, the jury will begin deciding the fate of Dr. McMillan some time Friday.

FINAL WITNESSES

Final witnesses for the defense probably will be Dr. McMillan who when he takes the stand in his own defense, is expected to attempt to explain the mass of circumstantial evidence piled up by the prosecution. When he takes the stand, however, he will give Dep.-Dist.-Attys. Menzies and Crail, conducting the prosecution an opportunity for the sharp cross-examination it is known they have prepared for him.

FUNERAL OF MRS. MARSH TOMORROW

Mother of Six Children in Films Will be Laid to Rest in Forest Lawn

Funeral services will be conducted tomorrow at 3 p.m. from the Little Church of the Flowers for Mrs. Mae Marsh, whose six children are prominent in motion-picture circles.

Mrs. Marsh died unexpectedly yesterday morning at the California Lutheran Hospital as a result of a cerebral hemorrhage following a short illness. She was stricken at her home, 320 South Alvarado street, and rushed to the hospital where she died a short time later.

Among the six children left by Mrs. Marsh is Mae Marsh, who rose to stardom in D. W. Griffith's first great film spectacle "The Birth of a Nation." Miss Marsh now is Mrs. L. L. Arms, wife of a journalist.

Of the other five children Frances Marsh is film editor for the Paramount-Famous Lasky Corporation. Oliver T. Marsh is cinematographer with United Artists, Mildred and Leslie Marsh are actresses and Mrs. George Bertholon is wife of the production manager for Cecil B. De Mille.

Besides the immediate family, Mrs. Marsh leaves several grandchildren. She was a widow.

Mrs. Marsh, who was 52 years of age, will be buried in Forest Lawn Cemetery. Funeral arrangements are in the hands of the Ruppe Mortuary.

Similar Names Cause Confusion

Owing to confusion of his name with another Los Angeles business man, Robert C. Gillis, president of the Santa Monica Land and Water Company, yesterday sent announcements to his friends and clients stating that "there is an R. C. Gillis in this city who has no relation to or connection with this office."

The man referred to is Ronald C. Gillis, connected with the Pacific Lead-Silver Mining Company, with offices in the Sun Building. Robert C. Gillis requests that his clients and friends use his full given name.

EXTORTION PLOT HOLDS OFFICERS

Compton Trio Charged With Taking "Hush Money"

Covered Up Still Operation Witnesses State

Signed Confessions Read Taking Up Collection

Cloaking asserted extortion operations under police shield, Deputy Constable Ike Ruiz and Special Officers Tony Marquez and Rafael Bustamente of Compton exacted sums of money from gambling operators in exchange for protection, it was charged at a preliminary hearing of the trio on criminal charges before Municipal Judge McConnell.

All might have gone well, it not been that one of the defendants' "clients" was visited by detail of investigators from the District Attorney's office, according to evidence adduced by Dep. Dist. Atty. Cushman.

TELLS OF PAYMENTS

Investigators C. B. Lee, W. Paine and J. J. Hine stopped the farmhouse of Ramon Lopez and Isidro Seledon in the Dominguez tract on the night of the 17th inst., and explained they were officers. They were about to search the men under arrest for operating a still when Seledon, they testified, spoke up:

"Business is going a little slow and I haven't been able to get the money, but I'll pay up in a few days."

Scenting that the gamblers operators were purchasing police protection, the investigators, it is said, in Deputy Sheriffs Brown and Luker and Detective Lieutenants Neely and McNamara to assist them. Signed confessions, asserted to have been obtained from Alvarado and Seledon, were submitted as evidence at the hearing by the Prosecution.

"OVERLOOKED" VIOLATIONS

Questioned on the witness stand the complainants testified that the officers found a still on their property early this month and refused to "overlook the law violations on payment of certain sums as "hush money." A total of $1000 was paid in three sums, the last being made on the 10th inst., it was said. Another payment was to have been paid the night the investigators appeared, it was asserted.

The Trio were held for trial in the Superior Court by Judge O'Connell on three charges of extortion and bail was fixed at $5000 each. Meanwhile, a more searching inquiry into the official acts of the defendants is being pushed.

Ordinarily, a charge of possession of liquor is handled by a complaint, but in Patterson's case was indicted by the Federal grand jury at Seattle. Federal authorities say he has been arrested three times previously, on similar charges in Wasington.

Stand Hits at Power Monopoly

Offers to Save $200,000 Yearly

Works Commissioner McGuire has asked the Board of Public Works has referred a request of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation for an opportunity to discuss the commercial street lighting rates and maintenance and thus to disrupt the Municipal Plant has on this lighting matter in influence with the Parker administration," which City Council, defeated in favor of open bidding on this current.

Inasmuch as the controversy is continued, it is pointed out, the assessment payers of Los Angeles, who contribute $300,000 this year, as the company will charge 3 cents per hour, beginning March 1, for current and maintenance. The Power Bureau charges 1½ cents per hour.

Commissioner McGuire is expected to report to the board on the company's application to install and maintain the ornamental lighting systems, the City Council is receiving many protests from individuals and organizations asking that the people who pay the bills for improvements be given an opportunity through open bidding to enable them to receive the benefits of lower rates announced by the company.

Among the protests which the Council will consider this morning is one filed by the Executives' Club of Los Angeles, by the Corporation of 600 South Spring, F. E. Harris & Co. of the Fourth and Grand Avenue Realty Company. The Executives' Club in his letter to the City Council, a member of this association is a business of some importance as citizens and heavy taxpayers to protest against the installation of ornamental lighting, which is to the lowest bidder, and suggests that your honorable body take immediate action in order that we may enjoy the benefit of 1½ cent cheaper rate."

CLOCKS BIDDING

The gas company announced a reduction of ornamental lighting rates, the Power Bureau has for years claimed that it pays no taxes, it is said, in reducing electric rates in Los Angeles, has devoted much time to denouncing the company, stating the reduction. The Power Bureau has announced that ornamental lighting rate reduction has tried to prevent the change and to stall off any action at the City Hall until it is promise that the Power Bureau will cut rates in July. Even then, and the gas company refuses to be frozen out of the ornamental lighting and street service, this delay will cost ornamental lighting associations $100,000 in the next year.

Public Works Commissioner McGuire, setting forth his position in favor of bidding on all work and for all services for the taxpayers pay. The Council, bidding in order that taxpayers the benefit of all possible prices."

AUDITS REPORT

Commissioner McGuire said that he is awaiting a report from Chief Engineer Lauer before making a report to the board. Lauer is expected to come before the Board of Public Works this morning. Protests against the Power Bureau's monopoly have been referred to the Council's Public Lighting committee.

The Power Bureau in delaying reduction in ornamental lighting rates, one of the gas company's charges is piling up a profit at the rate of $300,000 a year.

A LOST ART

People are talking a lot, but that is no sign that they are making conversation.

CLEAN MILLIONS

Another thing for the soap-box orators to worry about is the fact that the crop of millionaires in this country has increased more than 600 per cent in the last six years. Another funny thing is that the industries which produce soap and boxes both have a rising bunch of plutocrats. The cleaning up is not done by the soap-box speakers.

THE OIL WAR

The war between the Standard and Shell interests ends with gasoline still on tap at the corner. Although it is best for the future of the petroleum industry that the big producers be at peace the average citizen doesn't grieve heavily if they chance to be at war. To him it merely means more miles to the gallon.

BIGGER THAN EVER

Those who fancied that the peak point in motor sales had been passed will have to strain their eyes once more. The makers of the mild-priced cars, as well as the producers of the fancy brands, are all sure that their sales this year will be heavier than ever before. They not only have the faith, but are turning out the works.

PUNY POLITICIANS

These be ticklish times. We are sending messages and messengers of amity to other peoples and we are preaching the gospel of peace at every turn of the road, but there are politicians at Washington who strive to spill a fresh pot of beans every day. If the diplomats of other countries were hot-tempered enough to take up and resent all the slams and insults spoken by the irresponsible representatives at the capital we would have a new war every day.

WOMEN AND WAR

The French Assembly voted down the measure which would mobilize the women of the country in time of war. They do not propose to have any war, but if they do the men will continue to do the fighting. The women will take the place of men in business and the industries and thereby provide human material for the trenches, but the Frenchmen do not want their loved ones to draw any nearer to the battle line. If the possibility of trouble must be considered this is about the way most peoples would feel.

THE NEW DUELLO

A couple of affronted Frenchmen fought a duel the other day and created something of a sensation by battling with boxing gloves instead of the usual swords or pistols. They fought five rounds before honor was satisfied, and it is said that more blood was shed on both sides than there would be had the customary lethal weapons been used. The gloves appeal to the emotions less than the foils, but for modern controversies they are highly efficient and in a land that seeks to outlaw the ancient code of honor they provide a dandy substitute.

FIND THE WOMAN

The $2,000,000 theater which will be built at Stratford on Avon as a world memorial to our dead friend, Bill Shakespeare, is designed by a girl who is described as the flapper daughter of an English doctor. She has been out of school but three years, but was successful in a competition which covered the dreams and visions of seventy-two architects from all over the world. Her drawings take into full account the town, the setting, the memorial purpose and the practical usage of a theater. She provides not only a playhouse and a monument, but a work of art. Americans will be glad to provide most of the funds for this vision in stone and marble.

WIT VS. HUMOR

George Russell, poet and painter, who is Irish from skin to skin, has said that his race has wit, but he is quoted as doubting that the Irish have a real sense of humor. He avers his people do not readily take a joke upon themselves. It does appear to be the fact that the rank and file of the Irish are quick to resent any play, picture, painting or production of any kind that jests with the Celts. The Scotch, who are presumed to be serious to the point of gloom, are more elastic in this respect. Scotchmen have been known to chuckle over flippant comment upon their racial traits. The average Irishman may show heat when the ancient vaudevillian blooms on the stage in green whiskers.

THE FITZPATRICK CASE

The secret parole of Joseph F. Fitzpatrick, former Los Angeles City Councilman, convicted as a bribe taker, is not a good example for the State of California to set. The secrecy is in violation of a pledge given by the Prison Board after the "Big Hutch" scandal, that there would be no more secret paroles. The fact that political influence was brought to bear gives the affair a further bad odor. But the fact that a man guilty of a much worse offense than theft was let off with a lighter penalty than men without "influence" get for grand theft is the most serious feature of all.

That the District Attorney of Los Angeles county made no objection to the parole need surprise no one familiar with his record. It will be recalled that he actually asked for the parole of "Big Hutch," so that his action in the present case perhaps shows a slight improvement, if it can be called that.

Bribery is worse than theft because it involves theft and much more as well. The money that Fitzpatrick proposed to take—bribe money that any public official takes—comes from the public, because the bribe giver will recoup it from the public in some form or another, with a generous profit added.

But bribery not only robs the public of money but of what is much more valuable—its confidence in its chosen officials and in the ability of the government to function for the good of all. The anarchist's bomb does far less harm; its damage, at most, is temporary. If popular government is to continue with the respect and support of the public, corruption in all its forms must be punished relentlessly whenever it is discovered. The public must be convinced that when it makes a mistake and selects an official lacking in honesty, there will be no condoning of the faithless servant's offense through inadequate punishment.

It can hardly be contended by anyone that the Fitzpatrick case will have this effect. The State Prison Board set his maximum sentence at five years, and ruled him eligible to parole in two and a half, with further time off for good behavior. This ruling might have released him from prison some time this month, after a total imprisonment of one year, nine months and fifteen days. Surely leniency was sufficiently extended, punishment sufficiently attenuated, without the cutting off of nearly two months more.

Charles E. Downs, copartner in guilt with Fitzpatrick, received no such leniency—unless he, too, has been secretly paroled and the fact has not leaked out. Downs's sentence was set at six years, with eligibility to parole after three; why any distinction was made in favor of Fitzpatrick does not appear; they sought the bribe together, received it together, were convicted together and sentenced together.

If it was because Fitzpatrick had more powerful political friends, the fact is a reflection both upon politics and upon the administration of justice. Men in public life are, in equity, bound more strictly by the laws they aid in making than are private citizens; they should be the last to object when the shoe pinches.

More and more the evidence accumulates that the State Prison Board misconceives its duties. The theory that prisons exist primarily for the reformation of the persons confined in them will have to be thrown overboard; it puts the emphasis in the wrong place. Prisons are for the protection of society through the prevention of crime, in two ways—first by putting criminals where, for a time at least, the public will be safe from them, second by making it plain to potential criminals that the way of the transgressor is hard. When they have accomplished these functions, but not until then, may they devote attention to the welfare of the individual criminal.

According to the most favorable view that can be taken of the Fitzpatrick parole, he was released because of his health. But the public health is very much more important.

The net effect of this parole will be to give the public the impression that politicians will be able to protect themselves from the consequences of their acts, and that public officials who violate their oaths of office may do so with comparative impunity, because even when they are caught the prison doors will swing open for them secretly.

It is an impression which ought not to be given.

A CONVENTION CITY

Los Angeles plays host to many conventions in the course of a year, but has room for more. There is proof of this in the fact that San Francisco, with no more to offer in the way of attractions, if as much, succeeds in capturing more gatherings of more organizations. The reason is that San Francisco makes more effort in this direction.

The San Francisco Convention and Tourist League, organized eighteen years ago, is now a smoothly working agency to bring San Francisco prominently to attention as a convention city. Nor does it drop the matter when the convention is landed, but takes over a good proportion of preconvention publicity and sees to it that the gathering is properly advertised. These activities are more highly developed by the Bay City than any similar service is here, and they are productive of results.

Through possession of an unusually fine convention hall, San Francisco had an advantage over this city for many years. But Los Angeles now has room in its various auditoriums to handle a gathering of almost any size. It can and should become a convention city second to none.

KEEPING THE TEETH

The faculty of a great dental college told several thousand students and graduates that too many teeth are being pulled. Modern methods are curing many diseases of the teeth and jaws without any need of extraction. It is highly important that the teeth should be kept on their job as long as possible. They certainly should not be pulled until the family physician and the family dentist have both agreed that the yanking is imperative. Of course, where only two or three teeth are involved it doesn't make much difference, but where the whole works are under suspicion it is best to take counsel.

The LEE SIDE O' L.A.

BY Lee Shippey

THEY speak of "the spring snow" in Paris when the horse chestnut trees in the Tuileries and all along the Champs Elysees are in bloom. And Parisians grow so ecstatic over it that perhaps it's just as well they can't all come to Southern California in orange-blossom season—for surely our "spring snow" would make them expire from delight.

And if we were Parisians instead of Angelenos a full million of us would go out every Sunday and holiday, not merely to drive, but to walk through miles and miles of blossoming orange trees. It is an experience worth going a long way to enjoy, and one which can be rivaled in only a few places in the world. We'll admit that nothing on earth could be more beautiful than apple-blossom time in Normandie; we have seen whole villages in France which were made sweet by blooming acacias; and down in Mexico we have thought we'd found the very heart of fairyland as we paddled a silent canoe through the canals of Xochimilco—where one must paddle carefully because of water lilies, between banks almost a jungle of roses and many other flowers, and under flowering trees which meet overhead. But nowhere else that we have been have we found such a combination of beauty and perfume as one finds in the orange country of California, nor half so much of it within easy reach. Every one of us ought to go out and revel in it—not merely snort through it in a gas-breathing motor car.

Of all the beautiful shows there are we love our own the best.

Other Perfumes

Leeside: See American growers have petitioned Congress to put a prohibitive tariff on onions. A lot of us who ride the First-street cars would like to have this extended to garlic, too.—Boyle Hites.

No, the Girls Are Firiused

Hi, Lee: Another industry man has left to perish has been rescued by the fair sex. Now that most men wear belts the suspender makers were just about to suspend, but the dear girls are reviving them. One girl at Hollywood High School blossomed in a pair of green suspenders and instantly achieved prominence which sent the girls who featured Russian boots stampeding to the haberdashers for copies. Isn't it quite correct now to say the gals are galused?—C. C. Senor.

Names and Claims

Lee: Though only an occasional visitor in Los Angeles, I'd like to offer a suggestion. Some of your names for streets and business houses claim too much. For instance, one street usurps the name of Hill, though all the downtown streets west of Broadway are hill streets. And only one quick-lunch counter, down on Main street calls itself the Madhouse. In courtesy to the other ninety-nine deserving the title it should either call itself Madhouse No. 1 or, if it preferred to be more bankerlike, or Christian, take the name of First L. A. Madhouse.—Courtney Cooper.

Window Signs of Spring

Leesider: Don't tell me there are no signs of spring in the downtown district. These days the sidewalk in front of every classy millinery shop is fairly blocked by petrified women. Every female who tries to pass does a Lot's wife. Thank heaven, there's still something in which women are like they used to be.—Seymour Seitz.

Unsolicited Testimonial

Dear Sideswiper: You remember the one about the milkman who advertised "We boil all the water we use?" Well, in these days when it is so hard to get unadulterated stuff, I want to pay a tribute to "Hollywood's best bootlegger." And plenty of folks will know who that is. He assures me that all the wood alcohol he uses is absolutely pure.—Parke Row.

SINCLAIR'S SENTENCE

For hiring a detective agency to keep under surveillance jurors trying him and Albert B. Fall in the Teapot Dome oil scandal case, Harry F. Sinclair has been sentenced to six months in jail, his associate, H. Mason Day, to four months. The sentences are for contempt of court. William J. Burns, for his connection with the affair, gets fifteen days, and W. Sherman Burns, his son and active head of the Burns agency, must pay a $1000 fine.

Sinclair is already under sentence of three months in jail for contempt of the Senate.

Washington dispatches do not make it clear whether jury-tampering charges, aside from the contempt charges, are to be pressed or whether they are barred by the punishment already ordered. If there is to be no further attempt at punishment of Sinclair for what is now declared to be a flagrant obstruction of justice, the sentence given him seems inadequate. Jury tampering is one of the worst of crimes, and when detected it should be penalized with severity—not with months in jail, but with years in Atlanta.

However, it is probable that when Sinclair and Fall again face a jury within the next few weeks, the jury will be permitted to reach a conclusion regarding their guilt or innocence in the Teapot Dome leasing without interference from private detectives, and that no juror will be allowed to get the impression that he may have an automobile as long as a city block when the case is over.

Investigation of jurors in important cases, by detectives from both sides, has been a common practice in the East for years, and has been permitted if not approved by the courts. The decision of Justice Siddons of the District of Columbia Supreme Court is the first blow at the practice, but it probably would not have been made if the Burns men had kept within proper limits. To let jurors become aware of any surveillance is obviously improper.

Sinclair, of course, has already suffered heavily in pocketbook as a result of the Teapot Dome transaction. He has lost the leases which cost him a good deal of money, he has involved himself in litigation from which lawyers profited a good deal but Sinclair not at all, and he has heard himself denounced by the Supreme Court of the United States in scathing terms. It is unlikely that any one else will care to repeat his experiment even if he succeeds in escaping jail.

DISABLED EMERGENCY OFFICERS

After heart-breaking delays and disappointed hopes, spread over a period of eight years, at last the disabled officers with the reserve commissions are in sight of the measure of justice and relief owed them by their fellow-citizens in return for the sacrifices they made and the injuries they suffered when their country needed them. Now that the positions are reversed and they need their country, will peace patriotism fall down where war patriotism stood up?

In the present session of Congress the Tyson-Fitzgerald Bill (Senate No. 777 and House No. 500) has been approved by the Steering Committees and placed upon the calendar of both houses. This bill provides for the disabled emergency officers the same benefits long ago granted to their brothers in arms in other branches of the service.

To this bill there is no serious opposition, its provisions are so undeniably fair and equitable. However, the bill is unlikely to come to a vote unless it is made a "special order" or "unfinished business" on the calendar. When this procedure has been secured, filibusters are of no avail and it must come to a vote. Once forced to a vote its passage by a large majority is a foregone conclusion.

Only apathy and red tape can longer delay this belated act of recognition and the time is ripe for all who are concerned in the welfare of these too-long neglected war heroes to get behind their Senators and Representatives and demand that this measure be placed immediately upon the privileged status that will secure its adoption.

COSTLY SONG

The higher the music the higher the price. The tour of the Chicago Opera Company, now under way, will cost $1,300,000, and it takes thirty cars to move just the scenery and baggage. There are nearly 300 members of the company and they have over 1500 big trunks. Only twenty cities are being visited and the door receipts will have to be fat to cover the cost.

NO JOKE

By James J. Montague

Duels have lately been fought in France with gloves instead of rapiers

As story books will all attest,
The good old-fashioned duel
Though often fought with verve and zest
Was never rough or cruel.
Of death the haughty cavalier
Was haughtily disdainful
And slashes with a sword or spear
Were seldom very painful.

All warriors of the knightly school
Who prized their honor dearly
Would get mixed up in, as a rule,
A dozen duels yearly.
And though at any trifling slight
They all threw down their gages
And fought full many a valiant fight
They lived to ripe old ages.

But duellists within a ring
Who, when a quarrel commences
Will wallop, punch and jab and swing
To square up old offenses
Or take a hard one on the heart
To pay for some aspersion
Will find the modern duelling art
Is hardly a diversion.

The good old style was rather nice:
When knights a combat started
They thrust and parried once or twice
And then shook hands and parted.
To battle for their lady loves
Was harmlessly exciting.
But when they settle tiffs with gloves
They'll know they have been fighting!

Politics or Business?

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 16.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I have read with great interest both your editorial and news item in today's Times calling attention to the fact that the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation has reduced its rates from 4 cents to 3 cents for ornamental street lighting. According to the statement in your paper, all of this business is turned over to the municipal plant, without bid. Why?

I am writing this as they are now putting street lights on my street. As I own three lots in Clyde avenue and being one of the signers of the protest against the lights, I would kindly ask you why a contract is let at 4 cents when light can be bought at 3 cents from a private concern, which, as I assume, pays plenty of taxes which the municipal bureau doesn't pay; yet the municipal bureau charges us one-third more. S. P.

A Definition

BEVERLY HILLS, Feb. 17.—[To the Editor of The Times:] As a visitor from Massachusetts allow me to commend your editorial of even date on the pernicious activities of the National Civic Federation.

Desiring to maintain freedom of employment for both parties—employer and employee—alike in Worcester, Mass., and believing this could not be done in a shop where a part of the employees were advocating the closed shop, the Worcester branch of the National Metal Trades Association wrote and drafted a definition of the open shop, which is as follows:

"An open shop is an industrial establishment in which there is no discrimination practiced or advocated by either employer or employee which would restrict the opportunity of loyal citizens to work therein."

JEROME R. GEORGE.

But Who Else Will Do It?

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 20.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I appreciate your paper. Having tried the other dailies I am now a settled patron of The Times.

You have no glaring headlines or sensational stuff to feed us. Your editorials as a rule are for the greatest good to the greatest number. However, your "Hands Off" of Saturday morning, February 18, is not consistent with your other positions.

Individually, I have no quarrel with Mexicans. They do work that I cannot do. But how about the thousands of white American citizens, outbid for their hire by a class of people that can and will work more hours for less money?

E. J. LACY.

Pedestrian Club

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 20.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In this morning's Times I read that a motorist on the highway struck a woman and left her there to die. I note that 90 per cent of the auto drivers at a crossing where there is no automatic signal whiz past persons on the crossing with a look "get off the earth." We have many clubs—why not a pedestrian club that would report auto violations?

A. EMANUEL.

Constructive News Wanted

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 18.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I know that you have been having a great many compliments lately in regard to the way in which you have been handling the recent crime news. I, too, have noticed your attitude, with the very greatest satisfaction, and I congratulate you.

It is true, as Mr. Ochs, editor of the New York Times, said to you in an interview the other day, that the people do want constructive news. This is one of the many reasons why I take the Los Angeles Times. While I do not consider for a minute that your paper is the ideal paper, I realize that you are far ahead of any paper published in Los Angeles. B. L. HAMES.

"AND EVER SHALL BE"

I like to think that in our yesterdays,
Awhile we trod together love's highways,

I like to feel that I today am here,
Because today you did so need me, dear!

And oh! I know that my tomorrow, too
Will bring again highways—and love—and you!

N. W. KEIGHTLEY.

THE ECONOMICAL MOTORIST

I'm good at mechanics, I tell you,
I do all of the work on my car.
Garage men will gyp you and sell you;
It is better to dodge them by far.
This morning I oiled and I greased,
And cleaned off the dust and the dirt,
Thus saving two-fifty at least,
While I ruined a six-dollar shirt.

A LIVERY VIEW OF THE U. S. A.

BY ALMA WHITAKER

"The Raven on the Skyscraper," by Paul and Veronica King, has just been published in England, purporting to be a "study of modern America"—and it scarce leaves us a virtue.

The authors say that all recent "studies" of us have been written by social lions, who were flattered, entertained and feted into thinking us quite nice, and are, therefore, untrustworthy. But these authors lived among us for years (most of it apparently in Los Angeles) as ordinary visitors, without any glamour, and were able to come to a very different conclusion.

The book is dedicated to "The Dying Race of Real Americans, with sympathy and admiration," and then proceeds to denounce us as vulgar, hypocritical, tawdry, snobbish and frequently quite disgusting. To prove their various statements they quote from our own writers, mostly in obscure journals. The only titbit of praise to be found is for our own John McGroarty, although newspaper writers in general are conceded a soupcon of decency.

But for the rest, our society, our politics, our courts, our women's clubs, our drama, our immigration laws, our crime, our ideals, our system of education, our business methods and pretty well everything else about us are beneath contempt. In fact, as a nation the United States of America ranks about as low as a country could rank. Two or three chapters are devoted to proving how low our women have fallen and what a peculiarly messy lot we are—irresponsible, tawdry-minded, selfish, lazy and hopeless failures as wives.

As most of their time was spent in Los Angeles, they dissect this community more than any other—and even name a few names. They deride us in pretty well every field. And particularly for our penchant for lecturers like John Cowper Powys, who they admit is an Englishman, but of the type we should certainly not permit to guide our thoughts; and also for our weakness for Indian and other "freak" philosophers.

They do awful things to our Hollywood colony, calling certain stars "social garbage;" and ridicule our weakness for bogus titles, naming several that fooled us—for a short time.

A page is devoted to Lady Astor, who although an English M. P. was Nancy Langhorne of Virginia—and poor Nancy certainly catches it. We gather that she is polluting England. But at that Elinor Glyn gets a whack or two as well—but America probably contaminated Elinor. Anyway, it is our fault Elinor is encouraged.

Now who are this Paul and Veronica King? Well, Paul spent forty-seven years in China with Sir Robert Hart. That is significant. You can see what happened to the poor chap's liver. No wonder he has a jaundiced eye. That also means that he is quite an old gentleman who, for at least forty-seven years enjoyed the prestige that goes with an official job in the Orient, used to a liberal supply of inexpensive Chinese servants and a great deal of flattering Chinese courtesy. It also means that he doesn't know so very much about the England he idealizes so fondly. He remembers only the England and the United States that he knew as a younger and less critical man—and doesn't know that all the world, including England, as well as the United States, has changed considerably since then. Maybe neither the United States of America nor Britain has changed for the better, but we have both been changing in the same direction—and a great deal of the stuff that these authors deride and scorn us for came to us from Britain (in the form of an endless stream of lecturers) or anyway from Europe. Even those fake aristocrats we fell for . . . why wouldn't we believe with childlike faith that anything that came out of aristocratic and superior Europe was righteous—at least until proven otherwise?

One interesting effect this book has, is that it annoys the resident English who have adopted the United States of America, made their homes here, made their living here, and have come to love this America, even more than it does those Americans it sets out to deride. We are conscious of wanting to yell, "Oh, but . . ." on every page of these half-truths. We are ashamed of this manner of seizing upon trifles and exploiting them into mountainous "evidence." Just as one must live long in England before fully appreciating its underlying virtues, so one must live and work and earn among Americans to know the real heart of them. The surface faults of any country would make nasty reading. One can always find petty faults to exploit if one hunts such exclusively as these authors did. Much that they say is true—as far as that goes. But much more is true and gloriously fine, that these authors never came upon—or, if they did, purposely ignored, since otherwise there would have been no excuse for writing another book. They say in the first chapter that many books have been written by Europeans extolling our virtues—and imply that it made them sick. They frankly state that they set out to "denature this superfluous glamour."

Well, that is an easy job. They have done it very capably. And if the British are as just and completely wholesome as the comparisons imply, it won't do any harm. They, too, will smile tolerantly and remember what forty-seven years in China can do to a British liver.

President Cosgrave says he has been struck by the efficiency of America. Hope he doesn't get in front of one with poor brakes.

SELECTION POPULAR
That Blake's selection is popular with the rival camps goes without saying. Blake was the only referee known to Uzcudun's board of strategy when the bout was in the making, and the Basque's many managers insisted on him as the third man in the ring.
Blake is also perfectly satisfactory to Jim Dougherty, the manager of Godfrey, although he has

YALE SPRINTERS HANG UP NEW WORLD RELAY RECORD

NEW HAVEN (Ct.) Feb. 22. (AP)—A new world's record for the half-mile relay was made at Coxe Field Gymnasium today by Yale's crack furlong men. They clipped three seconds from the former mark of 1m. 35 2-5s. made by the Xavier A.A. team at New York City fifteen years ago, in 1912.

Launie Ross, the Bulldogs' star sprinter, and three of last year's freshmen track team made up the quartet that established the new time. They ran against a freshman team, making the distance in 1m. 32 2-5s.

MANDELL AND FIELDS SET FOR CHICAGO GO TONIGHT

CHICAGO, Feb. 22. (AP)—Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion, and Jackie Fields of California, tapered off training today for their ten-round engagement at the Coliseum tomorrow night. Boxing experts figure it to be one of the toughest matches Mandell has taken on since he became champion nearly two years ago.

JACKIE FIELDS.

Fields won a twelve-round newspaper decision over Mandell on the Coast last year. He outweighs the title-holder by about five pounds, campaigning generally in the junior welterweight class. Since Fields cannot make less than 140 pounds, Mandell's crown is not in danger, but the experts figure he is taking considerable risk with his chin.

To allow the match to proceed, Eddie Kane, Mandell's manager, had to post a $5000 certified check with the Illinois State Athletic Commission. The National Boxing Association insisted upon this guarantee that Mandell would go through with the championship match for which he is signed next June. Jimmy McLarnin is the scheduled opponent, unless Sid Terris takes McLarnin into camp in their encounter Friday night in New York.

RABBIT PUNCHES
BY PAUL LOWRY

WHERE is it going to end—this race for the fastest mile? I asked Barney Oldfield the question at the fights the other night, and he shook his head in a thoughtful and worried manner. Back in 1910 Barney set the first official mile record, piloting his famous Blitzen Benz over the Daytona sands at a rate of 133 miles per hour.

That wasn't as fast as Barney could go, but he thought it was fast enough so he sold the car to Bob Burman, who lowered the record the following year. But Barney's and Burman's marks fade into insignificance beside the over 200-mile-per-hour marks set by Lockhart, Campbell and White over the Daytona sands this week.

"I really don't know what the limit is," said Barney. 'Years ago I thought the terrific speed the motors were generating would tear the tires from the wheels, but apparently contact with the ground negatives this tendency. But I do believe the fastest mile will be raced by a two-wheeled vehicle because there will be no torque to offset its speed. Glenn Curtis proved this nearly twenty years ago when he drove an eight-cylindered motorcycle faster than I drove my Blitzen Benz a year later."

* * *

I understand that the New York newspapers are devoting more space to stories from Los Angeles on the training of George Godfrey and Paulino Uzcudun for their battle at Wrigley Field next Tuesday than they are to the next fracas in Tex Rickard's elimination tourney. Naturally, this is causing loud moans from Tex, who probably wishes now that he had not haggled with Uzcudun over the mere matter of an extra 2½ per cent for a return match between the Basque and Risko.

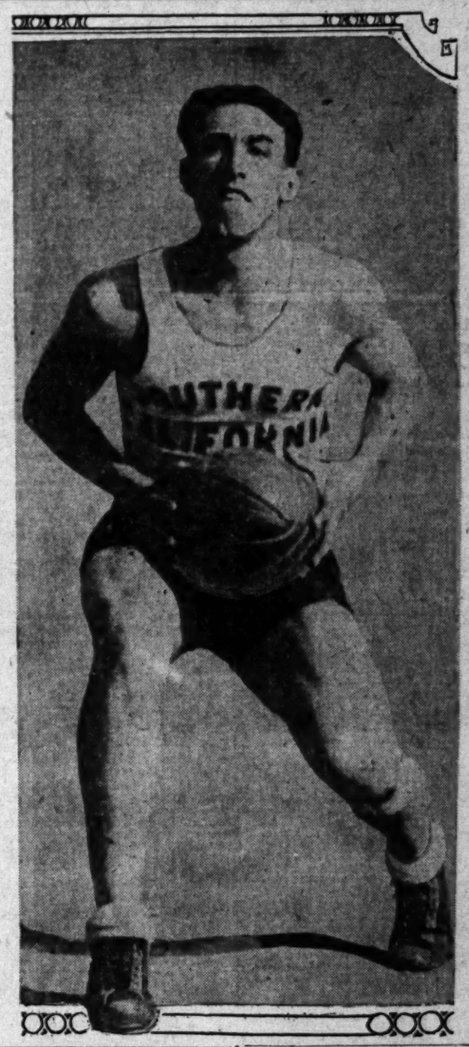
HE SHOOTS TO KILL

Does Jess Mortenson, star forward of the Southern California basketball team. He will be seen in action at the Olympic tonight when the Trojans meet the U.C.L.A. Bruins in the second of a three-games series. Jess was high-point man with eighteen markers last week and Troy's supporters hope he'll repeat tonight.



CAGE TEAMS IN RETURN BATTLE

Rival Basketball Squads Mix on Olympic Court

Trojans Need But One Victory to Clinch Title

Frosh Squads Slated to Play Preliminary Game

BY BRAVEN DYER

Continuing the red-hot rivalry begun last Saturday night, basketball teams representing Southern California and U.C.L.A. clash at the Olympic this evening at 8 o'clock. The game will be preceded by an encounter between frosh teams of the two institutions of learning.

LEO CALLAND

The Trojans, victorious by a 45-to-35 score last week, can clinch the southern title by winning tonight's fracas. If the Bruins succeed in repulsing their rivals this evening Troy's championship aspirations will have to go unsatiated until Saturday night, when the two teams clash again. S.C. needs only one of her remaining three games—the third to be played with Stanford Wednesday night—to clinch the title in the southern division of the Pacific Coast Conference.

ANYBODY'S BATTLE

Tonight's game looks like anybody's battle as there was little to choose between the two teams last week. The Trojans were stronger at the finish, which always helps, but may be seriously handicaped this evening by the absence of Capt. Jack Bruner, who is suffering from an aroused tonsil. Coach Leo Calland hopes to be able to start Bruner tonight, but there are conflicting reports as to his condition and nothing definite will be known until the boys gather at the Olympic.

If tonight's game is as thrilling as last Saturday's folks with weak hearts should remain at home. The Trojans appeared to be hopelessly outclassed, only to come from behind with one of those famous Garrison finishes. Once they had tied the score, Calland's charges were "hot" and they rang up an additional ten points with amazing swiftness.

The Bruins will probably watch Jess Mortenson very closely. He

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 22. Middleweight Champion Finishes Strong to Take Ten-Round Verdict Over Texas Slugger

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 22. (AP)—Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, pounded out a ten-round decision over Jack Willis, Texas slugger, today, but for seven rounds the title-holder had as tough a battle on his hands as he has experienced since he won the crown.

Willis, an obscure 160-pounder, came into the ring a tremendous short-ender, but, in the third, sixth and seventh rounds, he rushed the champion from rope to rope, clipped his opponent on the chin with staggering punches, and had him bewildered enough not to hear the bell. At the end of the seventh round most of the ringside critics conceded the Texan a slight margin in the fight.

Los Angeles Athletic Club Sprinters Go After Trojan Relay Record Next Satu

MERCURIES TO ASSAULT MARK

Charley Paddock and Mates to Pass Baton

Event is Feature of Meet With Pomona Team

Expect to Cut Time Made by S.C. Sprinters

Feeling that they can better the world's record made by the University of Southern California team in the 440-yard relay last week, sprinters of the Los Angeles Athletic Club will assault the mark Saturday afternoon at Claremont. The Mercuries are meeting Bob Strehle's Pomona College athletes in a dual meet and the special relay will be an added feature of the afternoon's program.

Charley Paddock

The Trojans, with Charley Borah running the anchor lap, did 41 3-5s. Saturday, while running against the Mercuries. It was in this race that Charley Paddock put on his sensational sprint which all but caught Borah at the tape. Mere inches separated the two runners and Paddock's time was virtually the same as Borah's.

The Mercuries had one weak link in their team last week. He was Bob Maxwell, the great hurdler, who has not yet indulged in much training this season. Maxwell started several yards behind his rival, due to the handicapping system made necessary by the curved track, and also lost additional yardage as the two flew along. In addition, there were two bad passes, one from Pinney to Schultz and the other from Schultz to Paddock. The last pass almost ruined everything for Paddock had to break his stride and galloped ahead to take the baton from Schultz, who had in reality, passed him up, so fast was the Caltech boy traveling.

Somebody will run in Maxwell's place Saturday, as Bob will confine himself to his pet event, the hurdles, from now on. Coach Boyd Comstock is not just sure who will take Maxwell's place Saturday, but in all probability it will be Kingsbury, former Stanford sprinter, or W. D. Tuxhill, ex-Pennsylvania dash star, both of whom have recently joined the Mercuries. Schultz will probably run first this week, with Paddock last, as usual, and Pinney and the fourth man filling in between.

The attempt at the record should be one of the high lights of Saturday's meet. Because the Pomona track is only a quarter-mile oval, there will be no 220-yard straightaway as was possible at the Coliseum last Saturday. This may cut down the Mercuries' chances, but they think they can turn the trick despite the four curves.

OBSERVATIONS

CHARLEY PADDOCK may still be going as strong as ever—if not more so—but old Father Time is slipping pretty badly. The old boy is taking one beating after another as these track athletes improve under the impetus of better coaching and better competition. One of the best examples is to be found in the sprint races where a gallop of 100 yards in ten seconds flat is regarded as just plain "slow." A more recent example is that furnished by the story on Lloyd Hahn the other night which regarded his victory in the Wanamaker miles as a "hollow victory in which he jogged the mile to win by twenty-five yards in slow time." The "slow time" was just a fraction of a second over 4:21. Now we ask you, Hortense, if you ever saw anybody run a mile in 4:21 and could refer to it as jogging in slow time?

They are gradually getting all sports down to the point where games are like law suits, you win but there's still a big argument left. It was that way last summer when Tunney beat Dempsey, but the Dempsey fans will still tell you that Dempsey really won. Then Norte Dame beat the Trojans but the Trojan rooters all tell you that S.C. won. Now we have the latest along this line from Mr. Joe Stecher who says that when Strangler Lewis met him in that great bout which had been simmering for five years, Lewis won the decision but he wasn't really entitled to it because Joe thought the referee told him to move over to the middle of the ring and Lewis took advantage of the misunderstanding to toss him—the mean old thing.

Those wild longhorns from Texas are still excited about their football teams—and we're forced to admit that every evidence indicates some ground for the excitement. Now they're going to have a meeting of the herd known as the Texas Exes, same being grads and former students of the University of Texas, with a view to arranging a game between this institution and the University of Southern California at some time in the next couple of years. There are three hundred of these ex-Texans around Los Angeles and they are gathering at the Edgewater Club on Texas Independance Day, March 2. Stuart L. Williams and Richard F. Bailey are the prime movers.

TROJANS PLAY BRUINS TONIGHT

rang only 18 points Saturday night, making some of the wildest shots ever seen here. If Bruner does not start tonight, Mortenson will appear at center, which means that the Trojans will get the jump, as Jess outleaped anything Caddy Works had to offer in the way of a pivot man.

WILDS WAS BIG NOISE

Larry Wilds was the big noise for U.C.L.A. Saturday, his shooting being just as sensational as that contributed by Mortenson. The Bruin forward got just as many field goals as Jess, ringing up 16 points as his share of the evening's festivities.

Capt. Jack Ketchum was a bench warmer during most of the initial game, having three personal fouls called on him in the first eight minutes of play. If he is in there longer tonight the Trojans will have two tough foes to watch.

Calland would like to win tonight's game and get the worry off his mind. He could then give Bruner a three weeks' rest, which is what the big center needs more than anything else. The series with Washington, if the Trojans win the southern title, will be played here the second week in March.

MICKEY WALKER THUMPS WILLIS

Launching a terrific attack with the opening of the eighth, he jarred Willis with heavy rights and lefts both to the face and midsection that had his less experienced opponent groggy at the bell. Again in the ninth Willis wilted under a body punishment that had him staggering while his momentary flash in the last round was soon smothered with a beating at close range.

The title was not at stake, as Willis came in at 163 pounds and Walker at 161 1-4 pounds. Approximately 12,000 persons crowded into the armory for the bout. Gross gate receipts were estimated between $30,000 and $35,000.

Toby Irwin of San Francisco refereed the contest. It was the first appearance of Walker in the Bay section since 1925 when as welterweight champion he knocked out "Lefty" Cooper in one round.

"Midget" Mike O'Dowd, Columbus, O., stopped Bobby Herman of Los Angeles in the fourth round of the scheduled six-round semifinal.

WASHINGTON IN FOOTBALL ROLE of young fellows pitching an iron bar (a favorite sport of the day) on the lawn. Peale narrated how Washington appeared on the scene, took the bar, and, without stripping off his coat, toed the mark. He sent the heavy bar through the air far beyond the mark of the others and, upon retiring, said, 'When you beat my pitch, young gentlemen, I'll try again.'

"That Washington was the swiftest runner of all the boys in the neighborhood, is the contention of John Fitzhugh, a friend of his youth. He also declared Washington excelled in jumping, wrestling and pitching quoits.

"Then there is the other story that Washington threw a stone across the Rappahannock River at Fredericksburg. Nobody else has been able to clear the river.

"I find that Washington never used tobacco, drank little wine and retired early. His endurance was such that he could ride sixty miles a day on a horse."

Second place went to Bob Weise of the New York A.C., who won the 100-yard dash in 10 2-5s., after finishing second to McAllister in the first two sprints. Roland Locke, University of Nebraska star, was third in the eighty and ninety-yard events, and second in the 100.

POCATELLO TO BE ANGEL FARM

Field and was much impressed with Marty Krug's Boy Scout infield, composed of Augie Mortaro, Art Parker, Red Tierney and Dutch Sousa. Krug is also enthusiastic about the young infield quartet and believes that all four will be heard from in a couple of years or so. Krug wants to keep the quartet together and is in favor of farming them to Pocatello for a year's experience of professional ball.

Mortaro, Parker, Tierney and Sousa are looking more red hot in infield practice every day and the fans in the stands are talking about them in superlatives. All of the youngsters have bullet arms and the way they rifle the ball around the infield is nobody's business. The boys go through the motions as though they know what it's all about and have impressed Secretary "Boots" Weber to such an extent that he says they form the best young infield he's ever seen. Boots also goes on record as saying that he's willing to wager that they can hold their own in the fielding department with most Class AA infields.

Krug says that this spring's crop of youngsters is the best he has ever seen on any ball club. Marty likes the work of Oval Norton, a young catcher, and is thinking seriously of carrying him with the club this season. Hannah and Sandberg can't go on forever and Marty would like to develop a young catcher. Young catchers are mighty scarce articles nowadays and Krug realizes that Norton will be worth a lot of dough if he can be developed.

Of the incoming crop of rookie outfielders Jim Mosolf, the husky left-hander from Washington, and Al Anderson have impressed the Angel leader. Both hit the ball hard and are improving in their fielding.

Ray Jacobs, Gale Staley and Wes Schulmerich joined the Seraphic squad in training yesterday. It was the first time that Jacobs has been on the ball field since last Fourth of July, when he suffered a broken leg sliding into a base up at Recreation Park. Jake has been jogging around and also exercising the injured leg by jumping rope and reports that he'll be ready to start in where he left off. Jacobs is the original tough luck kid but he has the stuff and is a cinch to get up in the majors sooner or later.

Schulmerich provided a little comedy for the athletes when he came up for his first time in batting practice yesterday. It seems that Wes brought down a special bat with him all the way from Oregon and the boys promptly dubbed it his collegiate bat. Schulmerich liked the feel of the club and figured he'd do a little fence-busting with it. However, the very first time West connected with the ball—blooie! went his bat in a couple of pieces. "And to think I packed it 1100 miles just to break it the first time I hit the ball," moaned Schulmerich.

Schulmerich looked to be a fine shape and won't have to take off more than five or ten pounds to be in the pink. Schulmerich is going to start in center field for the Angels, and it's our guess that he'll be one of the sensations of the league.

The Angels will go through another three-hour work-out today and tomorrow. Krug will pick a team of youngsters to play an all-star squad representing the Commercial Club. The Commercials have gotten together a team composed of Utah-Idaho League stars, and local semipro mashes. The game will start at noon tomorrow and will be free to the public.

BENNY CHAVEZ TOPS MAIN-STREET CARD

Fresh from a sensational victory over Bolo last Saturday night, Benny Chavez again tops the Main-street A.C. card this week-end, when he meets Charley Lupico, the Toledo Italian, in the main event.

A great supporting card to the junior-lightweight wind-up has been arranged by Matchmaker Carlos Curtis. Bobby Mars and Dick Chang, flyweights, tangle in the semi event, while Marco Morales and Mickey Gallitzen will have it out in the special.

Two fours complete the program. Earl Farmer and Ramon Estrada appear in the curtain raiser while Mickey Parr and Ray Molino travel the other quartet route.

WOODS SELECTS NOTED ARBITER

Early Appointment Comes as Big Surprise

Commission Establishes New Precedent

Uzcudun Goes Through Stiff Workout

been quoted as saying things about Blake that he never uttered.

The name of Blake was one that caused a lot of commotion on the occasion of the Hudkins-Dundee fiasco. Max Waxman, manager of Dundee, had a contract calling for Blake to referee, but the Boxing Commission wasn't going to pay any attention to it, and this was one of the reasons why Waxman got so tough about letting Dundee enter the ring. The other reason is too well known for any comment.

Blake has refereed several important fights since the passage of the ten-round law over three years ago, but he turned down many invitations because he was handling Fidel La Barba, the retired flyweight champion. His last activity in the ring was at San Francisco a year ago last summer, when he officiated at the Jack Silver-Mushy Callahan bout.

Blake still handles fighters, and was not particularly anxious to referee the forthcoming heavyweight clash, but did so as a personal favor to Jim Woods, who wants the first big fight under his reign as a commissioner to go over with a bang.

PAULINO VICIOUS

Now that the referee question has been settled to the complete satisfaction of all concerned the bugs can settle down to mulling over the capabilities of the Messrs. Uzcudun and Godfrey.

"Upside Down" celebrated Washington's Birthday by engaging in his most vicious workout since beginning the campaign on Gaston Bastanchury's gorgeous ranch near Brea.

Probably the size of the crowd inspired Uzzie to noble deeds. It looked as if the whole countryside had turned out to see him spar. Hundreds of cars cluttered the little lane that leads to the spacious guest house where Uzzie has his abode, and there must have been between 1500 and 2000 persons trying to get a peek at the rock-ribbed Basque.

Not all of them succeeded, and the Angelenos who drove down for the fun were lucky to squeeze their gizzards inside the arbored inclosure.

However, a delegation of Lodge 906 Elks from Santa Monica headed by Undersheriff Gene Biscailux, their Exalted Ruler, were there along with other local notables. Cap Strelinger was on deck, and so was Si Masters, Jack Doyle's ticket genius, who was there to peddle pasteboards to the willing natives.

Jack Renault, the heavyweight who fought Godfrey in San Francisco two years ago, was there to watch George's foe work, and so were several fight managers and other fistic gentry, including Billy Uvick, Morrie Cohan, Ernie Owens, and others.

Darby Kelly, the official announcer of the camp, was in his usual good voice and sent Tony Randolph out as the first victim. Tony gave Uzzie a good workout and tore into him enough to make the Basque mad, but Randolph managed to leave the ring with nothing worse than a damaged nose and a sore belly.

Randolph worked two rounds but the next victim, Leo Diebel, fights tonight and so only took a round with the Basque.

Clyde Colvin got some of "Upside Down's" pent-up energy in the last session. Uzzie began pawing around with his left hand and then suddenly shot over a right from the shoulder. The first wallop dazed Colvin, but a minute later the second one floored him. Colvin is only a middleweight, but a fairish boxer, and the way Uzzie sneakad over the punches was what caught the eye of the experts.

"Upside Down" appears to be in fine shape, strong as a bull and with excellent wind. He will have two new sparring partners on the bill of fare today, it was announced, namely Ernest Benuee and Vic Alexander, a pair of dusky beauties.

DOG DERBY HONORS WON BY ST. GODARD

QUEBEC, Feb. 22. (AP)—For the second successive year Emile St. Godard, 21-year-old musher of The Pas, Manitoba, has captured the annual international dog derby—123 miles in three days.

Covering the final forty-one-mile grind today in three hours, 39 minutes, 7 seconds, he won the event in the face of a gallant challenge offered by Leonhard Seppala, veteran driver of Nome Alaska. Seppala, covering the last heat in 3:41:40 was second and Earl Brydges of The Pas, third.

The total times for the three days were: St. Godard, 11:14:17; Seppala, 11:17:30; Brydges, 11:26:25.

Sport Cracks By Bud Landis

When asked his opinion of Uzcudun, Mr. Godfrey said: Hard to spell but easy to lick.

Paulino is among us now, resplendent in audible shirts and ties that are long and loud.

Unemployment in the ranks of prizefight managers is practically unknown since Uz entered the field.

He maintains a full cabinet; the greatest entourage that ever ate up a boxer's profit.

There is a secretary of the treasury to make up price lists for ring engagements.

And a secretary of statements who gives out excessive carbon copies to sport writers.

Also a secretary of the interior, referred to as the chef.

And other secretaries too numerous to mention.

Uz is now looking for a secretary of war to do the actual fighting. This will give him leisure for the more peaceful pursuits of championship boxing.

SCOTT BACK IN THIS COUNTRY FOR BATTLES

NEW YORK, Feb. 22. (AP)—Phil Scott, British heavyweight, came back to America today to begin all over again a title drive that already has had one disastrous opening.

Last fall Scot launched an American invasion against Knute Hansen, the melancholy Dane of Wisconsin, in Madison Square Garden. Hansen knocked him down seven times and finally out in 4 single round. Before retiring to England, however, Scott knocked out Mohte Munn and forced Johnny Risko to the limit to win a decision in Cleveland.

HEAVYWEIGHTS TOP CULVER CITY CARD

Heavyweights meet in the ten-round main event of Culver City's weekly boxing show tonight when Rosy Rosales of El Paso steps into the ring with Leo Delbie of Oklahoma in the ten-round main event. Matchmaker Emmett Ledwith has lined up a slam-bang set of preliminaries. Johnny Woods meets Joe Arciniega at 147 pounds in the semi-wind-up. They are sluggers. The balance of the card is Eddie Moore vs. Frankie Tierney, six rounds; Twain Mark vs. Battling Ward, four rounds, and Jimmy Valenti vs. Leslie Ostrom, four rounds.

HOLLYWOOD HEARS EXPERTS ON JUNIOR OLYMPIC GAMES

William M. Henry, Sunday editor of The Times, and Boyd Comstock, Los Angeles Athletic Club track coach, addressed 25,000 students in assembly at the Hollywood High School yesterday afternoon on the Junior Olympic Games. Comstock, a noted figure in track and field athletics, is also director of the games.

The speakers were well received by the student body, and Dr. William Snyder, principal at Hollywood, highly commended the Junior Olympic movement.

Comstock spoke on sportsmanship, and the eleventh Olympiad to be held in Los Angeles in 1932, stressing the fact that many high-school athletes would be entrants in the Olympics. He also stated that the Junior Olympic Games were the first step in the development of boys into the senior Olympic champions of the future. Lee Barnes, Hollywood's famous pole vaulter, who achieved distinction in the 1924 Olympics before he entered the University of Southern California, was given as an example of what may be accomplished by high-school athletes.

In explaining the purpose of the Junior Olympics Henry urged all eligible students to compete and maintain Hollywood's brilliant record on the athletic field. The foothillers have won two major championships, football and basketball, during the past scholastic semester, and have led in many fields in minor sports.

LOWRY'S RABBIT PUNCHES

That in a nutshell is one of the reasons why Uzcudun took two matches in the West. In haggling with Mayer, one of Paulino's managers, over percentage Rickard reminded him that Risko had won the decision, and that the Basque had been eliminated from the tourney. "Yes, that's right," snapped Mayer. "I forgot that, and so has everybody else been eliminated. The tournament doesn't mean anything. We'll chuck it. We won't meet Risko again even if we did get the raw end of a bad decision. Good-by. We're going West."

Jimmy Piela finds himself in a nice spot as the result of his four-round knockout of Baby Sal at the Olympic the other night. Jimmy was put away by Dario Barron, and Barron was hayoed by Baby Sal in two rounds. Now Jimmy comes back with a knockout of Sal. That's quite a reversal of the dope. But giving Jimmy all due credit for his victory Sal is by far the better fighter and the sweeter prospect. He was not stopped cold the other night. The count was badly handled and directed at Piela instead of Sal, and the latter was resting on one knee waiting for the "9" when he received the "out." Sal hits with both hands like the crack of a whip. If I were a manager of box fighters there is one boy I would like to have in my stable. He should travel far along the fistic trail.

Oh, horrors! We read in a recapitulation of the Lewis-Stecher championship wrestling match at St. Louis the other night: "It was the consensus of opinion that the match was honestly contested."

Lou, what do you make of that one?

The Anderson-Colima match at the Olympic the other night topped off one of the best fight cards Matchmaker Hayden Wadhams has dished up in weeks, and he has had some dandies, preliminaries and all, for the past month. Instead of the big match between Paulino and Godfrey killing interest in the other shows it seems on the contrary to have stimulated enthusiasm in the fighting game. And Wadhams has more than done his part.

Prexy Honors Lefty O'Doul at Dedication

MONTEREY, Feb. 22. (AP)—The San Francisco Seals baseball team dedicated the new $50,000 Monterey Baseball Park here today before a crowd of about 3500 by defeating the Monterey team, led by Frank O'Doul, by a score of 11 to 5. Curtis Davis, a recruit pitcher, worked in the box for the Seals the first six innings and only allowed five hits. He struck out seven. Harry Williams, president of the Pacific Coast League, presented O'Doul with the certificate of honor that he won last season for being judged the most valuable player in the league.

tor here for the past few weeks, leaves for Del Monte this evening and will compete in the annual Pebble Beach championship, opening next Monday.

Miss Marion Hollins, former national champ, has dominated the resort affair for the past several years, but with Mrs. Horn, Mrs. Gregg Lifur and several other representatives down State golfers enrolled—there may be a different story this year.

Mrs. Horn considers her forthcoming match with Mrs. Pressler even more important than the Pebble Beach championship—and spent yesterday familiarizing herself with the layout. Jack Malley, club professional, aided Mrs. Horn in her short making tour and while Mrs. Pressler, overgolfed since winning the midwinter at Los Angeles two weeks ago, will spend a few days in the mountains, resting up to be in good shape for the competition—picking a winner—according to Malley, is going to be one tough job.

Mrs. Horn will pair with Hagen, while Diegel and Mrs. Pressler will team together in what will be an eighteen-hole attempt to defeat the king and queen of international golf. A. E. Bourne, Pasadena sportsman, sponsoring the exhibition, stated yesterday that the affair, scheduled for Annandale, one week from next Sunday afternoon, will be thrown open to all local golfers and friends.

DR. BLEGER COPS ACE AT LAKESIDE

Dr. E. J. Bleger, a golfing ray of sunshine who shines exclusively at Lakeside, daily, plays good bridge, but has been known to play better golf, last Saturday for instance, when "Doc" demoralized the members of his foursome, Little Duke Wellington, Wesley Ruggles, and some one else, by not only reaching the 165-yard twelfth green, but holing out from the tee. The wheeze about "bringing Doc two," doesn't tell half the story.

Doc managed to reach the clubhouse—but word of his newly acquired fame had spread and Dr. E. J. Bleger—a practicing physician (adv.) was roundly, soundly and enthusiastically congratulated. Wally MacDonald actually shook hands with him. (Wally made a hole in one last week also—but claims Doc wasn't trying when he tripped open the portals guarding golfdom's hall of fame.)

RANCHO WOMEN START TOURNEY MONDAY

Russ Turner drove 250 yards to win the play-off after tying with Sherman Danby, in the long-driving contest. V. C. Carter annexed the accuracy trophy. Tom Seddon scored a 79 to claim low gross and Mrs. "Tom" Seddon turned the feminine competition into a personal field day by collecting the putting and blind-bogey features.

M'LARNIN MUST DEFEAT TERRIS TO MEET CHAMP

BRIDGEPORT (Ct.) Feb. 22. (AP) Jimmy McLarnin of California, named as the opponent for Sammy Mandell, in defense of his lightweight title in Chicago next summer, must defeat Sid Terris of New York, to be recognized as the leading contender by the National Boxing Association, Thomas E. Donohue, president, stated here today. Donohue also stated that the N.B.A. would relish an elimination tournament to selecte the right opponent for Mandell as well as challengers in other divisions.

"Paul Frehn, chairman of the Illinois Commission, is permitting Mandel to go through with his overweight match with Jack Fields of Chicago tomorrow night as the result of posting a forfeit check of $5000 investing his defense of the title," said Donohue.

"It is a source of deep satisfaction to the association to know that Frehn has declared himself 100 per cent behind the organization in its efforts to force Mandell and Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, to defend their crowns.

"Frehn has succeeded in his efforts with Mandell and the association is confident that Walker's indefinite suspension will stand in all the affiliated States as long as he continues ignoring public demands that he defend his crown. The association wonders if Walker is so confident of defeating any of the challengers named by the organization, why he does not show the spirit shown by the other titleholders, notably Tommy Loughran at the present time, and meet them one at a time."

Austin Clapp and Harold Ploessel Share Honors in Hollywood A.C. Swimming

PAIR OF COAST MARKS BROKEN

Clapp Sets New Record for 300-Yard Medley Race

Ploessel Wins from Leech in Backstroke Event

Kimball Captures 100-Yard Free-Style Affair

Austin Clapp, 17-year-old Hollywood aquatic sensation, and Harold Ploessel, speedy Movie City club backstroke specialist, carried off honors in the two feature events of the swimming program staged last night in the Hollywood Athletic Club tank. Both of Coach Clyde Swendsen's Circle "H" paddlers not only won their events but hung up new Pacific Coast records as well.

Clapp, who is being groomed for a place on the United States Olympic swim team, took his honors in the 300-yard Junior National A.A.U. medley championship race, splashing his way to victory ahead of Ogden Driggs and Reginald Harrison, Stanford University entrants.

In the 300-yard medley race each swimmer negotiates the first 100 yards via the breast-stroke route, the second 100, backstroke and the final century, free style. Harrison got off to a slight lead in the first 100 yards, but Clapp forged to the front when they switched to the backstroke style, and retained his margin in the free-style finish.

Clapp's winning time was 3m. 53 2-5s., which bettered the former Coast record by 3 3-5s.

Ploessel broke his own Coast record for 100-yard backstroke, when he defeated George Leech, Fred Caddy's L.A.A.C. ace, in the sparkling time of 1m. 7 4-5s., one-fifth second better than his previous mark. Ploessel and Leech are the best backstroke paddlers on the Coast, and are considered good bets to represent the United States in this event at the Olympics.

In the 100-yard free-style race for men, Weston Kimball, also of the H.A.C., defeated Bela Kendall, Southern California University, and Oscar Simmons, L.A.A.C. The winning time was 54 2-5s.

Frank Booth won the 100-yard H.A.C. junior championship, while the senior 100-yard championship of the Movie City club was taken by McGowan Miller.

Miss Marjorie Lowe of the Royal Palms Club won the 100-yard free style event for women, covering the distance in 1m. 10s. Adeline Whalen, unattached, was second, and Noreen Forbes, San Diego, third.

The Hollywood Athletic Club team won the water polo game from the Trojan splashers, 4 to 3.

Vince Dundee Cops Verdict Over LaSalle

Vince Dundee, Baltimore 145-pounder and brother of the welterweight champion, Joe Dundee, was too clever for Bobby LaSalle, Culver City welter, and boxed his way to a ten-round decision in the main bout at the Wilmington Bowl last night. LaSalle kept tearing in after Dundee and forcing the fighting all the way, but Vince knew a little too much for the Culver City mauler.

Sylvisno Valdez defeated Billy Lane in the six-round semi-windup, while Manuel Trayo knocked out Billy Clark in the fifth round of the special event. In the four-round preliminaries Jim Waterman bested Hank Gatton and Billy Young drew with Aurelio Mission.

A capacity crowd witnessed the card. Joe Rivers refereed all bouts.

DEMPSEY MAY SEE TEX SOON

Promoter Refuses to Believe That Former Champ is Through

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—Tex Rickard is one man who refuses to believe that Jack Dempsey will never fight again. That feeling has clung to Tex so tenaciously that he has asked Dempsey to come east to talk over the situation. Jack, so reports have it, is due to come East early next month, at which time he and Rickard will go into a huddle in Philadelphia.

JACK DEMPSEY.

When that conference is over the world will know definitely whether the third annual Dempsey-Tunney imbroglio will be staged next September.

And while Rickard will tell you that he doesn't believe Dempsey will ever fight again, yet he has a deep-rooted conviction that the lure of another $500,000 or so in another Tunney fight may induce Jack to change his mind and come out of retirement for one more fight, at least.

Dempsey is said to have been training secretly in the private gymnasium he recently installed in the rear of his Hollywood villa. He has installed several pieces of training paraphernalia, the nature of which lends some color to the theory held in some quarters that he may try to prepare himself for another comeback.

Final Soccer Games Sunday

California Cup games, the last to be played this season between Los Angeles teams, are scheduled for Loyola Field Sunday afternoon when the Vikings encounter the Sons of St. George in the opening game with the Scots opposing the Hollywood All Stars in the final contest.

These games are the first-round matches of the intersectional series and will leave only two teams in the running for the State soccer title and the premier prize in soccer circles, the California cup.

GOLDIE HESS VICTOR IN OCEAN PARK BOUT

Goldie Hess, bay district featherweight, was awarded a decision over Red Humphries, also from the bay district, after eight rounds of torrid battling in the Ocean Park main event last night.

In the other bouts Johnny Torres beat Mickey Cone in six rounds, Charley Cobb defeated Jack O'Brien in six, George Carpinson won over John McNalley in four rounds, and Marco Morales trimmed Leslie Ostrum in the opening four-rounder.

ICE HOCKEY TEAMS TO CLASH TONIGHT

Mel Walwick's Hollywood Millionaires and Lloyd Cook's Los Angeles Maroons will battle it out for second place, tonight, at the Palais De Glace in sixty minutes or more of hockey, which should turn out to be the outstanding game of the year. The two teams are battling it out for second place, the first and second-place winners meeting in a post-season series for the championship of the league, and for the right to meet the eastern champions, here at the close of the league in the East-West series.

FLEET SPORT NEWS

BY FRANK T. HARVEY

Boat races and a baseball game will attract attention of navy sport followers here next Saturday when two pulling races are scheduled in the morning and a baseball game between the battleship Pennsylvania nine and the U.S.S. New Mexico ball tossers on tap at Trona Field in the afternoon.

Both races, the marine whaleboat and the engineers' racboat events, will count points toward the Iron Man and are drawing exceptional interest.

The crews from the various ships have been working hard in preparation for the races and for the most part are in tip-top shape.

Added interest in the baseball game is also manifest inasmuch as the playground commissioners of San Pedro will be hosts of the San Pedro Chamber of Commerce at the game.

The teams are fairly evenly matched and a fast close game is anticipated. Both teams have defeated Coach Shorty Schwab's Mississippi nine and have been doing well in games with civilian clubs.

Sailor boxers will occupy the limelight along the Pacific Coast during the next week. Sailor fighters are booked to hold down half the card at Ocean Park next Wednesday night, while at Vancouver tomorrow night three sailors are booked to hold down the three top spots.

Sailors on the card at the northern city tomorrow night will be Ritchie King, former all-Navy feather and lightweight champion, who meets Tod Morgan, junior lightweight champion, in the main event. Jimmy Lucas, U.S.S. Mississippi, former all-Navy flyweight ace, who meets Charlie Cooper and Joe Noto, former all-Navy featherweight champion, who throws leather against Jack Lereaux.

At Ocean Park Bobby Near, flagship California middleweight, will meet Billy Lane in the main event. Other Navy fighters on the beach card will be Joe Bitto, Jimmy Sweeting, Joey Pratt and Mike Lewis.

A fairly accurate line on the ability of the various boat crews in the fleet was gained Tuesday morning with the arrival of the giant aircraft carrier Saratoga from the east coast.

Several crews which were in the water at the time the carrier came to anchor became inquisitive at the size of the ship and started bending their oars to get a close-up view with the result that a regular race was put on for the benefit of those standing on the decks of the various battleships.

TUD KENT WINNER OF ASHTON DERBY

ASHTON (Idaho) Feb. 22. (AP)—Tud Kent of Ashton won the annual Ashton dog derby here today. Kent's time was 2:13:37. This is considerably slower than the 1:55:57 record of two years ago.

Roy Peterson of St. Anthony, Idaho, was second in 2:13:55. Roy Stover, McCall, Idaho, finished third in 2:17:18. Ted Geo[illegible], McCall, took fourth in 2:22:5.

INDIAN HAS HIS RIVALS WORRYING

Pyle's Gallopers Try to Figure Some Way to Stop Quomawahu

How to stop Chief Quomawahu, Hopi Indian, from copping Sunday's twenty-five-mile gallop is the problem confronting scores of runners now in training at Ascot Speedway. The athletes are getting into condition for C. C. Pyle's 3400-mile transcontinental race from Los Angeles to New York, but right now they are worrying about this Arizona Redskin.

C. C. PYLE.

The boys took part in a fifteen-mile run last Sunday and Brother Quomawahu galloped off with first honors. There were yelps raised about the distance being too short for real distance runners, so Pyle increased the mileage for this Sabbath's jaunt. Now it develops that Quomawahu's favorite distance is anywhere from twenty miles up and that he expects to make the other runners look even worse this time.

Several of the best athletes are at work figuring out some way to alternate their sprints so as to make the pace too hot for Quomawahu. There is plenty of rivalry all around and inasmuch as this Sunday's race is the last before the start of the transcontinental journey there are plenty of runners desirous of copping first money.

Pyle left for Oakland last night to get the new Fageol bus which has been specially constructed for the promoter's use during the transcontinental run. This conveyance will take care of more than a dozen persons in real style.

Arthur Newton, famous British runner, is slated to arrive here today. He is being accompanied by Hugo Quist, former manager of Paavo Nurmi.

TIPS ON KEEPING FIT

Fresh air is the greatest tonic. Nothing can take its place. Some believe night air is dangerous, and sleep with windows closed. Don't get in this bad habit.

The close relationship between my manager, Joe Smith, and me, isn't merely a business arrangement. It's a warm friendship.

We had a contract that ran out over a year ago, but it never occurred to us to fix up another one. The agreement went on as if the life of the contract hadn't expired. Our word was good enough. Probably we never would have bothered about another contract if it hadn't been for a rule of the New York State Athletic Commission demanding every fighter and his manager to file contracts at its office.

Joe and I have been together from the start. I served him with newspapers when I was a kid in South Philadelphia. Joe had been a crack featherweight years before, and we boys looked up to him as a big guy in the fight game. I wanted to be a boxer, so one night I asked him if he'd teach me.

Joe took me down in the cellar, and we put on the gloves. What a shellacking he gave me! It didn't discourage me, and I came back next evening. Joe repeated the dose. When I didn't quit he seemed to feel I was game enough to try the ring for a living. He said I took to it like a duck to water. That was encouraging.

He worked with me from the beginning, teaching me all he knew. I boxed at the smaller clubs, among them Johnny Burns's Cambria in the Kensington mill district. You had to fight over there. No stalling went with those babies, for they were fellows who could battle themselves.

I scored several knockouts, and finally won a shot at the old Ice Palace, now called the Arena. I won my first wind-up bout there, stopping the Mexican soldier from Camp Dix, Vincent Lopez, in five rounds.

There wasn't much money for Joe or me those days. The purses weren't anything to brag about. Still, we were both satisfied. He was sure of my ability, and I was sure he'd steer me right. Joe is a smart fellow. He doesn't talk much, but he knows what it's all about.

I've been fortunate being tied up with him. Lots of boxers and managers have no personal interest in each other. Their relationships are just business. Commissions have applications before them at every meeting to break the contracts that tie them up.

I never have to bother about business. I know Joe Smith will keep a keener lookout for my interests than he will for his own. It's wonderful to have such an easy mind. If you don't think the opposite condition can upset a fighter, just recall the troubles Jack Dempsey went through with his former manager, Doc Kearns, before his fight with Tunney.

Let me go on record now as saying I'll never have any manager but Joe Smith as long as I'm in the boxing game. We were together when I was just a kid breaking in, and we're together now that I'm champion of the world. We'll still be together after I have beaten—as I know I will—Gene Tunney for his title.

Loynes Loses to Snoddy in Florida Race

PALM BEACH (Fla.) Feb. 22. (AP) Ralph Snoddy of Los Angeles, piloting the Miss Rioco, won the feature event of the sixth annual mid-winter regatta here today, taking two of three heats in the 151 unlimited supercharged hydroplane event.

His time for the final heat was 5m. 31.4s. for the five miles, bettering his time for the preceding heat by 22s.

The Miss California, owned by Richard Loynes of Long Beach, which has won the event for two years, finished second in two heats and was forced out of the other with a broken gasoline line.

For the first lap of the second heat Miss Rioco and Miss Buckeye, entered from Barnesville, O., ran almost even.

The regatta, held over Lake Worth, closed today.

AMATEUR HOCKEY TEAMS TO BATTLE

Plenty of slam-bang hockey is the promise for tonight when Bert Keddy's Edisons and Hec Proulx's Universals collide head-on in an amateur hockey league game at the Winter Garden Ice Palace. Referee Chum Marples will face off the puck at 8 o'clock.

Keddy's crew is out for blood. The Edisons had rather a rough session with the Paramounts Monday, and they bitterly remember that 6-to-1 defeat. Keddy promises a better organized offense and a tighter defense tonight, with plenty of good strenuous body checking. The Edisons were never able to get going against Paramount but several heavy practice sessions have enabled Keddy to iron out the bumps.

PENN WITHDRAWS PROTEST

HANOVER (N. H.) Feb. 22. (AP)—The University of Pennsylvania has withdrawn its formal protest to the Intercollegiate Basketball League against Dartmouth's victory in a league game at Philadelphia on the 17th inst. Harry R. Heneage, supervisor of athletics at Dartmouth, was notified of this today in a telegram from Ernest B. Cozens, graduate manager of athletics at Penn.

Expressing regret at the controversy, which arose when Penn claimed that the official scorers had failed to credit Pennsylvania with a foul goal which would have made the score a 30-30 tie, Cozens said: "The official score shows Dartmouth to have won the game and we are perfectly willing to let matters rest that way, for we feel that the winning or the losing of any contest is insignificant to cordial athletic relations with sister institutions."

MISS RYAN WINS TWO NET CLASHES AT NICE

NICE, Feb. 22.—Never in better form, Elizabeth Ryan forged two steps ahead in the Hotel Bristol net tournament at Beaulieu yesterday. In the second day of the singles she defeated Fraulein Veit two straight love sets and teamed with Capt. Jack Hillyard in the mixed doubles, helped defeat Miss D. Furnivall and M. STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Feb. 22. (AP)—Shut out until the eighth inning when Stanford made eight runs followed with a homer in the ninth the Cardinal baseball team defeated St. Mary's, 9 to 8, here this afternoon.

More than 400 fans yelled themselves hoarse when, with the score standing 5 to 0 in favor of St. Mary's, Stanford launched a batting rally in the eighth and sent eight men over the home plate.

The real climax came in the ninth when the score stood 8 to 5. Leon Dondero, St. Mary's, went to the plate with two men on bases and two outs on the board. Dondero connected with the pill and sent it flying over the fence. That made the score 8 to 8. Finance Committee Recommend Relief

Ordinances Will Be ered as Remedy

ds and Other Things Be Proscribed

City Council's Finance Committee is prepared to recommend to the council today or tomorrow that the Planning Commission with the assistance of City Attorney Cecil Holland prepare and present for passage ordinances to protect Manhattan beach frontage without the creation of Los Angeles harbor lines and other forms of harbor activity. Legislation of this kind was recommended by Mayor Cryer in his annual message, which was referred to the Finance committee.

The recommendation for legislation to prevent oil well operations on Manhattan beach is the first one on which the Finance Committee recommends action.

The ordinance which will be signed by Councilmen Alber and Councilman Crandall, will declare that the beaches of the city ocean front are of the utmost importance and that legislation should be enacted to protect the beaches from encroachment and against oil well drilling and other industrial activity. The ordinances to be recommended by the committee also include one prohibiting of dumping on the beaches of rubbish, oil, tar or other objectionable material.

VOTING NEAR END IN FILM STARS' RACE

Achievement Contest of Early Wampas Protegees Closes Tomorrow

As the final day of voting draws near, the thirteen former Wampas baby star contestants are following with keen interest the national contest being conducted by radio stations KHJ in Los Angeles and KFRC in San Francisco to determine the winner of the 1928 Wampas achievement trophy offered each year by the motion picture publicity men to their former protegee who has made the greatest professional progress.

For several weeks votes from many parts of the country have been received in response to the daily broadcasting. Balloting closes tomorrow.

The winner will be announced and the trophy, donated this year by Don Lee, will be awarded at the seventh annual Wampas frolic and ball at the Ambassador Auditorium Saturday evening.

This year's trophy is the fourth to be awarded. Colleen Moore won the first, Eleanor Boardman the second and Clara Bow was the victor last season.

The contestants this year are Mary Astor, Mary Brian, Olive Borden, Dolores Costello, Joan Crawford, Marceline Day, Dolores Del Rio, Janet Gaynor, Madeline Hurlock, Edna Marion, Sally O'Neill, Vera Reynolds and Fay Wray. They are members of the 1925 and 1926 groups of starlets.

An offer of $200,000 for a ten weeks' contract with the stars of 1928 was made yesterday by Marco of Fanchon and Marco, heading the presentation department of West Coast Theaters.

The frolic committee of the Wampas will meet tonight to consider the contract, which provides for a tour of the principal cities of the West with the stars in a special act to be created, and also to be guests of honor at a large ball in each of the cities.

Here Health and Dollars grow

Physicians and other health authorities agree that San Fernando Valley is one of the healthiest localities in the world. Here the actinic rays of the sun have 8% more potency. The air is tonic. Health and San Fernando Valley are synonyms.

A Double Satisfaction

The man who locates at Walnut Acre Farms has the double joy of watching health grow along with his dollars. The rapid growth of this favored district and the steady increase in its property values during the last ten years has eclipsed every reasonable prediction.

Eighteen Miles From Hollywood

Walnut Acre Farms is on Ventura State Highway, the most heavily traveled thoroughfare in Southern California (by actual record.) Inside the corporate limits of Los Angeles, it is also in the direct path of the city's expansion. It is merely a question of time, and in all probability a short time, until this acreage will be subdivided into city lots. Those who buy at today's prices should realize a handsome profit.

The Ideal Suburban Home

The land is set to 4-year-old Placentia Budded Walnut Trees. There is an abundance of pure aqueduct water cheap. The scenic outlook is inspiring. The town of Girard is directly across the boulevard, with every shopping convenience. Only a small first payment is necessary. The balance can be paid practically at your own convenience—and there is no interest charged on your deferred payments for three years. And three years should see a decided increase in the value of your land.

SCOTCH WOODCOCK

Make a white sauce of one tablespoonful each of butter and flour, blended with a cupful of cold milk, and a little salt. When smooth add six hard-boiled eggs chopped fine, a little pepper, two tablespoonfuls of bread crumbs that have been fried in butter, and a tablespoonful of finely grated cheese. Mix well and serve on slices of hot buttered toast.

LOBSTER CARDINAL

Remove a boiled lobster from the shell, cut in even-sized pieces, mix with one and a half cupfuls of shrimp sauce. Make a light cream sauce, add to it a dozen finely minced shrimps, add two tablespoonfuls of tomato ketchup. Mix all together, place the lobster back in the shell, sprinkle thickly with a mixture of grated bread crumbs. Place under the broiler until slightly browned.

FILLET OF SOLE, MUSHROOMS

Place in a saucepan two tablespoonfuls of butter, one cupful of finely chopped mushrooms, two tablespoonfuls of shallots, and one tablespoonful of parsley, chopped fine. Toss the ingredients over the fire until cooked, set aside to cool. When cold take the fillets, mask one side of them with the above mixture, roll up, securing each with toothpicks. Then place in a buttered casserole. While they are baking prepare a white cream sauce, pour over the fillets. Before sending to the table garnish with a small broiled mushroom on each fillet.

NORWEGIAN CAULIFLOWER

Take one medium-sized head of cauliflower, remove the outer green leaves and wash thoroughly. With a sharp knife slice down in medium slices, dip in beaten egg, and dust lightly with flour, sprinkle with pepper and salt. Place the slices in a saute pan in hot shortening, fry until tender, drain and arrange on a hot platter. Have ready a rich drawn butter sauce, not too thick. Pour over the slices and garnish the dish with lemon quarters and parsley.

Hotel Huntington. The ballroom was transformed into an immense living-room with a dancing floor in the center. The curtained stage became a screen of flowers and baskets of spring blossoms decorated the walls, each basket ornamented with ribbons to match the predominating color of the roses and jonquils, the flowering almonds or delphiniums. The general effect of these floral decorations was exceedingly artistic, for the great baskets were employed in the most clever fashion.

The alcoves were given up to the card players and the space in front of them, carpeted with oriental rugs, was furnished with tables, easy chairs and sofas that afforded opportunities for tete-a-tetes between the dances. All the illumination was from side lights and candles, a picturesque touch was added by a Chinese girl in the gay costume of her country who passed among the guests bearing a tray that contained cigarettes and cigars for the solace of the smokers.

Supper was served at 11:30 when the tall screen of greenery in one corner of the ballroom was removed to reveal Martin Ginder and his corps of assistant chefs behind a table laden with a supper in which the art of decoration had wrought magic. After supper there was more dancing.

Rushing Affairs

Formal rushing is being observed this week by the sororities at the University of Southern California preceding pledging of new members which is to take place next Tuesday evening.

A Bohemian cabaret dinner was the first event on the Alpha Delta Pi rushing program, being held Monday night, the 20th inst., at the chapter house, 643 West Twenty-eighth street, with Miss Martha and Miss Katheryn Murdock in charge of the arrangements. Boughs of cherry blossoms added to the beauty of the setting, while balloons, horns, whistles and novelty favors contributed to the gaiety of the occasion. Musical numbers were provided by Miss Mary Ross.

Picturesquely costumed in old-fashioned colonial gowns, Alpha Delta Pi members greeted rushees at a George Washington tea on Tuesday afternoon at the chapter house. Bridge was the diversion of the afternoon, with Miss Dorothy Swett acting as hostess.

Carried out in the springtime motif, a fashion revue was an entertaining feature of the Wednesday evening dinner party at the Alpha Delta Pi house, for which arrangements were in charge of Miss Esther Stowell. Charming gowns were displayed by Miss Nora Hoffman, Miss Lydia Hoffman, Miss Lorraine Young, Miss Katheryn Murdock, Miss Georgia Hollis, and Miss Edith Leggett, who acted as models.

Miss Betty Ensley is to be in charge of the tea on Thursday at the Mary Louise and the final event of the rushing season will be held Friday evening when Alpha Delta Pi sorority members are hostesses at a formal dinner at the Woman's Athletic Club. Miss Florence Diller is in charge of this program which is to include musical numbers by a professional trio. As favors, dainty compacts with the Alpha Delta Pi crest, will be presented to the guests.

Trick 11. Only the Spade suit remains, so East can be safely thrown in for the extra trick.

HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

By Dr Frank McCoy

author of "The Next Year to Heaven"

Dr. McCoy will answer personal questions on health and diet, addressed to him, care of The Los Angeles Times. Inclose stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

POOR CIRCULATION

Almost every patient complains that he suffers from cold hands and feet. These symptoms are undoubtedly a sign of improper blood circulation, but the most important thing to remember is that cold hands and feet are only danger signals pointing to poor circulation all over the body, including every bone, muscle and organ.

A temporary sluggishness of circulation may exist in the extremities from faulty postures, such as sitting with the knees crossed or working in a cramped position which does not allow a reasonable movement of all the body's muscles.

Some complain of having the arms become numb during sleep, and this also may be caused by sleeping with the arm in a cramped position under the body or head.

Seventeen centuries ago the great physician, Galen, observed that that these were two movements of the blood, one going away from the heart in the red blood vessels, and the other coming back in the blue blood vessels.

The relationship of the heart to the arteries and veins was discovered by William Harvey in 1628, and thirty-three years later, Malpighi, examining the web of a frog's foot under the microscope, discovered that blood passes from arteries to veins through capillaries. We have, since that time, discovered a great deal more about the blood's circulation. We now know that the blood, itself, comprises only about 8 per cent of the body's weight, while 25 per cent of the body's weight is made of the lymphatic fluids.

In health, the circulation of the blood through the arteries, veins, and capillaries harmonizes with the circulation of lymph or watery fluids in the body. The red cells and blood plasma carry oxygen and nourishment to every part of the body and the lymph takes up the work at the capillaries and after the oxygen and food has been delivered to the cells, the same lymph circulation returns waste products to the blood to be eliminated through the different excretory functions.

When we speak of defective circulation we must take into consideration this complete fluid circulation, composed of both the contents of the blood vessels and the even greater lymphatic circulation. When the circulation of bodily fluids is defective, it may be because of functional or organic trouble in the walls of the blood vessels, such as hardening of the arteries or varicose veins. Or, it may be due to similar causes which interfere with the free flow of lymphatic fluid.

Mechanical interference with the circulation may come from such causes as tight clothing, faulty postures, prolapsed organs, pressure from tumors, or lack of physical exercise. If the feet are cold most of the time, it is a good indication that some pelvic abnormality is interfering with the return of blood through the veins or with the flow of fluids through the lymphatic system. The principal cause of such poor circulation in the lower extremities is due to a sagging of the abdominal organs which by their pressure in the crowded pelvis cause a distinct circulatory block. If this is the case, the prolapsed organs must be returned to their proper place and held in position by developing the abdominal muscles.

Increased exercise with all of the muscles of the body is always effective in increasing the circulation and correcting faulty metabolism.

In tomorrow's article I will explain how to improve the circulation.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question: Mrs. S. I. M. writes: "My little boy has ringworm all over his head. I have been using iodine, but it does not seem to check it. Will you please advise me what to do?"

Answer: Any physician or druggist should be able to give you a remedy to kill the ringworm infection, but such treatment would only be temporary until your boy gets rid of the systemic acidosis which makes the ringworm possible. His diet must be corrected just the same as if he were subject to eczema or psoriasis or any other skin disorder. A real cure is internal and not external.

Q.: Mrs. A. G. asks: "Do potatoes contain a great deal of starch, and what are the best ways of preparing them?"

A.: A potato contains only from 14 to 20 per cent of starch. Boiling, without removing the skin, is probably the best way of cooking it. The skin should be eaten along with the rest of the potato. Otherwise the valuable mineral salts contained in the skin are lost. Baking is the next best method. If fried potatoes are ever used they should be "French" fried, and great care should be taken in their preparation to see that no grease is absorbed into the potato. The potate should be peeled and cut into strips and dropped into hot olive oil or one of the vegetable oils such as Crisco or Mazola. It is important that the outside of the potato is browned quickly so that no grease will soak in. When cooked, potatoes should be drained of all grease in a sieve.

Q.: Sam asks: "Is there a way of keeping one's ears from sticking out?"

A.: The ears may be trained to grow closer to the head by wearing bandages around the head at night. It is comparatively easy to train the ears closer to the head in the case of the child, but of course takes a much longer time to accomplish results with an adult.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

Mrs Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

FIRST SIX WEEKS A PERIOD OF TRAINING

The young mother never notices how much the baby cries until she is left alone with him after the departure of the nurse, or upon her return from the hospital. Then she finds that far from being the model baby the family have assured her he is, he seems to spend large portions of his day with his mouth open, emitting shrieks that, in her terror, she cannot diagnose. Is he hungry, oh heavens, or is he crying from colic? She doesn't know whether she should nurse him or put him in his bed with a hot water bottle. She looks at the thin blue fluid which is mother's milk, compares it in her mind with cows' milk and decides that nothing could possibly be nourished on that thin stuff. In a word she is panic-stricken.

This is a good time for her to shake herself and return to normal. A very new mother cannot always tell whether a shriek comes from pain or from desire for more food. She must have a scale with which she can weigh the baby before and after a nursing and, if she finds his weight goes up several ounces after a feeding, she can feel certain that his small stomach has had enough food. Perhaps the food is at fault. She can shake herself again and remember that she is now burdened with household duties which heretofore she has been spared and that small babies react somewhat to the condition of their mothers. If the mother is nervous and tired and worn out at 6 o'clock she probably won't give as good a supply of milk as she has earlier in the day and babies, unaware at this early age that they are expected to sleep and not cry, are very likely to raise the echoes when they find their bed-time dinner so scant in quantity. Instead of tearing one's hair and plying the baby with water and enemas, when this happens regularly at 6 and at no other time, give the baby a complementary bottle feeding and send him off to dreamland with a full tummy. Keep in mind that the ailments and upsets of the first six weeks will end when the mother is stronger, and better adjusted to nursing and the baby well regulated. This takes time and six weeks is a comparatively short time to smooth out all these knotted threads.

Watch that scale. Keep the baby to regular hours and have some idea of the reason for his crying. If the mother nurses him whenever he cries she can never know what is wrong. New experiences are usually painful, but the results compensate for the trouble taken to regulate the child.

ARMY AID ADVOCATED

Hostesses Seek Congressional Fund to Carry on Work

Continuation of the army hostess service, which was maintained by civilian organizations during the World War, is being advocated by the Los Angeles unit, Women's Overseas Service League, it was learned yesterday. Efforts are being made to obtain an appropriation of Congress of $75,000 to carry on the work at various army camps.

"We know from personal experience and observation the great value of this type of service to the Army," Miss Helen Wisler, president of the local body, said yesterday. "The Los Angeles chapter represents about 300 local women who served overseas during the World War."

Easy to Banish Fat

Try This Modern Way

Not always by abnormal exercise or diet. That is hard and slow. Most people who try it lack the patience to continue.

Another method has in late years attained enormous use. It is easy, pleasant, scientific, based on modern research. The slender figures now so common are largely due to that.

That method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. They have told the results to others. Now in almost every circle there are people who can show you what they do.

Marmola contains a substance which, in the body, turns food into fuel and energy rather than into fat. The complete prescription is stated in every box. Also the reasons for results. This to banish any fear of harm and to let you know just why you get the benefits that come.

Go try Marmola, as myriads of people for two decades have done. Not only for new beauty, but new health and vitality. Simply take four tablets daily until you get the results desired. Then, in kindness to your friends, tell them what Marmola does. Go order before you forget it and watch the delightful change.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out, he will get them at once from his jobber.

A Favorite Quick Dessert

By HENRI BARBITTI, Chef, Ambassador Hotel, Los Angeles

AFTER testing all kinds of gelatine desserts we determined that Jell-well was, by far, the most successful.

Jell-well always jells WELL. We can depend on it every time.

Jell-well tastes better, too. Everyone likes it. That's because its flavors suggest the pure juice of western fruits—Loganberries, Strawberries and Raspberries of Oregon and Washington, Oranges of California.

This dessert is better looking, also. Clearer, more beautiful. Hold it up to the light and you can see its pure transparency.

Many Ambassador guests select Jell-well for its healthfulness. It digests quickly and assists in the digestion of other foods.

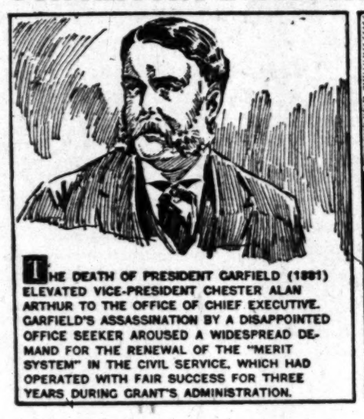
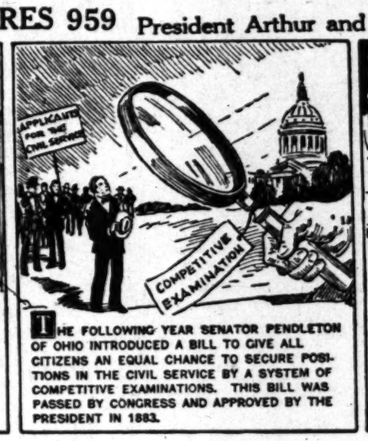
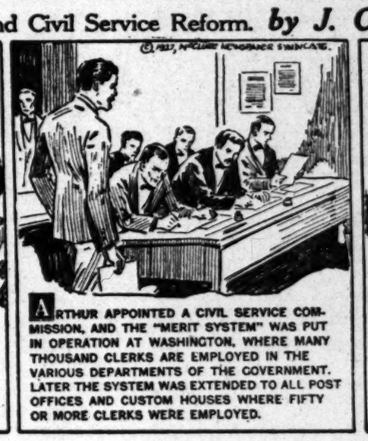
OUR HISTORY IN PICTURES 959 President Arthur and Civil Service Reform. by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD



THE DEATH OF PRESIDENT GARFIELD (1881) ELEVATED VICE-PRESIDENT CHESTER ALAN ARTHUR TO THE OFFICE OF CHIEF EXECUTIVE. GARFIELD'S ASSASSINATION BY A DISAPPOINTED OFFICE SEEKER AROUSED A WIDESPREAD DEMAND FOR THE RENEWAL OF THE "MERIT SYSTEM" IN THE CIVIL SERVICE, WHICH HAD OPERATED WITH FAIR SUCCESS FOR THREE YEARS DURING GRANT'S ADMINISTRATION.



THE FOLLOWING YEAR SENATOR PENDLETON OF OHIO INTRODUCED A BILL TO GIVE ALL CITIZENS AN EQUAL CHANCE TO SECURE POSITIONS IN THE CIVIL SERVICE BY A SYSTEM OF COMPETITIVE EXAMINATIONS. THIS BILL WAS PASSED BY CONGRESS AND APPROVED BY THE PRESIDENT IN 1883.



ARTHUR APPOINTED A CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, AND THE "MERIT SYSTEM" WAS PUT IN OPERATION AT WASHINGTON, WHERE MANY THOUSAND CLERKS ARE EMPLOYED IN THE VARIOUS DEPARTMENTS OF THE GOVERNMENT. LATER THE SYSTEM WAS EXTENDED TO ALL POST OFFICES AND CUSTOM HOUSES WHERE FIFTY OR MORE CLERKS WERE EMPLOYED.

THE MERIT SYSTEM BROUGHT AN END TO THE "SPOILS SYSTEM", THE OLD PRACTICE OF GIVING MINOR GOVERNMENT JOBS AS REWARDS FOR SERVING THE PARTY. HENCEFORTH ANY CITIZEN WHO COULD QUALIFY BY PASSING THE REQUIRED EXAMINATION WAS ELIGIBLE FOR A POSITION IN THE CIVIL SERVICE, REGARDLESS OF HIS POLITICAL AFFILIATIONS.

JAYHAWKERS' SCIONS GATHER

Clan Recalls Argosy of Forefathers

Yesterday and Today

Above—Dorothy Ellen Wright and Henry Doty, 74 years of age, youngest and oldest descendants of Jayhawkers at reunion, showing only shotgun carried by party. Below—Miss Lillian Mines and diary which recounted events of journey.

TWENTY-FIVE direct descendants of the "Jayhawkers," band of pioneers from Galesburg, Ill., who came to the California gold fields in 1850, held a reunion yesterday at the Del Valle ranch, near Castaic Junction, on the spot where the survivors of the party were rescued by the father of the present owner, Senator R. F. Del Valle.

Among those who celebrated yesterday are William A. Wiley of Long Beach, whose grandfather, Capt. Haynes, was one of the leaders of the party; Henry Doty of Lompoc, who exhibited his father's shotgun, the only one carried from Galesburg, and Frank Doty of Santa Barbara, sons of Capt. Ed Doty, the other leader of the pioneers, and E. W. Mecum, in charge of the gathering, whose father was a member of the expedition.

HALLOWED GROUND

"We are standing on the spot where nearly eighty years ago our fathers and grandfathers were rescued after the perilous trek across Death Valley," said Mr. Mecum when swapping of yarns had temporarily ceased, "and it is fitting that we should pay homage to our sires who braved the dangers of the desert to make possible the early settlement of California."

He described the route of the travelers from Galesburg through Des Moines to Omaha and the Platte River country, thence to Salt Lake City.

At Salt Lake City the Jayhawkers joined a larger party and started south. On the edge of the desert the party split, some returning while the more fearless pushed on.

TALE OF HARDSHIP

For fifty-two days the expedition wandered across the desert, leaving their covered wagons when the oxen could no longer pull them through the sand. One by one the oxen were killed for food and the survivors had been fasting for several days and the last of the water had been consumed three days before the party came through San Francisquita Pass and sighted the Del Valle ranch, then embracing 45,000 acres, one of the large Spanish grants, on which is situated Camulus Rancho, the home of Ramona.

TRADITIONS RELATED

Each of the descendants was introduced and told of some interesting anecdote connected with the expedition. The guest of honor was ex-Representative George Prince of Illinois, present owner of the original farm owned by Asa Haines, one of the organizers and leaders of the Jayhawkers.

A letter from Charles F. Lummis, founder of the Landmarks Club of California, was read, in which he said that the first portrait he ever made of anyone was that of Rev. J. W. Brier, one of the Death Valley party, in the old Times' office in the Temple Block in 1885.

Considerable interest was displayed in the diary which was kept by Capt. Haines on the march through Death Valley, containing an account of the sufferings of the party and an entry telling of the burial of $6000 in the desert by Tom Shannon, who found the gold too heavy to carry. A party returned later to locate the gold, but was unsuccessful.

Senator Del Valle, although not able to be present, sent greetings and assured them that within the year a memorial shaft will be raised on the site of the old campground of the Jayhawkers.

GENEROSITY IN BUSINESS ADVOCATED

Hardware Merchants Told to Share Profits and Give Freely to Charities

"Success in a commercial enterprise being due largely to honest, efficient employees and the patronage of the public, it is the duty and should be the pleasure of a successful merchant to make each of his employees a profit-sharer in his business and to donate a large share of his income to the welfare of his community," Hamp Williams, a hardware merchant of Hot Springs, Ark., in an address on "Organization and Management" told the convention of the Southern California Retail Hardware Association at the Southwest Building yesterday.

Other speakers included H. L. Boyd, secretary of the association, who spoke on "Business Control," and Llew S. Soule, editor of Hardware Age, who compared business conditions of 1900 with conditions today, pointed to the difference of twenty-two hours in the average work-week and emphasized the need for greater efficiency and more intensive advertising to compensate for the loss of time.

Mr. Soule and R. W. Atkinson, who is president of the National Retail Hardware Association, will be among the speakers at the session this afternoon, at which officers will be elected. The hardware exhibit will open to dealers and the public from 10 a.m. until 10 p.m. today.

Esperanto as Aid to Trade Given Praise

Southern California's trade with the Orient will be facilitated greatly by a study of Esperanto, according to Parley P. Christensen who, in an address at the City Club yesterday, advised members of the Chamber of Commerce to learn that tongue and teach it to merchants, manufacturers and agriculturists of the Southland.

Predicting that within a few years Esperanto will be employed almost universally in the fields of business, diplomacy, romance and religion, the speaker said this language is doing much to bring about international good will and that it is destined to accomplish among nations that understanding and sympathy which are prerequisites to permanent peace.

In an address eulogizing Washington, Hugh Pomeroy, president of the City Club, called attention to the cartoon printed in yesterday's issue of The Times and declared that it expresses the sentiments of all good citizens toward those who would seek to slander the Father of his Country.

Barker's Wife Has Operation

Mrs. Reginald Barker, wife of a motion-picture director, yesterday was recovering from a major operation performed in the morning by Dr. Clinton Foath at California Lutheran Hospital.

Mrs. Baker, before her marriage, was known as Clara Williams.

MARRIAGE MARTS FACE POSTAL BAN

Mail Authorities Pushing Quiz of Agencies Luring Southland Lovelorn

Marriage mart information passing through the United States mail under plain, concealing wrappers and in which alluring and beautiful women with money are advertised to recipients of the "market sheets" is the subject of a secret Federal investigation that has been under way for some time in Los Angeles and the Southland, it was learned last night.

Under-cover Postoffice Department operatives are known to have accumulated evidence that may lead to government action which quietly and without court procedure practically will put out of business a number of so-called matrimonial bureaus that have been under scrutiny.

"Seventeen-year-old girl with $25,000 wants husband;" "woman of 36 years and $25,000 fortune hopes to acquire mate" and "widow of uncertain age, but with $70,000 longs for companion" are said by the government operatives to be typical of the "take-ons" used in describing the offerings of the tip-sheets to those who wish women—or wish a chance at the money of mate-seeking women of incautious age and sentimentality. Women of from 17 to 60 years of age are variously advertised in publications that the agents acquired.

As a consequence, government machinery now is at work whereby mail addressed to such agencies as are determined by the operatives to have been bordering on plain fraud will be returned to the sender without having been moved toward delivery to addressee.

One such concern under particular scrutiny may be the subject of a "fraud order" by Postmaster-General New at Washington. Under this order, it no longer could conduct its business through the United States mail.

The inspectors do not contemplate under their plan of action any expose of those who are advertised in the sheets, unless court action and consequent public notice should cause such disclosure, it was said.

Some of the information acquired by the operatives contains much complaint about results of use of the bureaus in question, they said.

Couple Charged With Blackmail

Declaring that he has been the victim of a badger game, R. E. Alguire of 1106½ South Main street yesterday appealed to police to arrest the man and woman who, he says, obtained $250 from him.

According to Alguire's story, he met a man and woman who said they were husband and wife, and invited them to his home. The woman, saying that her husband had no car, asked Alguire to drive her to various real-estate agents in search for a house.

The woman, so Alguire says, had him drive her to her home where the husband was waiting. At the point of a gun, Alguire says he was forced to write a check for $250 and call up his bank to verify the check.

Police were given the name of the couple and a search is being made.

CRIMINAL GIVES CRIME CURE

Tip O'Neil Tells Dr. Miller All "Floaters" Should Be Interned and Trained to Usefulness

"Every unemployed man, especially the floater or vagrant, should be conscripted," according to a plan outlined by one of the inmates of Folsom prison for improvement in the administration of criminal justice and the prevention of crime.

And Dr. Justin Miller, dean of the college of law of the University of Southern California, and member of the California Crime Commission, believes there is merit in the idea.

Not long ago Tip O'Neil of Los Angeles, known at Folsom as Jimmy Byrne, wrote Dr. Miller and in replying to his letter Dr. Miller asked O'Neil for suggestions of methods that might be applied practically to the rehabilitation of the criminal. O'Neil's reply so interested Dr. Miller that he intends to discuss it with the Crime Commission at its next meeting.

Dr. Justin Miller

INTERNMENT URGED

O'Neil's letter continues: "Intern them (the unemployed and floaters) in cantonments (there are lots of them crumbling from disuse all over the country.) During the process of rehabilitation give them the same training that our conscripted soldiers and sailors had. Release none until congenial employment is found and accepted. Put retired naval and military officers command of actual physical training of these men and let physical and mental hygiene experts have an inning with these unfortunates."

He further suggests that the persons confined in these camps should form societies like the Young Men's Christian Association for "co-operation spells success in every line of endeavor." He believes that first offenders should also be sent to the camps and never to prison, and he concludes with the observation that "a sound body means a normal mind, decent clothes and good food promote self-respect and that's all there is to it."

IDEA HAS MERIT

The idea of conscription and military training, says Dr. Miller, is a radical departure from present methods, but he believes it has possibilities. Such a plan would assist greatly in the administration of criminal procedure because it would be a crime preventive and detector. The boy out of work who easily turns to crime, the old offender and all between those extremes, he thinks, would be picked up before they had committed crimes instead of afterward. The mentally unsound would be found out and put in the proper places, and the physically unfit would be given proper care.

Dean Miller declares he is hopeful that something really worth while may grow out of Tip O'Neil's suggestion.

"TRIANGLE" NOW FOUR-CORNERED

Wife of 'Other Man' in Balm Action Seeks Divorce

Alienation Plaintiff's Spouse Named Co-respondent

'Dilapidated' Shirt Figures in Suit for Freedom

Triangular litigation involving Jerome M. Higman, Archie A. Roberts and Roberts's wife, Julia Roberts, became a four-cornered affair yesterday when the filing of a divorce suit by Mrs. Mattie B. Higman was recorded in the office of the County Clerk.

MRS. JULIA ROBERTS

Several months ago Robert filed suit against Higman, demanding $15,000 for the asserted alienation of the affections of Mrs. Roberts. His complaint was a brief document wherein he simply related that Higman had stolen the love of Mrs. Roberts and that her affection was worth $15,000 to him.

Mrs. Higman, in her divorce complaint naming Mrs. Roberts as co-respondent, goes into more detail. She says that toward the end of August, 1926, her husband came to their home at 2849 Exposition Boulevard, after an absence of several days, wearing a "dilapidated" shirt, and driving a muddy car with liquor bottles rolling on the floor.

His explanation was elaborate, Mrs. Higman says. He told her that he had been in Mexico on business, that he had struck a boy with his car on his way back home, had been arrested by a lot of Mexican soldiers at the border, taken back to Tia Juana and jailed, not being released for some time, she relates. That, he explained, was why his shirt was dirty, the complaint recites. His car was muddy because he had lent it to some merry-making friends in Mexico and the liquor bottles were theirs.

MRS. MATTIE B. HIGMAN

But Mrs. Higman says she learned later that he had been at Watsonville with Mrs. Roberts.

Higman's wife says he owns property worth $125,000. She asks for alimony of $400 a month and a "reasonable fee," for her attorney, William S. White. White also represents Roberts in the alienation suit.

Victor Walberg, Pioneer Tailor of City Passes

Victor Walberg, 63 years of age, church worker and a merchant tailor in Los Angeles for the past thirty-five years, died from pneumonia yesterday at his home at 405 North Avenue 66.

The deceased was a member of the firm of Walberg Brothers, tailors, and a deacon of the Temple Baptist Church.

Funeral services will be conducted Friday at 10 a.m. from the chapel of Brown Brothers undertaking parlors, with interment in Hollywood Cemetery. Surviving are a widow, Mrs. Sophia Walberg; a daughter, Mrs. Ernest Bacon of Watsonville; two brothers, Alfred and Carl Walberg of Los Angeles, and two sons, Paul Walberg of Los Angeles and Harold Walberg of Fullerton.

Out at St. Mary's Academy 200 girls entered the contest and made such rapid progress that the school representative will be selected at a final school tryout next Monday. None of the other schools in this group have yet held their preliminary tryouts, and only one or two schools in the entire Pacific-Southwest have made similar progress. Incidentally, every class from freshman to seniors entered representatives in the contest.

SURVIVORS NAMED
Those who survived the various class elimination meets last week were the following:

Seniors: Helen Schubert, Margaret Wade, Eileen Nason; Rosa Phillips, Peggy Lewis, Alice Cantwell, Marianna Maxwell, Margaret Pryor and Mary Virginia Bryan.

Juniors: Mary Despers, Ellen Maguire, Fay Early, Catherine Caprino, Margaret Borchard, Betty Gildner, Nora Richards, Catherine Graham, Gertrude O'Neil and Helen Sparks.

Sophomores: Patricia Coats, Luella Sultner, Marguerite Dunne and Mary Kennedy.

Freshmen: Rosmarie Arena, Barbara Lill, Catherine Hale, Catherine Kelly, Barbara Connolly, Jeanette Whitter and Betty Starke.

Approximately sixty girls have entered the contest in Ramona Convent of the Holy Name at Alhambra. They are all at work on their orations preparing for the elimination meets to be held at the school between March 15 and 17. Among those who are competing for the right to represent the school in the district contest are Margaret Martin and Jane Conner, who won third and fourth places, respectively at the school last year, and Louise Darling, who with the other two girls, is prominent in debating.

MANY GIRLS ENTERING
Twenty-five girls at Los Angeles Catholic Girls' High School and about forty girls at St. Andrew's High School are preparing orations. There are a number of talented girls in both schools who are expected to make excellent showings in the finals.

Of the two boys' schools so far entered in the contest, Loyola High School has the larger number trying out. Preparation of orations in the three upper classes is being required in the school. The papers will be submitted to Prof. James J. Gill, who is in charge of that work, within the next two weeks. The five best orations in each class will be picked out and the students called upon to compete in the delivery of their orations to select the school winner.

Among the promising candidates this year are Vincent Downey and Francis Parrish, both prominent in oratory and debating and the most seasoned speakers in the school.

Sixty boys at the Cathedral High School, three or four of whom participated in last year's contest, are preparing orations for this year's event. According to Brother Victor, moderator of literary science, who is directing their work, they are making an extensive study of available material in order to have an adequate background for their orations. He reports that the interest in the contest is keener than ever before and that about twenty-five more boys are writing orations this year than competed last year. Raymond Burr, who placed second in the district contest last year, is trying again this year.

A PUZZLED PHILANTHROPIST
Consider the somewhat cynical state of Felix Della Vecchia, taxicab owner of Red Bank, N. J. Recently he announced that on the first Sunday morning of each month he would give a free ride to anyone wishing to attend church. The first Sundays have come and gone, but there were none in Red Bank to accept Vecchia's offer.

"I don't understand the people of Red Bank," he mourned. "They are either too lazy to go to church, even with free taxi service, or else they think that something is crooked or strange because they are getting something for nothing."

Vecchia should not blame the people of Red Bank. They were probably a bit bewildered, as Vecchia is now. There are undoubtedly lazy people in Red Bank, as there are in the rest of the world. There are others who take their own motor cars and spend Sunday in the country. There are yet a majority of others firmly grounded in the American tenet of faith, that one never does get anything for nothing. A ride in one of Vecchia's taxis might, at the very least, mean their photograph in the tabloids, or some such, which is rather a high price to pay for a ride to church, they reason.

Altogether, it's a queer world. If Vecchia had suggested free rides to the movies, now——[Detroit Free Press.

Although conditions in Egypt in the past year were not so good as before, more American goods were used than in any previous twelve months.

PRIVATE SCHOOL RIVALRY STRONG

Girls Out to Win Oratory Honors This Year

Boys Confident of Again Being Victorious

Loyola, Twice Winner, Has Promising Speakers

The competition among the Southern California private schools entered in the Fifth National and Third International Oratorical Contest promises to be more lively than in previous years. The girls in the various schools are determined to eliminate the boys' school representatives from the contest when the private school orators meet at St. Mary's Academy, March 30, in the district finals.

The boys say it can't be done, which makes the girls more certain that that is the very thing they are going to do.

The girls' schools entered in the great forensic event are St. Mary's Academy, Los Angeles Catholic Girls' High School, Ramona Convent of the Holy Name at Alhambra, and St. Andrew's High School at Pasadena. The boys' schools whose representatives will compete with the girls for the private school oratorical supremacy are Loyola High School and Cathedral High School of Los Angeles.

LOYOLA TWICE WINNER
In the past three years Loyola High School has twice won the district contest. Eugene F. McElwell, who won the district honors in 1925 for Loyola also won The Times' finals for championship of the Pacific-Southwest, and placed second in the national finals in Washington, D. C. Raymond F. Lee, who won the district finals last year, failed to go beyond The Times' semifinals. The 1926 district winner was Celeste Rush of the Los Angeles Catholic Girls' High School.
